WORLD FLIERS TO QUIT CANADA FOR U.S. TODAY

Post and Gatty Spending Night at Edmonton; Arrived in Rain.

GET GREAT WELCOME AS THEY LAND PLANE

TRACTOR IS REQUIRED TO TOW SHIP IN MUD

Globe-Girdlers Will Hop to New York or Cleveland This Morning.

Edmonton, Alt., June 30 (A.P.).—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the globe-girdling American birdmen, brought their monoplane down on rain-soaked Blatchford Field at 4:35 p. m., M. S. T. (6:35 p. m., E. S. T.) today, concluding a 1,450-mile flight from Fairbanks, Alaska.

A drenched crowd of several thousand broke police lines and sped toward the far side of the field, about 1,000 yards from the hangar, where the Winnie Mae came to rest.

Having traversed approximately 13,500 miles of their 16,000-mile route, the airmen appeared in need of rest, and announced shortly after their arrival that they would remain here until 3 a. m., M. S. T. (5 a. m., E. S. T.), tomorrow. At that time they will leave directly for the United States, but whether they will stop at Cleveland or Detroit or fly nontsop to New York is yet to be determined.

Supervised Berthing of Plane.

They were not too tired, however, to supervise closely the operation of a tractor which was required to tow their plane through ankle-deep mud to shelter. The fliers also declined to enter a limousine to carry them to a hotel until their plane was berthed.

The pair left Fairbanks at 3:24 a. m. (8:24 a. m., E. S. T.) today, fighting rain and murky skies to complete the Edmonton leg in approximately ten hours.

"We're very glad to be near home again, where we don't have to make signs," said Gatty as radio announcers, photographers and newspapermen gathered around the aviators.

"Yes, and where we don't have to eat black bread," interposed Post.

"I am a little tired, but otherwise I am O. K.," said Post of the flight. "We had a heavy tail wind all the way."

Greeted by Officials.

Gatty said he felt no ill effects from a blow from a propellor blade which he suffered at Solomon.

Official greetings were given them by the mayor of Edmonton, and Vernon Smith, minister of radio and telegraphy, welcomed the fliers in behalf of the Province of Alberta, while the crowd responded with three cheers. Then Post and Gatty were driven to a hotel for a rest.

Fairbanks, Alaska, June 30 (A.P.). Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, America's two young airmen, who seem bent on exceeding even their own ambition to fly around the world in ten days, left here at 3:24 a. m. (8:24 a. m., E. S. T.) today for Edmonton, Alberta, their next scheduled stop on a record-breaking flight.

Sighted Over Carmacks.

About three hours later a plane believed to be the Winnie Mae was sighted over Carmacks, Yukon, 450 miles from here on a direct line to Edmonton.

Tomorrow the fliers expect to be back in New York, more than a day ahead of the ten-day time they set for their trip around the world. After a stop here last night, during which their ship was checked over, serviced, washed and a new propeller installed, replacing the one bent at Solomon, the fliers nosed their monoplane southward over the mountain ranges.

Although they were not in bed until 10:30 last night, Post and Gatty were at the field at 2:30 o'clock this morning supervising the final work

Speeding away from the towering buildings of New York City Aviators Post and Gatty landed at Harbor Grace for fuel, then hopped across the Atlantic. After stops in Chester, England, and Hanover, Germany, the two fliers dropped down on Berlin, Germany's busy capital. From there they flew to Moscow with its stately gilt-topped buildings, and then across the barren wastes and mountains of Siberia and Alaska. FARM BOARD LIMITS TOTAL WHEAT SALES

60,000,000 Bushels Allotted for Year, Exclusive of Present Offers.

(United Press.)

The Federal Farm Board announced last night it will limit its sales of Government-owned wheat during the fiscal year beginning last midnight to a maximum of 60,000,000 bushels, exclusive of sales to foreign governments or their agencies now being considered.

The board's decision was announced after a day of almost continuous session, during the course of which Chairman James C. Stone conferred with President Hoover. Mr. Stone said the statement as issued conforms with the President's wishes. He declared there has been no yielding on the part of the board in response to political pressure from the White House or elsewhere. Yesterday's statement, Mr. Stone said, is merely a "clarification" of the board's position announced March 23.

The board refused to withhold all wheat for a specified time, or until a definite price level was attained, as has been suggested by senators and representatives from the farm States.

There was also a sharp warning to the effect that wheat producers must restrict production if they hope for a permanent improvement in the market. "Without such reduction, there is little hope of any long-term continued profitable wheat production in the United States in competition with new wheat countries abroad," the statement said.

Yesterday's "clarification" is believed to be a compromise between the views of farm belt political leaders and the opinion of the board as to the best business methods to be pursued with respect to the huge wheat surplus now controlled by the Government-financed Grain Stabilization Corporation.

The pressure for "clarification" reached the danger point last Saturday, when President Hoover let it be known that he thought the board should make a definite statement of policy. This was after Senate Leader James E. Watson (Republican), of Indiana, visited the Farm Board and the White House, and Vice President Curtis joined in with a telegram from Kansas urging some measures to protect the bumper Kansas wheat crop.

While Mr. Stone insisted yesterday's statement represents the unanimous opinion of the board, one board official commented sourly, "Politics and economics just don't mix."

The theory that Mr. Hoover was allowing the board to act with entire independence was carefully culti-

Slavery in Liberia

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

Tribute Is Exacted Of Liberian Natives

Hinterland Kept Impoverished and Virtually Enslaved by Officials in Monrovia; Rich Requisitions Go to President.

Compared to the spectacle of whole villages toiling without reward to furnish Liberian officials with rice, palm oil, chickens, goats and occasionally cattle, the Fernando Poo "boy" traffic, bitterly complained of by the International Commission in its recent report, dwindles to insignificance. The "boys" at least get something—specifically $25—for their two years of killing toil in one of the unhealthiest spots in the world, but often hinterland natives get nothing for their labor but abuse. Moreover, forced labor in the form of requisitioned porters and carriers who are never paid and seldom fed is as common as the brilliant sunshine. Since the natives, even the chiefs, are unmercifully beaten if they refuse to do as they are bid, it is not too far-fetched to say that they are enslaved.

Reports of these conditions in the hinterland had come to me and in order to find out whether or not they were true, I left Monrovia on March 10, accompanied by W. W. George, an American vice consul, and about fifteen carriers and traveled over 500 miles afoot through the countries of the Vai, Gola, G'Bande, Mendi, Buzi and Kpwessi peoples, returning to

Firemen Save Nag, Trapped In Old House

A fire truck company and the rescue squad solved the difficulties of a horse which wandered into the fire-seared ruins of a house on Ridge road near Anacostia road southeast, late yesterday and stepped in a hole in the floor.

The animal, grazing in a nearby field, indiscreetly decided to explore the crumbling manse. Dobbin's rescuers feared, as they lifted him to safety, that his leg might be broken, but he emerged unhurt.

The firemen turned the horse over to its owner, George Thomas.

5 Children Die, 28 Hurt In Train-Bus Collision

Bucharest, Roumania, June 30 (A.P.).—Five children were killed and 28 others injured today in the collision of a train with a motorbus, filled with school children, at a grade crossing near here.

The bus was destroyed by fire after its gasoline tank exploded. Many of the children were severely burned.

Detroit Accepts Loan Of $5,000,000 by Ford

Detroit, June 30 (A.P.).—The City of Detroit today accepted an offer by the Ford Motor Co. for the loan of $5,000,000 o tide Detroit over until taxes start coming in July 15. The loan, city officials reported, is at 3½ per cent interest and extends until September 15 with the possibility that further loans can be obtained at that time if needed.

John C. Nagel, president of the council, made the announcement today at a meeting of the council with G. Hall Roosevelt, city controller. Finances of the city have been at a low ebb. A loan of $1,000,000 by New York bankers was made yesterday in order to meet the June 30 pay roll.

U.S. PLANNING DRIVE ON FAKE SECURITIES

Will Use Mail Fraud Laws as Weapon; Dodds Will Direct Campaign.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Government plans a new campaign against bucket shops and firms selling securities of little value, using the mail fraud statutes as a weapon.

Attorney General Mitchell said yesterday the economic depression had brought to the surface numerous instances in which firms had "been pretty free with other people's money." He disclosed the Justice Department's criminal division would be provided with a special new corps of assistants to carry on this work.

"There is nothing worse," Mr. Mitchell asserted, "than robbing poor folks of their life savings by tricking them into buying glittering securities that often are worthless.

"The proper way to operate against the sale of such securities would be to have more strict State supervision of the firms, thus stopping sales before they could do damage. Numerous States, however, have asked help from the Government in curbing these activities."

The work will be carried on under the direction of Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Boy Believed Drowned In Fall From Launch

Harbor Precinct police late last night were dragging the Potomac River off Alexandria for the body of a 16-year-old colored boy who is believed to have drowned when he fell out of a boat. He is James Kyer, of Alexandria.

According to police, young Kyer and three companions had taken to a gasoline boat for relief from the heat. The boy is said to have gone overboard when he stood up in the small craft. With him were Leroy Franklin, Robert Jones and John Blondheim, all colored.

U. S. Toll Nears 600 As Heat Fells 7 Here

Grain Fields Fired; Oat Crop Menaced; Gale Sweeps Gulf.

(Associated Press.)

All America, except the far West and the New England Seaboard suffered yesterday from sizzling temperatures, as the sweltering spell invaded Eastern States. The toll of deaths attributed to the heat neared 600.

Relief by tomorrow was held out for only the Northwest. Elsewhere there were only vague hopes.

The weather man ran the gantlet from snow flurries in Glacier Park, Montana, to temperatures of near 110 in the South.

A high pressure area over Washington was willing, weather prophets said, to cool its way eastward, but a stagnated low area over North Dakota kept the relief back.

This high area, however, afforded relief to the Pacific Coast areas, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico. It was only 75 in San Francisco. Southward the thermometer registered higher. Los Angeles reporting an 86.

Wheeling, W. Va., with a scorching 100, topped the heat's Eastern invasion. It was 90 over most of New York State, Lake Erie saved Buffalo, where it was only 76. Boston's 78 was typical of the Northeast Seaboard.

Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and northern Mississippi and Louisiana

Seven persons were prostrated by the heat as temperatures reached a street maximum of 100 degrees and an official one of 93 here yesterday.

None of those overcome is in a serious condition. Mrs. Vivian Kuntz, 43, of 1448 E street southeast, stricken while near Hutchins place and Conduit road northwest, was taken to Georgetown Hospital for treatment.

Overcome while at work in the accounting department of the American Automobile Association at Seventeenth and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, Mrs. Dorothy Forsyth, of Mount Rainier, Md., responded to treatment by a private physician, but was forbidden to leave the office until after sundown.

The heat is believed to have made William L. Payne, 36, lose control of his taxicab at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest and crash into a Nevin bus parked near the intersection. He was removed to Emergency Hospital and treated for cuts and bruises.

A. M. Manning, 50 years old old, of 709 Eighth street northwest, was seeking relief from the heat in Judiciary Square when he collapsed. He was taken to Casualty Hospital for treatment.

Pitts Loses Jail Liberties For Secret Letter to Wife

Effort to Smuggle Missive Through Lawyer Brings Discipline; Attorney Claims Ignorance of Censorship Rule and Escapes Bar From Building.

G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the F. H. Smith Co., has been relieved of his duties as tiersman at the District Jail and confined to a cell because he attempted, with the aid of a local attorney, to smuggle a letter out of the institution, Col. William L. Peake, superintendent of the jail, said yesterday.

When the attorney called at the jail to talk to his client Monday, Pitts was seen to hand him a letter. The conversation was not interrupted, but officials asked the attorney, as he left the jail, if he had received such a letter. He said he had, and, taking it from his pocket, he tore it up. He saved the pieces of the letter, however, which is said to have been addressed to Mrs. Pitts.

Col. Peake said yesterday that no further action would be taken against either of the men involved. The attorney, whose name is being withheld, claimed to be ignorant of the rules that letters must be censored. For this reason Col. Peake said, it is not planned to bar him from the jail in the future.

On the other hand, the prisoner knew the rules, and for this reason will be confined in his cell day and

Vanderbilt Denies Cruelty to Spouse

Files Answer to Cross-Complaint Made in Divorce Suit.

Reno, Nev., June 30 (A.P.).—Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., today filed a reply to the cross-complaint of his wife, Mary Weir Vanderbilt, placing the divorce action originated by Vanderbilt in a position which would permit its going to trial at any time. The reply is a denial to the allegations of cruelty made by Mrs. Vanderbilt.

There is a possibility Mrs. Vanderbilt may ask for a bill of particulars, but there has been no indication yet such a demand will be made.

Vanderbilt first filed for divorce following a reputed altercation with Peter Arno, New York cartoonist, over alleged attentions of Arno to Mrs. Vanderbilt. Mrs. Arno (Lois Long) yesterday was granted a divorce from the cartoonist.

U. S. READY TO START DEBT DELAY WITHOUT FRANCE, LONDON HEARS

Franco-U. S. Impasse Centers on 3 Points

Compromise Is Likely on 2 Issues, Officials Here Believe.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Officials, high in administration circles yesterday outlined the three obstacles that have brought about an apparent impasse in the French-American negotiations on the President's plan for a one-year holiday on war debt and reparations payments.

On two points, it appeared that the United States and France might work out a compromise. With regard to the third point, it appeared that this was something France would have to work out with her allies in Europe.

The three points at issue, it was made known, are:

First—There is the question of the amount of time that shall be allowed Germany in which to pay back the reparations payments that would be suspended for one year under the Hoover plan.

France originally suggested that Germany be made to repay the sum next year, making a double payment in 1932.

The United States objected to that. France then suggested that Germany be given five years. This country again objected, and suggested that Germany be given 25 years.

The United States, however, is not going to insist on this 25-year plan. The prospect then, is that a compromise will be reached on this point that will call for a 10-year funding plan, or something approximating this.

Second—France suggests that the unconditional payments which she insists that Germany make to the Bank of International Settlements be made the basis of loans not only to Germany, but to other countries in Central Europe, presumably Jugoslavia and Greece, France's allies.

The United States insists that the money which Germany puts into the B. I. S. be made the basis of loans to Germany alone, as that country most needs the money.

The possibility of a compromise is seen here, too. Do Jugoslavia and Greece need money? If they do, why couldn't the Bank of England, the American Federal Reserve Board, the Bank of International Settlements others extend credits to these two countries just as they did to Germany the other day? If this were done, it is believed France might be willing to concede that all the money Germany puts into the B. I. S. be loaned back to Germany.

Moreover, it was pointed out yesterday, Yugoslavia and Greece have

English Banker Warns Of Debt Plan Defeat

London, June 30 (A.P.).—If anything should happen to interfere with the operation of the Hoover moratorium plan, it would be worse than if the plan never had been offered, Sir Josiah Stamp, British economist and director of the Bank of England, said today.

"The plan has raised the hopes of all of us," he said, "and to dash them now would make the situation worse than it was in the first place."

He expressed confidence, however, that the plan will be accepted by all the nations concerned.

"By offering a moratorium instead of making Germany ask for it," he added, "President Hoover has brought the most out of the situation psychologically."

Laborite Organ Asserts Other Powers Have Been Notified.

LOANS TO GERMANY SAID TO BE PLANNED

French Chamber, by 197-5 Vote, Approves Course Premier Pursues.

London, July 1 (Wednesday) (U.P.). The Daily Herald, Laborite organ, said today that Germany, Britain, Italy, and other European states had been notified of Washington's willingness to initiate a war debt holiday immediately without the participation of France, if France refuses to cooperate.

According to the Herald's diplomatic correspondent, if the plan is carried out, it is likely that the United States will lend money to Germany, with which to pay annuities to France, from French debt payments to the United States.

Paris, June 30 (A.P.).—It was reported late tonight that a meeting between Secretary Mellon and Premier Laval scheduled for tomorrow morning had been postponed until tomorrow afternoon.

One reason ascribed for the postponement was that more time might be needed for arrival of the American reply to the French counter-proposals in connection with President Hoover's moratorium offer. Members of the embassy staff remained on duty all night, awaiting word from Washington.

Another reason, it was said, was that Premier Laval and Pierre Flandin, finance minister, might have to stay up all night for the Chamber of Deputies debate on supplementary budget credits sent back from the Senate with modifications.

By a vote of 197 to 5 the Senate tonight gave Premier Laval a free hand to continue his negotiations with Andrew Mellon and other American representatives concerning President Hoover's proposed war debt holiday.

The vote came at the end of a vivid session in which the Hoover proposal and the manner in which it was made were subjected to violent attack. About 100 senators abstained from the vote on the order of the day approving the premier's reply to the President and the manner in which the premier has conducted the negotiations with Mr. Mellon.

The government did not pose a question of confidence, but M. Laval appealed for a "massive vote" of support in a situation which he described as "the most delicate since the World War." He told the senators the government stands in need of their confidence "more today than yesterday and perhaps tomorrow more than today."

When the government was subjected to criticism on the ground of its surprise at the move for a customs accord between Germany and Austria and at the announcement of the Hoover moratorium plan, he replied, "to avoid such surprises we believe we ought to have complete and frank conversations with Germany. These conversations will soon take place and I am confident of good results. I can not during these difficult negotiations make a more complete declaration and you will understand my reserve."

Senator Lemery opened the attack with particular reference to the manner in which President Hoover's proposal was announced.

"Two years ago," said he, "the United States took us by the throat to force from us money for war debts. Now they take us by the throat to prevent our collection of reparations from Germany."

He mentioned again the fear that Germany might use capital released by the moratorium to build an attacking fleet of vessels such as the new "vest-pocket" cruiser Deutschland, and he asserted that the Hoover plan of a one-year moratorium would be too short-lived to do any good, or would extend over too long a period in which France would have to foot the bill.

"Our reply does not satisfy me," he said, "It was written in unjustifiable haste. American prestige is so great that our own government was blinded."

Senator Henry de Jouvenel, attributing the crisis in Germany to Hitler-

TWO ARE ACQUITTED IN GORDON MURDER

Stein and Greenberg Cleared of Slaying of Strangled Vice Witness.

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—The slaying of Vivian Gordon, vice witness, remained officially unsolved tonight when a Bronx jury acquitted Harry Stein and Samuel Greenberg of her murder. The jury, after a trial of more than two weeks, deliberated four hours and twenty minutes.

Thetwo men were arrested April 8, more than a month after the body of Miss Gordon, alleged blackmailer and vice inquiry witness, was found strangled to death in Van Court'andt Park.

The State's contention, based principally on the testimon, of Harry Schlitten, self-designated driver of the automobile in which the woman was slain, was that Stein and Greenberg had killed her because a man referred to in the trial merely as "Radeloff" desired her out of the way.

In his summation, I. P. Adlerman, assistant district attorney, declared "Radeloff" was John A. Radeloff, the slain woman's attorney to whom she referred in her diary as "a man she feared." Radeloff was arrested soon after the body was found, but later released.

Neither defendant took the stand during the trial, basing the defense mainly on alibis.

The verdict was greeted with smiles by the defendants, although Stein's smile faded when he was led back to jail pending arrival of a warrant from New York County, where he is wanted on a charge of robbery.

MONTGOMERY AUDIT ORDERED BY BOARD

Action Follows Accusations Made Against Present Administration.

Audit of the financial records of Montgomery County from the time the present administration went into office sixteen years ago to the present date is provided in a resolution adopted yesterday by the county commissioners. The audit is to be made by a nationally-known, well-recognized firm of public accountants yet to be chosen.

The commissioners declared in their resolution that they feel that the expenditure of even so much as $25,000 for a conclusive and convincing audit of the county's accounts will be worth while if it stems the tide of accusations of dishonesty and misappropriation of funds by county officials that is intimated in recent attacks by forces opposed to the present county administration.

It is the answer of the county commissioners to the charges made in a secret petition recently uncovered in the county for which no member of any of the opposition groups will admit responsibility. The petition asks the judges of the circuit court to convene a special session of the grand jury and to bring in a public accountant from outside the State to make a thorough examination of the county records, alleging misappropriation of county funds and other misdeeds. The petition apparently having died a natural death, the commissioners decided to order the audit under such circumstances that it could not be questioned.

The county commissioners state that they have every "confidence and

Boy Ignites Cleaning Fluid, Burning Brother to Death

Lights Candle as Mother Prepares Mixture to Renovate Mattress; Lad, 3, Playing Nearby, Loses Life; Parent Severely Injured.

Cleaning fluid accidentally ignited by a candle in the hands of his 10-year-old brother yesterday burned to death Robert Burroughs, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burroughs, of Norbeck, Md.

Mrs. Burroughs was severely burned about the hands when she attempted to smother the flames. Both mother and son were taken to the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, Md., where Robert died three hours later.

According to the story told hospital attaches by Mrs. Burrough, she had prepared a solution of gasoline and kerosene preparatory to cleaning a mattress at her Norbeck home.

The older boy was said to have struck a light to a candle close by. The can containing the fluid burst into flame and Mrs. Burroughs hurled it behind her, not knowing that her 3-year-old son was playing there. His body was badly burned before she could extinguish the flames.

Volunteer fire apparatus of Rockville and Sandy Spring responded to a fire alarm sent in, and the blaze was put out before much damage was done to the home. Mrs. Burroughs returned to her home after treatment at the hospital.

ism and other Nationalist movements rather than to the reparations obligations, asserted:

"When we recall President Hoover's great soul and his service during the war, we are amazed that he should forget the victims of that war and the debts contracted by the invader."

Former President Millerand asserted that "so many ties bind us to the United States that we don't want to lose its precious friendship, but that friendship might not resist the renewal of a war such as we have just suffered.

"In accepting the Hoover proposal we have undertaken to go to Germany's aid and thus conversations with the Germans are necessary.

"Two questions bother us—the Polish frontier and Anschluss (Teutonic political union).

"All of us want the Polish frontier to remain intact. Now is the time to obtain an eastern Locarno and annulment of Anschluss."

Premier Wildly Applauded.

The premier spoke last. The applause which thundered through the Senate as he sat down heralded the vote which leaves him unhampered to resume his negotiations with Secretary Mellon tomorrow.

While awaiting instructions from Washington for their session tomorrow with Premier Laval, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Ambassador Edge kept in touch tonight with the heated debate in the French Senate on the Hoover war debt proposal and the French answer.

Mr. Mellon and Mr. Edge today had an extended conference at which they again took up every phase of the Franco-American negotiations and sought a way to agreement.

Some French leaders continued to express displeasure over what they considered insufficient consultation with France before the Hoover plan was made public. The complimentary things said about the nation in the House of Commons yesterday by Prime Minister MacDonald, Winston Churchill and Stanley Baldwin had a mollifying effect.

Representative newspapers considered that the utterances in the British Parliament clear the air for next year's disarmament conference and indicate that Great Britain realizes France is armed only to insure herself against a war of aggression.

Break Called Unthinkable.

"Winston Churchill," says Le Temps, "paid France the greatest possible homage when he said that our army is the only back door of stability in Europe."

The same newspaper said it could not imagine the possibility of a rupture between France and the United States. Such a break, it said, would "not only ruin the chances for success of Mr. Hoover's initiative; it also would ruin the American interests he is trying to save and a collapse in Germany would compromise the interests of all Europe."

Le Temps urged conciliation on this all important issue "which can not all-important issue "which can not be brought to success without French cooperation and which in no case can be carried out against France."

The Nationalist Journal Des Debats speculates on the possibility that Germany might utilize the projected credit under the moratorium to increase her armaments and demand treaty revision, asserting that "if this should happen the United States will have a heavy responsibility."

The consensus, however, seemed to be that an eventual agreement between France and the United States is inevitable in the face of the common disaster which all interests agree would result from a failure of the continuing negotiations.

approved of the Hoover plan in principle.

Third, France suggests that she be excused from putting up a guarantee of 500,000,000 reichmarks in the Bank of International Settlements in the event Germany declares a moratorium on her conditional payments in the next few years.

Under the Young plan, there are various kinds of reparations. There are, for example, conditional payments and unconditional payments. Conditional payments, under the Young plan, are subject to a moratorium. That is, Germany, announcing she is not in position to pay, may declare a two-year moratorium or suspension, on conditional payments.

Although Germany, under the Young plan, can call a two-year moratorium on conditional payments, she is, however, forced to make good each year on the unconditional payments that go toward rehabilitating the devastated areas.

France, in order to maintain the integrity of the Young reparations plan, insists that Germany place these unconditoinal payments into the Bank of Internatonal Settlements.

France Gets Lion's Share.

The United States does not object to Germany making these unconditional payments. This is an important point in itself, for the United States does not want to impair the Young plan. However, the United States does object to those unconditional payments being made the basis of loans to Balkan states. It also objects to the third point France makes, that the 500,000,000 reichmarks in unconditional payments that Germany makes this year be looked upon as an offset to France's guarantee in the event Germany declares a moratorium on her conditional payments in the next few years.

France receives the major share of the total reparations Germany is obliged to pay under the Young plan. France also receives about five-sixths of the unconditional payments Germany is obliged to make—that is, she receives five-sixths of the reparations which Germany must pay, reparations upon which Germany can not declare a moratorium. The other creditor countries, however, are not so well off. Belgium, for example, is not guaranteed any fixed reparations.

EPISCOPALIANS HEAR OF MISSIONS' WORK

Blue Mountain Conference of Church Starts at Frederick.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 30.—Work in foreign fields was briefly described by missionaries at tonight's session of the sixth annual Blue Mountain Conference of the Protestant Episcopal Church, at Hood College. The meeting was in charge of the Rev Thomas A. Conover, of New Jersey acting chaplain.

The speakers were the Rev Dr. John Chapman, of Philadelphia, for 47 years a missionary at Anvik, Alaska, succeeded by his son, the Rev. Henry Chapman; Dean and Mrs. Knoll, Haiti; Mrs. Frank Persons, Cuba, Mrs. C. L. Perkins, China; Miss Falck and Miss Ann Graff, Shanghai, all on furloughs.

The registration was a few less than 200, with others expected tomorrow. A sunset service which will be held every evening was led by the Right Rev. Wyatt Brown, Bishop of the Diocese of Harrisburg, Pa., who will also lead the service tomorrow evening. Today's arrivals included the Rev. F. W. Fitts, rector of St. John's Church, Roxbury, and the Rev. Frederick Holsey, rector of St. Ambrose Church, Philadelphia. The Right Rev. Robert E. L. Strider, Bishop of West Virginia, and other clergymen are expected tomorrow.

The Rev. Chauncey E. Snowden, rector of the Memorial Church of St. Paul, Philadelphia, led the church mission group and will also lead the laymen's conference beginning Friday and continuing for two days. All of the conference groups assembled on the campus today under the trees. The Rev. Alexander C. Zabriskie, of the Virginia Theological Seminary, instructor in the teachings of Jesus, has the largest group. Dr. Jeffrey R. Brackett, member of the social service department, diocese of Massachusetts, is the leader of the theory of Christian social service group, and Miss Mary S. Brisley, executive secretary of the National Council of the Church Mission of Help, will conduct a conference each day on social and church work. Miss Mildred Hewitt, of the department of religious education of the national council, is the leader of the church school conference.

Sessions of the State Library Institute, under the auspices of the Maryland Public Library Commission and the State Department of Education, which convened at Hood College yesterday afternoon, began today under the direction of Miss Adeline Pratt, director of the Maryland, Public Library Advisory Commission. The faculty is as follows: Miss Pratt, Miss Alice R. Laton, librarian of the public library of Harrisburg, Pa.; Norris McClellan, librarian, Syracuse, N. Y.; Joseph H. Ruth Nichols Home In Air Ambualnce Aviatrix, Hurt on Sea Hop, Will Rest for Her Second Effort.

Armonk, N. Y., June 30 (A.P.).—Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, came home smiling today in a "flying ambulance" from St. John, N. B., where her proposed transatlantic flight was interrupted eight days ago by a crash in which she was injured. She lay on an Army cot, strapped to the fusilage and protected from shocks by bags of straw.

Clarence Chamberlin, Miss Nichols' technical advisor, piloted the plane on the 550-mile trip, which was made in five and a half hours. Mrs. Chamberlin and Mabyl Jones, a St. John nurse, also were passengers. Miss Nichols was grinning as attendants at the Armonk Airport opened the doors of the big cabin monoplane.

"I have never had a smoother ride in my life in any sort of conveyance," she said. "It proves what a grand thing aviation is. Now I'm going to rest and prepare for my trip across the ocean."

Miss Nichols seemed cheerful and free from pain until she was lifted into the ambulance. Then she gritted her teeth and covered her face with her hands.

PITTS IS DISCIPLINED FOR LETTER TO WIFE

night. As tiersman he had a certain amount of liberty within the south tier of cells, although locked up at night.

Pitts recently appealed from a sentence of fourteen years imposed on him in District Supreme Court. When first committed to the jail, he was considered for a post in the jail office. Instead, he was given the job of tiersman, which combines the functions of a messenger and some desk work. His cell is in the south tier, where dangerous prisoners and those sentenced to the penitentiary are kept.

After the interview with the attorney, Col. Peake questioned Pitts for some time. It is said that the broker admitted sending several letters to his wife through the attorney, and that he admitted that other letters had been brought in to him by the same means. Attorneys who visit the jail and their clients are separated by a grating, but the letter was passed through this. Pitts was under special surveillance when the letter was handed on Monday.

DEAD NEARING 600 FROM SIZZLING HEAT

had no relief and none was predicted. temperatures ranged from 90 upward, reaching 108 in Monticello, Ga.

New Orleans and the Mississippi Gulf Coast were cooled off by a gale that caused some damage, but dropped the mercury to the 70s.

The grain belt was blistered by summer's blast. Fields were fired in many States. Hundreds of beasts of burden have died in the fields. The oats crop in several States was threatened with total destruction.

Free Feed for Live Stock.

A survey in Fargo, N. Dak., disclosed that feed must be furnished free to 15 per cent of the State's live stock. Only crops in the Red River Valley prospered.

In Illinois alone there were 31 deaths from prostrations yesterday. Twenty-two were in Chicago. Over the whole down-State the thermometer averaged around 100.

Kansas opened the third week of 100-degree weather. No spot in the State has had even a shower for three weeks.

Many of the deaths reported were attributable to drownings. The heat quickened death for many aging persons.

For the vacationist to Pikes Peak there was joy aplenty. The mountain top was covered with snow and freezing temperatures prevailed.

54 Are Dead in Indiana.

Four more heat deaths in Indiana Monday brought the total in the present wave to 54. Temperatures climbed up over the State again, reaching 95 in Indianapolis.

Iowa deaths totaled 24 yesterday, an aggregate of 81 in the last nine days. The temperature was 95 to 100 over all the State.

Other readings: Duluth, 92; Davenport, Iawo, 102; Lincoln, Nebr., St. Paul, Minn., and Omaha, 98.

Many points in Wisconsin reported 100 degrees. Even in the north resort section it reached 90. Twenty-five heat deaths, including drownings Monday brought a six-day total of 63.

In Chicago the water extension bureau reported that in 24 hours ending Tuesday afternoon, 1,259,270,000 gallons, a record amount, had been pumped, surpassing the 1,251,334,000 galons pumped July 25, 1930, when the temperature was officially 96 degrees.

come while shopping in the Arcade Market on Fourteenth street near Park road northwest yesterday afternoon. She was taken to her home for treatment.

George Edward Harris, colored, 67 years old, a tinner of 821 R street northwest, suffered a stroke while working on a roof at 712 Jefferson street northwest. He was treated at Freedman's hospital. For an hour Harris could not remember where he lived, as a result of the effects of the stroke, and Thirteenth Precinct police assisted in locating his house.

District Worker Is Overcome.

Joseph Stoddard, colored, 28 years old, of 160 Levis street northeast, employed by the District trash department, was overcome while working in front of 525 Ninth street northeast. He also was treated at Casualty.

No relief from the broiling weather is in sight, according to predictions by the Weather Bureau. Generally fair and continued warm weather is predicted for today and tomorrow, with variable winds today.

The maximum temperature yesterday was reached about 4:30 p. m. The street temperature was recorded at the kiosk in front of The Post Building, on Pennsylvania avenue.

Fat Men Are Honest, Prison Expert Holds

Kukuoka, Japan, June 30 (U.P.).—"Fat men are honest," Dr. Kinzo Saza, sanitation expert of the local prison, proved in a thesis submitted the Imperial University here. He was awarded an honorary degree for his research.

Saza's investigation covered the life careers of thousands of criminals. He found that:

Very few fat men ever commit criminal acts and those who do can be reformed easily.

Most criminals are slender and have been so all their lives.

Thieves, contrary to the popular supersition in Japan, have arms of only average length.

POST AND GATTY SET SHIP DOWN IN CANADA

of conditioning their ship. Within a few minutes after the mechanics pronounced the plane ready, it was disappearing in the early morning light toward Edmonton.

Although weather conditions here were ideal, reports from Edmonton indicated a heavy rain, falling since yesterday, was continuing today.

How far north of the Canadian city the rain extended was not known.

Appeared to Be Tired.

Post and Gatty appeared more tired, after their short sleep, than when they arrived. The plane refused to rise on the first run down the field with 350 gallons of gasoline. On her second attempt, however, she lifted, but barely cleared a woodpile and wires across the end of the field.

Both men were in good spirits, and despite the ruggedness of the country over which the route lay, they indicated they thought the remainder of the flight to New York would be "clear sailing."

Both Post and Gatty termed their flight across Siberia and the Bering Sea as worse than any other stretch of territory or water covered. They arrived at Solomon, near Nome, late yesterday from Khabarovsk, Siberia, and after a three-hour stop, flew here.

"It was worse than the Atlantic hop," said Gatty, "and the hop between Berlin and Moscow, which was bad and rough. We not only had to cross lots of open water and rugged country, but most of the way we fought against fog and rain.

"For practically the entire distance we flew over the water and then high above the clouds and fog."

Post said he flew for three hours and a half Sunday night unable to see more than the glass on the cockpit windows.

The country between here and Edmonton is mountainous and sparsely settled, there being only a few small trading posts on a direct air line between the cities.

Hillig and Hoiriis Make Return to Copenhagen

FARM BOARD LIMITS TOTAL WHEAT SALES

vated yesterday. Mr. Stone, after his conference with the President, left the White House by a rear entrance. Meanwhile inquiries at the board as to whether the chairman had gone to the White House met with a blunt refusal to answer. The statement finally issued was agreed to in substance by the board early in the day.

Mr. Stone said it was not changed as a result of his conference with Mr. Hoover, but the board remained in session wrestling with its verbiage for nearly five hours after he returned from the White House. As finally issued, it contained the declaration that, "the more favorable international situation that will be created by the President's debt plan, gives hope of a generally more favorable export market for farm products during the forthcoming year."

Silent on Wheat Total.

Mr. Stone declined to say how much wheat the Grain Stabilization Corporation has on hand, or how much is involved in pending negotiations for sales for foreign government. The former, according to reliable information, is in excess of 200,000,000 bushels.

The board's declaration as to what it will and what it will not do was as follows:

"The Farm Board has been requisted from numerous quarters to have the stabilization corporation announce specific prices below which the corporation would not sell its stabilization holdings.

"The proposal that prices be fixed at which the corporation would sell is not in the interest of the farmers. If a high price were fixed, then the stabilization holdings would never be disposed of, and would continue to overhang the future of American agriculture. If a reasonable price were fixed on today's outlook, such a declaration would tend to keep the price depressed to a point below such limits. It would distort the whole movement of wheat and congest storage by inducing excessive shipments whenever the price began to approach the figure set.

Limit of Sales.

"The Grain Ctabilization will limit its sales of wheat from July 1, 1931, to July 1, 1932, to a cumulative maximum of 5,000,000 bushels per month. This is approximately 7 per cent of the estimated bushelage of the 1931 crop.

HOOVER-LAVAL DUEL WATCHED BY BERLIN

Germany Continues Aloof as France and America Seek Agreement.

Berlin, June 30 (A.P.).—Germany's attitude of watchful waiting pending the outcome of deliberations at Paris continues. The nation's attention is focused on what is regarded as a duel between President Hoover and Premier Laval over the American moratorium plan.

Some degree of anxiety has been manifested over the unyielding attitude of France on some important points, but the hope prevails that France eventually will join the rest of the world to give Germany a year of rest from reparations. That hope is based mainly on the announcement at Washington that no proposals not in complete accord with the spirit of the Hoover plan will be accepted.

Payments Are Due July 15.

It is pointed out here that there is no need for nervousness because tomorrow is the day on which the Hoover plan would have come into operation while nothing decisive has been accomplished.

July 1 still can mark the beginning of the year of relief, because Germany's actual payments to the Bank for International Settlements are not due until July 15, thus giving other fortnight for final arrangements which could be made retroactive.

If, contrary to expectations, the negotiations at Paris should fail, it is said, Germany would be faced with the immediate necessity of applying for a transfer moratorium in accordance with the provisions of the Young plan.

Germany Remains Aloof.

Meanwhile some newspapers of the Right comment with an appearance of satisfaction that now for the first time in the history of the reparations another power is negotiating with France on Germany's behalf.

It is generally agreed, despite differences of opinion abroad, that Germany at this stage of the game must hold aloof, making no attempt to interfere in the battle of diplomacy between Washington and Paris.

Chancellor Bruening, of course, will not leave Berlin until the Franco-American negotiations are concluded, but he hopes to snatch a brief vacation before the American and British statesmen come to Germany for conferences next month.

Five Towns to Go For Water System

Proposed New York Reservoir Will Cover Present Sites of Villages.

Binghamton, N. Y., June 30 (U.P.).—Five thriving Delaware County villages will be wiped out to give New Yorkers an extra supply of drinking water.

If condemnation proceedings are successful, Shaverton, Arena, Pepacton, Union Grove and Runraven, containing nearly 800 persons, will be replaced by a 22-mile lake.

The Delaware River will be dammed near East Branch, according to construction plans. A farm has been located with bed rock 90 feet below the surface, offering a satisfactory dam foundation.

The valley to be flooded contains the little Delaware and Northway Railroad. It was purchased several years ago by Samuel Bosoff, of New York, for $470,000.

HATLESS TRIO CITED IN 3 INDICTMENTS

Robbery of Drug Stores and Grocery Charged in Jury True Bills.

Three indictments charging robbery were returned by the District grand jury yesterday against Peter Sala, Nicholas Vasilion and John M. Ross, known in Washington as the "hatless trio." Two charged the trio with robbing drug stores and the third charged the men robbed a grocery store.

The grand jury also returned a fourth indictment naming Sala and Vasilion as those who took the automobile of Charles S. Miller on June 16. The machine later was recovered by police near Alexandria after it had been badly damaged in a smash-up.

The Mount Pleasant pharmacy at 3146 Mount Pleasant street northwest, where James M. Clark, one of the proprietors, was held up and robbed of $5, and the cash register was robbed of $420 and some keys, was involved in one of the charges against the trio. The Whittlesey Drug Stores, Inc., 1564 Wisconsin avenue, where the manager, Edwin O. Cockey, reported the theft of $80 from the cash register, was the other.

The third indictment charges that the three men went to the grocery store of Leon Bauman, 1452 D street northeast, May 30, and at the point of a pistol, took $33 from the cash register.

Tract in Montgomery Is Sold for $60,000

CONDITIONS IN FIFTH DISTRICT UNCHANGED

Reserve Agent's Report Says Activities Stay Same as in Previous Month.

Richmond, Va., June 30 (A.P.).—Business of the Fifth Federal Reserve District marked time during the month of June, William W. Hoxton, chairman and Federal reserve agent of the Bank of Richmond, said today in the June review of credit, business and agricultural conditions issued today by the Fifth District Bank.

Mr. Hoxton reported that there was no marked change in business or industry in the district; that immediate needs were being filled as they arose, but few advance orders were being made, and few future commitments were reported.

At the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, he said, credit extended to member banks increased moderately between May 15 and June 15, and the bank further increased its total earning assets by purchases of reserve notes in the open market.

Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation declined seasonally last month by about the usual amount. Loans by member banks in leading cities of the Fifth District declined slightly between the middle of May and the middle of June, and the banks also decreased their investments in stock and bonds, but their deposits increased a little during the period.

Deposits Slightly Higher.

Outstanding loans on June 10, 1931, were 13 per cent less than a year ago, but aggregate deposits were slightly higher on the 1931 date.

No material change was reported in the number of unemployed workers in the District during May and June.

Coal production in May was reported to have continued relatively low, but on a daily basis slightly exceeded the rate of production in April.

The textile industry as a whole failed to measure up to the rate of operations in the preceding year, but the Fifth District mills, according to the review, did better than the average for the Nation and consumed more cotton than they did in May, 1930. Spot cotton prices continued downward during the month, and reached their lowest point since the early days of the World War, but turned upward slightly at the middle of June.

Tobacco manufacturing continued in larger volume than in May, 1930, the increase, according to Mr. Hoxton, being entirely in cigarette production, of which the Fifth District made about 87.5 per cent of the national output.

Construction Below Normal.

Permits for building issued in the leading cities of the district in May exceeded in total valuation the permits issued in May last ye , but the increase was due to high figures in a few cities and in most localities construction was still far below normal for the season.

Retail trade in May as reflected in department store sales in the first five months of this year averaged 4 per cent less than sales in the corresponding period last year. The district percentages for both May and the first five months of the year were better than the figures for the Nation as a whole.

Mr. Hoxton said that conditions for agriculture have thus far been favorable, and hay crops, grasses and trees have shown remarkable recovery from last summer's drought damage. Early season indications were for good results this year insofar as quantity was concerned, but there were no signs of material improvement in prices for the principal money crops of the district.

ACTION IS DEFERRED ON BRIDGE APPROACH

Arlington Board Delays Decision on Report of Intended Action.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County Board of Supervisors yesterday delayed action relative to adoption of the Washington street approach to the Memorial Bridge.

The decision was reached after receipt of a letter from Dr. Samuel M. Johnson, president of the National Boulevard Association and prime mover in the development and construction of the Lee boulevard. Dr. Johnson said that within the next 30 days he would be in position to submit a plan whereby State project No. 711 at station 107 may be connected with the bridge.

Robert E. Plymale, president of the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association, which has advocated adoption of the Washington street project, declared that neither he nor other proponents of the Washington street approach are opposed to development of the Lee boulevard, but felt that with but one obstruction to the obtaining of free rights of way, some action should be taken by the board.

Agreement Is Denied.

Plymale declared E. R. Eakin has agreed to give the right of way providing the board build a sidewalk along Wilson boulevard, as it is claimed they had agreed to do when land was given by Mr. Eakin for the widening of Wilson boulevard.

The question of the alleged agreement to build the sidewalk was discussed by the three board members, but none could recall having made such an arrangement.

Request of A. A. Moore, of Lyon Park, that no action be taken until a further study had been made into the proposed Taylor avenue route as a possible approach to the bridge was discussed.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth read a letter from District Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, declaring that after May 6, 1930, no member of the police or fire department will be permitted to reside outside the District of Columbia, except those who have already established homes in nearby Maryland or Virginia as the result of the wartime housing condition.

Ask Change In Law.

The board adopted a resolution calling upon the Virginia members of Congress and the chairman of the District committee to have this order changed so that members of both the District of Columbia Fire and Police Departments may reside in Virginia or Maryland.

The board awarded the contract for the rebuilding of the Georgetown-Alexandria pike known as the Tea House road to Carson & Gruman, of Washington, low bidders. The accepted bid was $13,856.99. The distance will be about one-half mile. Specifications call for concrete base with black top surface. Work will be started immediately.

The board announced they will award the contract for the building of the Oil Tank road from Rosslyn to the north wall of the National Cemetery July 16.

The board signed a contract to enter into the traffic survey sponsored by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Bureau of Public Roads. Arlington County's share of the cost will be $1,000. Total cost of the survey will be $40,000.

No action looking to the adoption of an ordinance which would require property owners to cut the weeds and high grass on vacant property was taken.

John R. Malloch last night was unanimously reelected to serve his fourth term as president of the Ballston Volunteer Fire Department. Other officers are John P. Divine, vice president; Fred S. Biggs, secretary, and John Edward Crack, treasurer. Members of the board of directors are the officers and Frank Vitale, Howard A. Smoot and Fred J. Biggs.

Frank A. Biggs was reelected chief, Ashton F. Owen, deputy chief; William R. Biggs, captain; Benjamin Graves, first lieutenant; Charles McCormick, second lieutenant, and William Bristow, fire marshal. Garrett Fitzgerald was reelected financial secretary.

The last $1.000 owing on the firehouse was ordered paid.

A special committee consisting of President Malloch, J. P. Divine, F. S. Biggs, W. R. Biggs and Fred Gadd was appointed to consider purchase of uniforms. John R. Malloch, J. E. Crack, F. E. Biggs and Russell Kidwell were appointed a committee to look into the advisability of installing showers in the firehouse for the benefit of the members. The newly elected officers will be installed at the July meeting.

The Arlington Kiwanis Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at Windsor Arms, Glebe road.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will meet tomorrow at Windsor Arms at 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Katherine G. Cohen, past president of the Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club, with Mrs. Helen Collins, Mrs. Dorothy Dunn and Mrs. Rachel White, will leave tomorrow for Richmond to attend the twelfth annual State convention.

The convention will convene Friday at 9:30 a. m. and continue through Saturday evening. Miss M. Edna Holmes, State president, will preside.

Miss Emily R. Kneubuhl, national executive secretary, will be the principal speaker at the banquet Saturday night at the Westmoreland Club.

Meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Cohen, the floor committee at the national convention, which follows the State convention at Richmond next Monday, completed arrangements for handling the volume of work which will face the committee. Other members are Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, Mrs. Pearl W. Sharpe, Mrs. Ruby Lee Minor, Miss Nellie Spence, Miss Helen Samuels, Miss Anna Mae Sasher, Mrs. Teresa Clark and Mrs. N. Rex Hunt.

Mrs. Melisacent Willis, president of the club, will go as the delegate to the national convention from the local club with Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, also member of the local club, as the State delegate.

Miss Morgan Assumes Loudoun Duties Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., June 30.—Miss Penelope Morgan, who assumes her duties tomorrow as home demonstration agent in Loudoun County, will meet the various 4-H Clubs in the county this week to plan the summer activities.

Miss Morgan succeeds Miss Harriet T. Cocke, who has been demonstration agent here for a number of years.

FAIR AT MARLBORO WILL OPEN EARLIER

Gates Open September 1 to Avoid Conflicting With Schools.

To avoid conflict with the opening of schools, the Marlboro fair will be held during the first instead of the second week of September this year, according to an announcement yesterday by William G. Brooke, secretary of the fair association. The fair will open on September 1 and will last through September 5. Entries in the live stock shows will close on August 26.

The annual catalog, also published yesterday, contains a long list of prizes to be offered for various exhibits. The County Federation of Women's Clubs will have a project display, and there will also be classes for live stick, products of the farm and home, household art, boys' and girls' clubs exhibits, and a poultry exhibit. Poultry and tobacco judging will also be a feature of the fair.

Directors of the Southern Maryland Fair Association, which holds the Marlboro show, are M. Hampton Magruder, Dr. Charles V. Hayden, Walter J. Mitchell, John B. Pyles, John T. Hall, John Parran, Hal B. Clagett, George S. Dove, W. S. Chichester, William G. Brooke, Frank M. Hall and James B. Berry.

The ladies' committee of the fair is headed this year by Mrs. Walter C. Euwer, while other members are Miss Alice D. Duvall, Mrs. Frank Forbes, Mrs. Frank Parran, Mrs. Henry L. Mervis, Mrs. James Carr, Miss Maud Gibbs, Mrs. Henry B. Brady, Mrs. Thomas H. Lyons, Mrs. Martha Boone, Mrs. John E. Mullikin, Mrs. Gui H. Clagett, Mrs. Charles H. Bowie, Mrs. George W. Buck, Mrs. John T. Hall, Mrs. Fabian Hellig, Mrs. William T. Davis, Mrs. W. S. Chichester, Mrs. Philip Nalley, Mrs. Arthur Bowie, Mrs. Lee Farrall, Mrs. A. R. Lee, Mrs. William S. Hill, Miss Susie Clagett, Mrs. R. L. Perkins, Mrs. N. O. Brigham, Mrs. J. F. Fitzhugh, Mrs. Charles M. Lowe, Mrs. George B. Peverly, Mrs. Lansdale G. Sasscer, Mrs. John H. Trabaud, Mrs. Clarence M. Roberts, Mrs. Frank G. Addison, Mrs. Michael J. Wyvil, Mrs. John Berberick, Mrs. Samuel E. Sweeney, Mrs. Joseph C. Mattingly, Miss Rebecca Berry, Mrs. J. F. Goldsborough.

Miss Ethel Regan, Mrs. Joseph H. Blandford, Mrs. George Buckheister, Mrs. R. Bernard Brady, Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, Mrs. Albert O. Beall, Mrs. French Bowie Addison, Mrs. Francis S. Carmody, Mrs. Julien S. Hall, Miss Louise Gheston, Mrs. Albert Bowling, Mrs. L. Allison Wilmer, Mrs. J. Enos Ray, Miss Janey Chaney, Mrs. W. R. Beattie, Mrs. R. A. Bennett and Mrs. J. B. Marshall.

Mrs. Odia B. Chaney was released on $1.000 bond by Judge Isaac D. Arnold, of Brentwood, yesterday after being arrested early in the day on a driving while drunk charge made by Chief of Police R. E. Brown, of Brentwood. Brown, called by neighbors who complained of noise in Mrs. Chaney's home on Baker street, near Wells avenue, Brentwood, said when he arrived Mrs. Chaney had backed her car out of its garage and across the street, breaking down the fence bounding the yard of Mrs. Lola Gearhardt.

During the dispute that ensued between Brown and Mrs. Chaney as to whether she would get out of her automobile and submit to arrest, Margaret McCormick, said to be a sister of Mrs. Chaney, and J. R. Boxwell, a guest at the house, joined in the discussion. The latter two were taken into custody on disorderly conduct charges and held in $10 collateral. A hearing will be held in the case before Judge Arnold tonight at his home.

Five members of the Mount Rainier Fire Department, including Chief Karl Young, have been selected as delegates to the State firemen's convention, which will be held in Ocean City, Md., on July 8, 9 and 10. The delegates were not instructed how to vote on any of the matters which are expected to come before the convention.

In addition to Chief Young, other delegates are Assistant Chief A. J. Bates, Capt. W. F. Freeman, Lieut. George R. Lee, jr., and Sergt. B. Beall. Alternates are William Donohue, Otto Herburger, H. E. Wilson, Andrew Gill and David Lang.

Registration for the first town election in Seat Pleasant resulted in 326 persons being given the right to vote, nearly 100 more than voted in the referendum which incorporated the town. The registration books will also be opened from 7 to 9 o'clock Friday night for additional registrations.

A meeting of the election committees named in the charter will also be held Friday night to appoint a board of election supervisors.

The six-day carnival of the Capitol Heights American Legion, which will close Saturday, opened with more than 500 persons in attendance. Associated with the legion in the carnival are the Boy Scouts, Capitol Heights Community Welfare Organization, the Volunteer Fire Department, the Community Band and seventeen other civic and fraternal organizations.

According to Earle Blackwell, commander of the Capitol Heights Post of the Legion, Friday night has been set aside as firemen's night. Volunteer fire companies throughout the State have been asked to attend and participate in a parade of fire apparatus at 6 o'clock. Features of the special celebration will be the attendance of Noble F. Rushe, chief of the Hyattsville Fire Department and candidate for president of the State Firemen's Association, and a hook-up contest for fire trucks.

Worried by the spread of a new disease, which attacks elm trees, forestry officials of the University of Maryland extension service have asked all persons to be on the lookout for symptoms of the ailment. While there is no specific treatment, if the disease is confined to one limb this can be removed.

The first symptom of the disease is the wilting of leaves on a part of the crown of the tree or some side branches. The leaves usually turn yellow or brown and offer a distinct contrast to the color of the rest of the tree. However, the leaves may remain bright and green. Sometimes the leaves drop from the trees, leaving the limbs bare. The disease, which is thought to be due to a fungus growth, may appear any time between the latter part of May and August.

Persons who find any peculiar conditions in the foliage of elm trees are requested to send samples to Richard Kilbourne, at the University of Maryland extension service at College Park. This will enable a diagnosis to be made and steps to be taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

The fungus growth, if it is that which caused the condition, first appeared in Maryland last year. It is widespread in Europe and has gained a foothold in some parts of the United States. All varieties of elms are susceptible to the attacks which usually occur upon trees from 15 to 40 years old. Nursery seedlings have been found however, which had been attacked. Control of the disease is essential, as the elm is one of the most valuable and widely planted shade trees.

MONTGOMERY ROAD PROGRAM IS MAPPED

Expenditure of $676,500 Is Tentatively Approved by Commissioners.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday tentatively adopted a road building program for the improvement of roads in each election district of the northern section of the county totaling $676,500. All the roads will be built with proceeds of bond issues authorized by the last session of the Maryland General Assembly. The program has been studied at a number of meetings by the commissioners and is announced tentatively in order that the Montgomery Government Club and Montgomery County Civic Federation can make a study of it before it is adopted.

Meetings of both of these bodies are possible, although the civic federation has already passed on and approved the items of the program.

As much as possible of the road mileage will be constructed by the State Roads Commission in order that the State body will take them over and maintain them without cost to the county in the future as part of the State Highway System. The commissioners stated yesterday they have had liberal cost estimates prepared and that it is possible that there will be a surplus from the work as they have insisted on the maximum cost estimates possible. The commissioners have reserved $100,000 from the money which will be available from the 1931-1932 bond issues for expenditures in the northern county to meet the developments in the county road situation.

The expenditures are divided by election districts in the report, but should be considered as part of a county-wide road improvement program which has been going on for several years in order to get a clear picture of the manner in which each community is to be served. In several instances, the roads, while actually built in one election district, serve the towns and communities of several adjacent districts.

Following is a summary of the road program:

Laytonsville District, $73.000, as follows: Unfinished gap on Damascus-Woodfield-Laytonsville road: 7-10 miles, two small bridges; 16-foot concrete road, $25,000; buidres, $10.000. Sunshine through Unity toward Etchison with spur to Mount Zion (this section of road will include resurfacing of 1 mile of county macadam road, balance to be 9-foot concrete), $30,000. For 1932, 10-foot macadam, Etchison toward Unity, $8.000.

Damascus District, $57.000, as follows: 1 miles of 9-foot concrete road from Damascus-Laytonsville road to Howard Chapel toward Patuxent River, $30.000. Seven-tenths mile from Purdum to Lewisdale, 9-foot concrete road, $15.000. One-half mile of 9-foot concrete road, finish highway to Brownsville Church, $12.000.

Clarksburg District, $60.000, as follows: One mile of 9-foot concrete road extending from improved highway toward Kings Distillery, $20.000. One mile, Old Germantown to Boyds, 9-foot concrete road, $20.000. Second mile, 9-foot concrete road, Old Germantown to Boyds, for 1932, $20.000.

Barnesville, $48.000, as follows: One mile, Comus to Sugarloaf Mountain, 9-foot concrete road, $20.000. One mile, Dickerson toward the Frederick County line, 9-foot concrete road, $20.000. One mile, Barnesville Blacktown-Slidell, county macadam, $8.000.

Poolesville, $50.000, as follows: One mile, 9-foot concrete, Dickerson toward Whites Ferry, $20.000. One mile, 16-foot concrete highway, Martinsburg toward Whites Ferry, $30.000.

Darnestown, $74.500, as follows: Bentons Corner toward Old Germantown, 1 mile, 15-foot concrete highway, $30.000; second mile, Bentons Corner toward Old Germantown, 15-foot concrete highway, $30.000; Old Germantown toward Whiteland, macadam road, 6.000; Travilah to Hunting Hill, actual cost of bringing existing county macadam highway to State requirements, estimated cost $3.500 per mile, one-half to Darnestown, one-half to Rockville, Darnestown, $8.750.

Potomac, $40.000, as follows: To construct as much 12-foot macadam highway beginning on each end and working toward the center on Travilah, Glen to the Potomac-Rockville road, with a spur from Glen to the north (all in Potomac), $40.000.

Olney, $40.000, as follows: Southern end of Redland-Norbeck or Muncaster Mill road, shoulders with backfill, 2.7 miles, at $15.000 per mile, $40.

Brookeville, $20.000, as follows: Sunshine to Brighton, 1 mile, 9-foot macadam road, $20.000.

Colesville, $44.000, as follows: One remaining mile, 15-foot macadam road, Burtonsville-Browna Corner road, $20.000; to resurface Avenel-White Oak road (Carroll avenue-New Hampshire avenue extended) and bring same to State requirements, estimated cost $8.000 per mile, $24.000.

GAITHERSBURG, $78.000, as follows: Resurface county macadam road from Rockville-Gaithersburg highway to Walkershurg-Laytonsville highway through Washington Grove, $8.000; to extend in the town of Gaithersburg, with concrete shoulders and backfill, Brook avenue, and improve Rockville-Gaithersburg-Frederick road between grade ergasing elimination and northern town boundary, $40.000. Gaithersburg-Barnesville road by way of Cloppers, bringing first mile of county macadam road to State requirements and continue second mile in 1932, 12-foot macadam, $30.000.

Rockville, $53.750, as follows: One mile 12-foot macadam, Rockville-Hunting Hill highway south toward Glen, $15.000. Second mile, 15-foot concrete on Rockville-Wheaton road by way of Viers Mill, $20.000. Montgomery avenue, main business street of Rockville, will also be widened this year from county-wide funds, in front of the new courthouse at an estimated cost of $30.000. Rockville District is also chargeable with one-half of the cost of reconstruction of the Travilah-Hunting Hill road, $8,750.

Wheaton, $38.000, as follows: First mile, 15-foot concrete highway on Wheaton-Rockville road by way of Viers Mill, to start at Welsh's gate and build north, $30.000. To resurface and widen southern 2 miles of Viers Mill road with macadam, $8.000.

Total construction, $676.500.

Following is a summary of the county-wide program: Amount of 1931 bond issue, $1,055.000. Probable total to be allocated for school uses, $395.000. Total available for road construction, $750.000. Ten thousand dollars each for the First, Second, Third, Fourth and Sixth commissioner districts; $25.000 each for Fifth and Seventh commissioner districts (the two suburban districts); (Colesville district is included in the amount allowed the eastern suburban districts), $100.000; total, $650.000. Fifty per cent to be spent north of suburban districts, $325.000; 50 per cent to be spent in suburban districts, $325.000. (55 per cent in western suburban district, 45 per cent in eastern suburban district); total, $650.000. Authorized 1932 bond issue, $1,000.000. Estimated to be allocated for school use, $200.000. Total available for road construction, $800.000 (if entire 1932 authorization is issued). Ten thousand dollars for First, Second, Third, Fourth and Sixth commissioner districts; $25.000 each for Fifth and Seventh commissioner districts (the two suburban districts; (Colesville election district is included in the amount allowed the eastern suburban district), $100.000; total, $700.000. Estimated allocation of State construction funds from State gasoline tax to Montgomery County in 1932, $200.000. Total, $900.000. Fifty per cent to be spent north of suburban districts, $450.000; 50 per cent to be spent in the suburban districts, $450.000 (55 per cent in the western suburban district, 45 per cent in eastern suburban district); totals, $900.000. Total amount available for sections north of suburban districts for 1931 and 1932, $775,000. Total amount available for the suburban districts for 1931 and 1932, $775,000. Total available for new roads in county in 1931 and 1932, $1,550.000.

The charge for installation of gas connections in Kensington and the vicinity has been lowered to conform with the rate in other Montgomery County towns, the Kensington Chamber of Commerce was informed at its monthly meeting by H. D. Appleby, chairman of a special committee which has been negotiating with officials of the Washington Gas Light Co. for some time.

The new rate will be 45 cents per foot from the meter to the property line, rather than 47 cents per foot from the meter to the gain main as had been the case in the past. The revised charges will be retroactive and rebates will be given those persons paying under the higher rate.

The chamber went on record as favoring the location of the proposed Senior High School for the eastern suburban district in as near the geographical center of the district as possible, and named five delegates to the general civic school committee to urge this method of selecting the site. Another committee was appointed to push the development of Rock Creek Valley as a park.

Three new election precincts have been created in the county by the board of election supervisors of Montgomery County at their meeting yesterday in the Courthouse at Rockville. The three new precincts are: Precinct No. 5 in Chevy Chase, of the Seventh Election District; Precinct No. 3 at Rockville in the Fourth Election District, and Precinct No. 8 in Silver Spring in the Thirteenth Election District.

The new precinct at Chevy Chase was carved out of the Second Precinct. Under the new arrangement, Precinct No. 2 will include the territory south of Bradley Lane and the new precinct will include all territory north of Bradley bounded by East avenue and Bradley Lane on the west and Western avenue on the east.

The new Silver Spring Precinct is carved out of the Second Precinct, the boundaries to be: No. 2, beginning at District Line up Chicago avenue to Boundary avenue to Saratoga avenue to Mississippi avenue; No. 8, beginning at Bonifant street at Cedar to Carroll Lane to Mississippi avenue to Sligo Branch to Blair road to the Prince Georges County Line.

The Rockville Precinct is taken from the existing No. 1 Precinct and will start at Perry street and include the general area of Derwood, Redland and Avery. These three new precincts make a total of six created in the last two weeks to accommodate the increase in voting population.

Montgomery County banks will follow suit in the action of Washington banks which have reduced the interest rate on savings accounts by 1 per cent, and notices are being mailed this week to depositors. This action follows the reduction by the Baltimore Clearing House and the approval of a reduction unanimously adopted at the last meeting of the Maryland Bankers Association.

The campaign to raise funds to finance a booklet which will advertise advantages of Montgomery County, will be formally launched tonight at a meeting of the finance committee of the Greater Montgomery County, Inc. The meeting will be held at the Bethesda County Building tonight at 8 o'clock, with George P. Sacks, chairman, presiding.

The new 750-gallon pumper engine which completes the equipment of the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department was delivered yesterday and is now in operation. The new engine gives the department four pieces of modern fire fighting equipment. There already were two 500-gallon pumpers and one 450-gallon pumper in the department, as well as a rescue squad and first-aid truck.

A meeting of the special subcommittee of the general committee on the location of a high school for the eastern suburban area, which is to arrange for a tour of the twelvesites which have been discussed as possible locations, will be held tonight at the Silver Spring County Building.

The subcommittee will make plans for the tour and will then announce to the entire committee the arrangements.

Bealle Wins Writ In Newspaper Suit

Eight Required to Show Cause Why Stock Should Not Be Turned Over.

Chief Judge Hammond Urner, of Frederick, yesterday signed a rule to show cause in the suit against the Montgomery Publishing & Printing Co., filed by Morris A. Bealle as president of the Independent Publishing Co.

The rule is returnable July 9 ta 11 a. m. at the Rockville Circuit Court, at which time the defendants are directed to show cause why they should not turn over 284 shares of stock in the Montgomery Printing & Publishing Co. which is claimed by Bealle as the final payment of the purchase price of the Montgomery Independent.

The defendants named in the suit are Harold C. Smith, E. Barrett Prettyman, Vivian V. Simpson, Edward Peter, John E. Oxley, Robert L. Telson, Charles C. Jones and Dr. C. Eugene Jones, all of whom are officials of the Montgomery Printing & Publishing Co., according to the suit.

22 Naval Officers Begin Dirigible Studies Today

(Associated Press.)

Twenty-two naval officers have their pads and pencils ready to go back to school. Beginning today, they will start a year's course at the Naval Station at Lakehurst, N. J., to learn how to handle dirigibles.

The class will fill the ranks of lighter-than-air pilots soon to be drawn on in commissioning the dirigible Akron. Two of them will learn how to manage the planes the airship will carry.

FOUR HELD FOR QUIZ IN STUDENT ATTACK

Robbery of M. E. Buckley Is Probed by Police After Thugs Get $730.

The attack upon Michael Edward Buckley, 28-year-old Georgetown University student and bondsman, while in the basement of his father's home early yesterday, was being investigated by police last night.

Headquarters detectives, investigating the reported attack, arrested four men on suspicion yesterday and they are being held for investigation. Detectives planned to question them last night.

Buckley told police he had been beaten by two thugs who stole $730 from him while in the basement of his father's home at 1218 New Hampshire avenue. He had been lured there, he said, by a fake telephone call to his home, 3724 Windom place.

The man who called posed as a friend of his father's, he said, and asked that $1,000 bail be brought down to the Twelfth Precinct for two men, who were supposed to have been held for $500 bond each.

From his home, he said, he went to his father's house to get the money, which was in a safe at the house. As he was leaving the place, the men attacked him. In the scuffle, he said, the men escaped with $730.

Buckley was found wandering nearby by an acquaintance. He was later taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment of concussion of the brain.

Man Injured in Robbery Attempt Held for Trial

William Harris, Negro, will be tried on a charge of assault with intent to rob as the result of his alleged efforts to hold up Simon Lang, temporary cashier of the Thompson luncheon at 1345 E street northwest, on the night of June 12.

Harris is said to have pointed an object at Lang and demanded that he turn over contents of the cash register. Instead, Lang threw a heavy object and chased the man from the store. Harris was captured and after being treated at Emergency Hospital, was taken to the First Precinct Station house. The District grand jury investigated the case and returned an indictment yesterday charging Harris with assault with intent to rob.

Son of Dry Agent Slain By Bootleggers, Hurt

Irving C. York, 5-year-old son of the late Lamar W. York, prohibition agent, who was slain by bootleggers on April 11, 1930, was slightly injured yesterday when knocked down by an automobile on Thirteenth street near C street northwest.

The child, who lives at 1244 C street northeast, ran across the street in front of the automobile, according to George R. George, of Allison street near Eighth street northwest, driver of the automobile. George took the child to Casualty Hospital, where his injuries were treated.

Man, Legs Broken, Is Saved As Overturned Truck Burns

Suffering fractures of both legs when the truck he was driving overturned on the Baltimore boulevard near Muirkirk, Md., Daniel Brown, of 1317 S street northwest, narrowly escaped death yesterday afternoon when the wrecked machine burst into flames.

Brown was pulled from the wreckage by passing motorists who braved the gasoline-fed blaze, and taken to the office of Dr. Bryan P. Warren, in Laurel. Dr. Warren sent him to Emergency Hospital here, where it was said he had a fracture of the left thigh and a compound fracture of the right lower leg. He will remain in the hospital, although his condition is not thought to be serious.

Brown's truck, which belonged to the Kay Transfer Co., was destroyed by the fire. State police who investigated the accident were unable to give any reason for the truck running off the road and overturning.

NEW TRIAL IS ASKED BY JACOB B. SHAPIRO

Files Affidavit That Woman Juror Knew District Attorney Employe.

Jacob B. Shapiro, real estate operator, who last week was found guilty by a jury on all twelve counts of an indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud, filed a motion for a new trial yesterday.

After setting forth twelve reasons why he should be granted a new trial, Shapiro made an affidavit in which he charged that Mabel Hurd, one of the jurors, had failed to answer when the jury members were asked if they knew any employes of the district attorney's office.

The affidavit recites that Mabel Hurd was personally acquainted "with the lady then and now employed as switchboard operator in the office of the district attorney and during the progress of the trial was frequently in the company of said employe and on several occasions had luncheon with her." It was further alleged that the juror had frequently visited the operator in the district attorney's office during the trial.

Mr. Shapiro, through his attorney, Alvin Newmyer, also declared that the jurors were separated when one of the female jurors was taken to another part of the building in the custody of a deputy marshal, "without the consent of the court."

Mr. Shapiro claimed that the verdict was contrary to law, and that it was against the weight of the evidence. The other reasons were cited as entitled him to another trial. Justice Adkins will rule on the motions when Shapiro comes up for sentence Friday.

Arizona Gets Armored Car.

Phoenix, Ariz., June 30 (U.P.).—Arizona's first armored car, for the transportation of money and valuables, will soon be rolling down the streets of Phoenix. Various Arizona organizations with large pay rolls will contract the job of transporting money to the firm. The truck also will be used in making cash collections from chain stores operating in this part of the State.

MALL AREA TITLES ACQUIRED BY U. S.

$40,000 Is Paid for Part of Site for New Postoffice Structure.

Approval of titles to several parcels of land in the Mall area embraced by the Federal building project was announced yesterday by the Department of Justice. One of the tracts, which will form part of the site on which the new Postoffice Department building will be built, was obtained through condemnation proceedings and its owners were awarded $40,000 for the property.

The ground for which title was approved for the Postoffice structure is parcel V, located in squares 292, 293, 294 and 295, and is situated between Pennsylvania avenue and Constitution avenue northwest and Twelfth and Thirteenth streets.

Title to lot 31 in Reservation "D," which is to be a landscaped park known as part of the "Grand Approach" to the new Federal area, was also approved. It was conveyed by Sarah A. Ford for the consideration of $4,000, and is between Four-and-one-half and Sixth streets, Pennsylvania and Maryland avenues.

Titles of lot 839, square 535, and lot 805, square 325, were also approved. The former is expected to be the site of a Government warehouse and is located between Four-and-one-half and Third streets, C and D streets southwest. It was conveyed by Annie Goheen for $1,000. The latter is also in the building program area and is situated between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, Virginia avenue and C street southwest. It was acquired from Sibyl McDonald for $6,000.

Old Mine May Come Back.

Kingman, Ariz., June 30 (U.P.).—The Big Jim gold mine, famous producer years ago, later abandoned and partially wrecked by fire, may join the ranks of wealth-makers again. More than $5,000,000 in yellow metal has been sent to the mint during the life of the old mine. A few weeks ago diamond drilling indicated location of the vein at the 900-foot mark. The shaft is now being cleared and retimbered in preparation for sinking it 300 additional feet.

200 DELTA SIGMAS GATHER IN CAPITAL

Thirty-fourth Annual Convention of High School Fraternity Opens.

From 26 States, representing 113 chapters, more than 200 delegates registered yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel for the thirty-fourth annual convention of Delta Sigma, a high school organization.

A luncheon was the first official event of the convention, followed by the inaugural business session. A tea dance was the main feature of the afternoon, and the entire corps of delegates was taken for a moonlight cruise on the Potomac last night for dancing and entertainment.

At 11:30 this morning a group picture will be made at the White House. President Hoover will pose with the delegates. Another luncheon will take place at 1 o'clock; a business session at 2:30 o'clock, and a swimming party at Chevy Chase lake pool at 4:30 o'clock.

The annual convention banquet will be held tonight at the Mayflower, when entertainment will be furnished by the Fox Vaudeville Circuit and McWilliams Orchestra.

Among the alumni attending the convention are State's Prosecuting Attorney Lawrence Auten, of Arkansas, and Mayor William Frazier, of Wilkinsburg, Pa.; Wilbur Howison is chairman of the convention committee. There are four chapters of the fraternity here.

Two in Gambling Raid Bailed for Trial July 8

The "one-man gambling raid" conducted by Detective Sergt. Howard Ogle last Saturday was brought up in Police Court yesterday when Jake Erlich and Joseph A. Sullivan were arraigned before Judge McMahon on charges of permitting gaming. Both were released on $500 bonds for a jury trial July 8.

The raid was on an establishment on Tenth street near E street northwest. The detective started for the back door and then came around to the front in time to gain an entrance while men in the place fled through the doorway. He kept 62 backed up against the wall while reserves were called.

Driverless Auto Hits Taxicab, Injuring Man

Willie J. Ashworth, 24 years old, a taxicab driver, was slightly injured yesterday when a driverless automobile collided with his cab at Connecticut avenue and Florida avenue northwest.

The driverless automobile was owned by George Swift, 38 years old, of 233 Sixteenth street southeast. It had been parked a block away from the intersection when it started moving and collided with Ashworth's car. Ashworth was treated at Emergency Hospital for a sprained back.

Derby Is Indicted In Hit-Run Death

Manslaughter Is Charged to Driver Earlier Held on Speeding Count.

An indictment charging Charles E. Derby with manslaughter in connection with the death of William Robert Settle, 7 years old, struck by a hit-and-run driver on Naylor road near Thirtieth street southeast, June 16, as he was walking home from school, was handed to Justice Peyton Gordon in the District Supreme Court yesterday.

Derby, alleged to have continued on his way after his machine struck the youngster, later was arrested by Policeman Thomas Hayes, of the Eleventh Precinct, for speeding. His connection with the case did not become known for hours, when parents of the victim notified the station house of the affair.

The parents in turn had been notified by William Von Garrel, who was walking home with the Settle boy. He said an automobile struck William and knocked him into the bushes. Unable to find the body, he told friends who investigated. William's body was found several hours later. A dent on the left fender of the machine Derby was driving led to questioning him about the case, and he is alleged to have confessed.

PERU ACTS TO CRUSH MILITARY REBELLION

Reinforcements Are Rushed to Federals at Puno and Cuzco.

Lima, Peru, June 30 (A.P.).—The Peruvian provisional government, which itself came into power after a series of revolutions, today pushed forward its program for stamping out a military rebellion at garrisons in Cuzco and Puno.

Orders were issued that troops of the Seventh Regiment, dispatched to the Port Mollendo on the cruiser Grau last Sunday, should hasten to Arequipa to reinforce the forces of Col. Francisco Valdivieso, who has been commissioned to crush the uprising.

A government bulletin today declared that the civilian and police elements of the rebel towns had refused to join the revolt. The government said the insurgents included only the Thirteenth Regiment, part of the Fifteenth and a small portion of the Fifteenth Artillery.

Minister of Police Tamayo declared that the movement was an "intrigue" of followers of Augusto B. Legula, deposed president. He said the trouble started after several changes were made among army officers.

Previously the revolt had been attributed to dissatisfaction with the administration of the central government and disapproval of the return to Peru of former President Louis M. Sanchez Cerro.

The government's statement said the disturbance was confined to Cuzco and Puno, with the rest of the country calm. Officials in Peru were watching the situation closely, although their information was delayed by a strike of telegraph operators in the affected areas.

Minister Tamayo said that Capt. Aristides Pachas of the Fifteenth Infantry Regiment was supporting the revolt and had proclaimed Col. Aurelio Garcia Godos leader of the southeastern rebellion.

Both Cuzco and Puno are important cities in southern Peru, lying high in the Andes. The latter is more than 200 miles southeast of Cuzco, the old capital of the Incas.

Smith Asked to Serve As Navigator on Graf

(Associated Press.)

Coast Guard Headquarters announced yesterday that Lieut. Comdr. Edward H. Smith, invited to make the flight to the North Pole on the Graf Zeppelin as the American representative, has been asked to navigate the huge airship in its polar flight.

Smith intends to study ice conditions during the flight. For years he has been the chief ice expert in the International Ice Patrol conducted by the Coast Guard in steamer lanes in the North Atlantic Ocean.

TRIBUTE EXACTED OF LIBERIAN HINTERLAND

Monrovia on April 16. I visited numerous towns and interviewed chiefs and Liberian officials.

Before leaving Monrovia on this trek, it had been my good fortune to see official correspondence indicating beyond any reasonable doubt that in November and December, 1930, and January and February, 1931, nearly three tons of rice, to say nothing of fowl and cattle, from the Sanoguellah district, were carried to Monrovia, where practically the whole of it went to the President, cabinet officers and other minor officials. This requisitioning was done after the departure of the International Commission and of course the produce was not paid for.

Proceeding into the hinterland through stately forests, suffocating jungles and seemingly bottomless swamps, over tortuous trails, visiting town after town, I learned that the requisition from the Sanoguellah district and their destinations were not at all unusual, but that the practice was and is general throughout the entire back country. Everywhere the natives complain bitterly against these exactions but are without redress. The very people to whom they would appeal are the identical persons who are exploiting them.

When I entered the Gola town of Genne, just above the line of Grand Cape Mount County, the place seemed deserted save for a group of old men eyeing my party suspiciously from the verandah of the chief's house. No women, children or young folk were to be seen. It looked queer because the town is marked prominently on the maps. I called my Buzi headman to engage the chief in conversation and tell him who I was. Meanwhile, my stewards got out bags of gleaming salt and stalks of trade tobacco for presents or "dash."

American "Open Sesame."

When the chief heard the magical word "American" and noted that I was actually about to give him something, his whole manner and that of his advisers changed. They became quite cordial, hut doors began to open and people appeared from everywhere. Soon my little party was completely surrounded by curious Golas of all ages, and I learned to my surprise that the chief, whom I had first to address through an interpreter, spoke fairly good English.

Later, over excellent palm wine, the chief, a short, mustached fellow, clad in a combination of civilized and native clothes, explained it all. The Liberians came so often, it seemed, demanding large quantities of produce for which they never paid and whipping the chief and others if their demands were not satisfied, that the people of the town had taken to running off into the bush whenever a large party of strangers approached the village. It is the custom of the Liberians to go upcountry empty handed and return laden down not only with food, but furniture, ornaments and native cloth. Americans and other foreigners, the chief assured me, are the only ones who pay their way in the back country. In addition to these unannounced visits, the chief continued, he is forced to send monthly requisitions of rice and palm oil to the nearest government post.

Two weeks later I sat in the palaver kitchen of the beautiful town of Voni Jessu, in the Buzi nation, and heard a similar tale from the lips of the very dignified chief through the medium of my headman-interpreter.

This chief was much more specific. He must furnish to the district commissioner, several days' walk from his town, eleven 40-pound hampers of cleaned rice and 5 gallons of palm oil every month. In the bargain, he must pay his taxes of four shillings and six pence per hut, two or three times a year instead of once. Failure to comply with these orders of the Liberian officials means that he will be seized, tied and beaten before his own people, who are taught to reverence and respect him.

Another Tale of Tribute.

Two days later I sat in the palaver kitchen of the equally beautiful Buzi town of Sublema and listened to the chief through my interpreter tell an almost identical tale. His taxes are also collected two or three times a year, but as he rules a slightly smaller district than his colleague at Voni Jessu, he must furnish to the district commissioner only eight 40-pound hampers of rice and 5 gallons of palm oil every moon.

Two weeks later I sat in front of the guest house in the newly built town of Goh in the Kpwessi country, while the funny little chief with braided hair, a skirt-like garment and a large native sword swung to his side, complained of having to twice pay hut taxes of five shillings in the space of one year besides sending to the authorities each month three 40-pound hampers of rice and 4 gallons of palm oil.

It is a mighty long distance from Genne to Goh and there are scores of towns between, but everywhere I found the story mueh the same. Those in America who buy their rice in neat packages from the corner grocer and pay hundreds of dollars, perhaps, in taxes every year can hardly appreciate what these exactions mean to the poor native in the Liberian hinterland.

Let us take those neighboring towns of Voni Jessu and Sublema and total their tribute to their masters. Together they send in nineteen hampers, or approximately 760 pounds, of rice monthly, the total for the year being the enormous quantity of 9,120 pounds, or nearly 5 tons. The 10 gallons of palm oil furnished by these two villages grows in a year's time to 120 gallons, or approximately 4 barrels. In addition, they must pay their hut taxes in British silver (there being no Liberian coin larger than a copper 2-cent piece). This means that Voni Jessu, which has around 120 houses, must pay taxes of 540 shillings, or $129.60, not once, but two or three times a year, according to the caprice of the Liberian officials.

The Liberian system of communications is terrible. Only trails are available and where the government sought during the halcyon days of the notorious department of public works to build roads with forced native labor using sticks (and surveyed by the blowing of a horn), ignorance of engineering, coupled with rapid erosion and encroachment of jungle, has made them impassable for anything but foot travel. As the natives are forced to sell their produce on the coast if they are to get the British silver with which to pay their hut taxes, they must undergo a tremendous loss in sending carriers over the trails with rice and palm oil, the standard commodities. From a fairly central point it takes a carrier from five to six days to get to Monrovia, and perhaps ten days for the round trip. His 40-pound hamper of rice will perhaps bring $1.50 if the market is high.

Paid? Of Course Not!

The carrier must eat at least ten pounds of rice on the trip, which reduces the actual receipts to about $1.15. If the carrier got paid for his time and labor at the standard rate of one shilling a day, the village would actually lose money by sending him to Monrovia with the rice. But, of course, he doesn't get paid.

It is plain the huge quantities of rice and palm oil which a village like Voni Jessu must raise in order to pay taxes and also furnish the requisitions. It is, in fact, laboring almost wholly in order to meet the exactions of the Liberian officials. In order to grow the rice the jungle must be cut and burned, then the rice planted and tended by the women and constantly watched to keep rice birds away. Then it must be harvested and threshed by treading and finally winnowed. It is a long and laborious business executed in the primitive way. The palm oil is almost as difficult to prepart for use.

What is true of the villages I have named is true of hundreds I have not named. They must all make their requisitions and pay their taxes in British silver, once and perhaps three or four times a year. Of course, there are few towns that can do it, with the result that the Government in most districts can not collect more than one-third of the taxes. Generally the revenue collector or his messenger gets what he can and threatens about the rest.

Travel Allowance Not Used.

The carriers who take the monthly requisitions of rice and palm oil to the Liberian officials are seldom, if ever, paid, and villagers en route have to feed them. Sometimes the round trip requires six or more days. Also, whenever the district commissioner or any of his staff travels abroad the porters whom they requisition to carry them from village to village are given nothing for their labor except occasional curses and buffets. The district commissioners have a travel allowance, but it is a standing joke that they never use it. They can always get plenty of strong young natives free to carry their hammocks.

Actually, these hundreds of thousands, maybe two millions, of natives in the Liberian hinterland, are enslaved in a very real way by their Americo-Liberian masters. The greater part of their time is devoted to raising food products in the laborious and age-old manner in order to meet the exactions of their masters. Their strongest young men are used to transport this food on their backs over tortuous trails to designated stations or to the coast for sale to get money to pay taxes, while others are subject to carry the hammock of the district commissioner or some of his satellites, for all of which they are unpaid. In return, these poor people get exactly nothing except whippings and finings. The good roads they need to bring their produce to town and realize a modest profit are nonexistent and the bankrupt Liberian government hasn't the money or skill to build them.

A Country of Beauty.

Topographically resembling Virginia, Liberia is perhaps the most beautiful country in Africa. It is a great botanical and zoological garden where every tropical animal, tree, flower and fruit is to be found. Its mineral wealth in gold and diamonds is almost as great. But its greatest wealth is its people. The aborigines are as admirable as most of their American-Liberian taskmasters are despicable. Everywhere in the hinterland one finds the natives self-supporting in every way, whereas their rulers are not. The native towns are uniformly clean and neat, and their inhabitants are generally honest, truthful and trustworthy.

Labor in every native community is divided according to skill and necessity. Work begins usually at daybreak and many trades are followed, such as spinning, weaving, tanning, dyeing, ironwork, pottery making, and other minor ones. Their farms are located usually an hour's walk or more from town and are grouped around collections of huts called halftowns, where the agricultural workers live. Here is a perfectly organized and functioning society, superior to that of the Americo-Liberian but yet subordinate to him.

It seems a great pity that these quite admirable people should be kept impoverished, virtually enslaved, to support a few suave officials in Monrovia, many of whom, though grawing meager salaries, live in regal style, own automobiles, maintain large country estates (kept up by serfs) and frequently send their children abfoad to school. One does not wonder that the Americo-Liberians are so inordinately proud and jealous of their independence. They want no intereference with their plucking of the natives, the only really industrious people in the land.

RAIL RATE PROBLEMS.

As the movement for higher freight rates progresses it becomes evident that whatever action is taken by the Interstate Commerce Commission will be only an expedient. The railroads are asking for immediate relief. It is not to be supposed that they would favor a blanket raise of 15 per cent in all rates if there were time to work out more satisfactory rate schedules. Apparently their purpose is to bolster up their falling revenues by this method while they are working out a more comprehensive plan of increasing revenue without encouraging additional competition.

Regarded from this angle the proposed increase takes on a more favorable light. By careful attention to their traffic the roads would soon find out which rates play into the hands of their competitors. Immediate steps could then be taken to lower those rates to a basis of fair competition. The result might be a general revision of individual rates in accordance with present conditions of traffic and competition. In the end it might make little difference whether that process began at the present rate level or from a slightly higher level.

That the railroads are entitled to higher revenue is hardly open to question. By law they are allowed a fair return on their investments, yet existing tariffs do not yield a fair return. Under ordinary circumstances they would have an unanswerable argument for higher rates. But in view of the intense competition in their field the question arises as to whether higher rates will render the desired relief. Perhaps if the railroads are allowed some part of the increase they are asking their experiment will point the way toward a more permanent solution.

Many factors besides freight rates enter into their problem. Railway properties are burdened with enormous tax obligations. During the first four months of this year 36.73 cents out of every dollar of net revenue earned by class 1 roads went for taxes. In the last 40 years railroad taxes have increased eleven times as much as has population, rising from $31,000,000 in 1890 to $368,000,000 in 1930. Railway taxes amounted to 4.77 per cent of their gross revenue in 1920. During the first part of 1931 this figure rose to 7.61 per cent.

Reduction of taxes would give the railroads substantial relief. The States may find that it is not so much competition but taxation that is driving railway companies to the wall. Inquiries to determine whether the carriers are not bearing a disproportionate share of the tax burden seem to be in order.

One other source of relief is suggested in the rail executives' brief to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Why not lower rates for short distances to meet competition by trucks? At present short hauls are relatively more expensive than long ones. Lower charges might stimulate local rail traffic and give the carriers a substantial revenue.

Still other sources of relief may be found by the carriers aside from the proposed blanket increase in freight rates. If the public is given to understand that the requested increase is intended only to tide the carriers over this period of emergency and that solutions for their problem will continue to be sought along other lines, opposition probably will be mitigated.

POST AND GATTY.

Around the top of the world at three times express train speed, over trackless oceans and high mountain peaks, Post and Gatty are back on the American Continent. Seven days sufficed to carry them across the Atlantic to span Europe, to compass a vast Asiatic wilderness and soar across the wild Northern Pacific with only a brief stop in Alaska. It is a record that will probably stand for some time. Three days of their allotted time remain for the simple hop of 3,000 miles back to the starting point at New York, a pleasant day's journey with many happy landing places, if need be, along the way.

Post and Gatty and Winnie Mae, the triple "We," have brought aviation abreast of another milestone. It was a test of brain and stamina, of iron nerve and mechanical perfection. Pilot and navigator are of America's chosen best. Coordinated with a machine that never faltered, they have given another demonstration of the possibilities of flight that will stimulate aerial transportation throughout the world.

Every such example of safe and rapid journeying by air is an advertisement worth millions to aviation. The sensational character of such a flight centers attention upon the development of the more prosaic but established air routes that every day record advances in service and patronage. Such flights spur the aeronautic engineer to renewed efforts to make flying still safer and faster.

No one who has marked the progress of air transportation during the last few years can doubt that it will record much greater development. Regular passenger and mail planes today fly millions of miles without accident and these routes are constantly being extended. It is already possible to go from coast to coats any day in less than one-fourth the time required by fastest trains.

Chance and good weather have played a large part in the success of Post and Gatty. Their trail may not be followed by commercial aviation for many years, for it is beset with formidable hazards. Nevertheless, their great pioneering exploit will hasten the day when intercontinental flights will be safe and practical.

THE WICKERSHAM REPORTS.

President Hoover's Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, more frequently referred to as the Wickersham commission, after its chairman, has finished its labors. Ten reports, in addition to the four already delivered, have been placed in executive hands. Chairman Wickersham is ready to wind up the affairs of the commission with a visit to the White House.

First interest in the commission's output naturally centered in its prohibition report. This many-sided question, investigated from all viewpoints, gave rise to differing minority and individual statements, which, in connection with the report itself, have led to endless discussion. The voluminous documents and testimony furnish material that, viewed from a prejudiced standpoint, can be made to support almost any contention, pro or con.

The reports completed during the last few months will cover such subjects as lawlessness in law enforcement, deportation of aliens, juvenile delinquency, crime among foreign born, the work of police, prison, probation and parole boards and the causes of crime. The work of the courts has been exhaustively studied. The commission will report the progress it has made and leave continuation of the investigations to private agencies.

The eleven members of the commission have given two years and a month to the work. Their research has extended far and wide. Noted experts have given assistance in gathering data, in formulating conclusions and proposing remedies. No group, however learned, can hope to compile statements or render decisions on such vital and controversial subjects and make their reports acceptable to all. However, these men and women have gathered together a mass of authoritative information that will form a valuable background for study of law enforcement problems for many years. It is to the great advantage of the Nation that citizens of this caliber are willing to devote their time and talents to this work.

PENALTIES FOR BANKERS.

Of the various bank investigations here and in other parts of the country, none has aroused such widespread interest as that of the Bank of the United States in New York. The failure of this bank, due to its size and financial importance, was felt throughout the Nation. The long investigation has finally terminated in the trial and conviction of three principals.

Bernard K. Marcus, president, and Saul Singer, vice president, have been sentenced to from three to six years in prison, and young Herbert Singer was given an indeterminate term of not more than three years. The maximum penalty for the crime is seven years and a fine of $1,000. In view of the injury done to thousands of depositors there is a tendency to regard these sentences as too lenient.

It should be remembered, however, that the defendants were not charged with larceny or self-enrichment, but rather with misapplication of bank funds. During the period of excited speculation these men used money in unwise and unlawful ways. In sentencing them for this crime Judge Donnellan has displayed firmness tempered with an understanding of the unusual conditions of that era of rashness. He did not inflict the maximum penalty, but for men of their former standing the punishment is severe.

A prison sentence on the record of a banker is a blow from which he can not recover. That longer terms might have been imposed is of small consequence beside the fact that these guilty officials were convicted and must serve time behind prison bars. American courts sentence those guilty of breaking the law in an effort to discourage others from committing crimes. This is the primary principle of legal punishment; it is not retaliation. When men holding the public trust realize that to betray it means a prison term they will be more likely to do their duty.

WAR DEVICE PATENTS.

In reversing the decision of the lower court and refusing to sustain the patent rights granted to Admiral Fiske for his "dream" of a device releasing torpedoes from airplanes the District Court of Appeals rendered a very important decision. The court ruled that Admiral Fiske's idea was not patentable, and that the Government would have had a vested right in his patent if it had been held valid, since the idea originated from a technical study made for the Government.

It would be a strange law, indeed, that would allow a naval officer to exact tribute from the Government for the use of a device invented by him while he was engaged in his work as a naval officer. In this case it appears that the "idea" in question was a direct result of the service which Admiral Fiske was paid to render to the Government. Improvement of instruments of national defense is one of the duties of the military and naval services. How can the Government be asked to pay tribute for the use of instruments which its own employes have developed in the course of their work?

One other element demands consideration. If officers were granted the privilege of patent rights and public exploitation of war mechanism invented by them such devices would become the property of all nations. Improvements in machinery for national defense should be scrupulously guarded. Congress can afford to be generous in granting recognition and benefits to inventors in the military and naval services, but the national welfare demands that such inventions be conserved for exclusive use by the Government.

GERMANY'S TROUBLES.

The financial crisis in Germany that led to President Hoover's one-year holiday suggestion was not caused solely by the drain on her treasury of $350,000,000 annually for reparations. This sum has been paid without causing serious conditions in other years. It is the intricate and delicate credit structure, which has been seriously affected in the last few months, that has created a situation of extreme gravity.

Shortly after Briand's Pan-European trade plan was proposed Germany announced a scheme of her own to better her commercial situation. This was the customs union alliance with Austria. Launched as it was at a most inopportune moment, the announcement created immediate unrest in financial as well as political circles. Foreign short term loans and credits began to be recalled suddenly from all sides. Due to the difficulty of arranging long term loans, Germany was compelled to rely on the short time paper, and as a consequence, amassed about $2,000,000,000 in such loans.

The recall of these credits in such volume caused a most critical situation. Reserves of the banks, even the Reichsbank, were rapidly depleted. This was reflected at once in a shrinkage of production and additional unemployment. Forced sale of collateral in virtually every line caused the stock and bond markets to fall in an alarming manner. Germany stood on the brink of ruin.

The precarious political condition of the country and the ever-present menace of communism made Germany's problems those of the entire Western World. The effect of President Hoover's moratorium proposal was sudden and gratifying. An emergency credit of $300,000,000 has gone far to restore normal credit. The resulting confidence has to a great extent arrested the recalls on short term loans, and German capital, which had shown a tendency to leave the country is again returning.

If the heat doesn't let up, it will soon be causing as many fatalities in a day as automobiles do.

CONTROL OF NARCOTICS

From the Christian Science Monitor.

The action of the international narcotics conference at Geneva in throwing over the so-called quota system—under which the world's legitimate drug requirements would be allocated to existing manufacturers on a prearranged basis—is the sequel to much opposition from nonmanufacturing countries. This arises from a not unnatural feeling that the proposed plan would play into the hands of the producers.

Rejection of the quota has been hailed with joy in some quarters. It must, however, be remembered that the alternative which has been put forward, the import and export certificate system—under which no country shall permit any export unless the exporter presents an authorization from the government of the importing nation—also has its opponents. In fact, until a scheme has been worked out which is acceptable to all countries concerned, a solution of the drug question is not in sight.

According to the meager details now available, the majority of countries represented at Geneva have approved a plan brought forward jointly by France and Japan and based on the certificate system laid down in the drug convention of 1925. The two opponents of this proposal are Great Britain and Soviet Russia, the former adhering to the quota plan and the latter rejecting both plans on the grounds of futility. Several smaller states have not yet decided their attitudes.

It can not be too strongly emphasized that, given good will, almost any reasonable plan of limitation would be successful. Without good will and honest cooperation, every plan is bound to fail for the simple reason that a single refractory nation can flood the world with drugs. Any nation with a developed system of administration can—if it wishes—exercise reasonably effective control over the output of drugs produced in its own territory. But it is very hard for it to prevent drugs from being smuggled in from outside, if some other country is lax in its control of output.

France and Japan are to be congratulated on their efforts to meet the objections of the nonmanufacturing nations to the quota system. Nevertheless, it is legitimate to point out that though they have both already accepted the import and export certificate system, they have not hitherto shown conspicuous success in applying it. Officially, Japan has no drug exports. Actually, China and India are flooded with narcotics of Japanese origin. France has recently improved its record, but the lists of seizures of illicit drugs published during the last few years by the League of Nations bear testimony to another side of the picture.

Great Britain and Soviet Russia, on the other hand, share with the United States a clean slate for a decade. Sir Malcolm Delevigne's doubts as to the usefulness of the Franco-Japanese proposals are therefore not surprising. He speaks as the most experienced fighter of the drug menace attending the conference, and his personal integrity makes his opinion worthy of respect.

At the same time, it is to be hoped that Great Britain will not be unwilling to come to terms with the opponents of the quota. At least, adoption of the Franco-Japanese plan will give an incentive to these countries to tighten and enforce their existing drug regulations.

There are already sufficiently comprehensive international commitments in existence to put an end to the traffic—if they were acted upon. The chief necessity of today is a greater sense of responsibility and a real determination to limit the output of each and every kind of narcotic drug regardless of existing legal technicalities. This is the main fact to be remembered both by the delegates at Geneva and those who have pinned their faith to any particular system of control, water-tight as it may seem theoretically. The need is not for a plan, but a purpose.

The United States can understand that it will now be necessary for Spain to indulge in some family discussion over states' rights.

No modern miracles? Well, Chairman Raskob commends the moratorium and Chairman Fess is silent.

DREAMLAND.

Oh, there is a land which no grown-up may see,
Though he's sure it is wondrously fair.
It's the country where blossoms the sugar plum tree,
And the fairies are sentinels there.
It's the marvelous realm where the lakes and the streams
Are liquefied silver and gold,
The place where the little ones go in their dreams,
And it's barred to the weary and old.

They won't let us sternfaced old cross patches in
With our terrible burden of cares,
For the place would be spoiled should we ever begin
To tamper with Dreamland's affairs.
It's enough for the day we should fret and should scold
And hold them so fast to the right,
Without letting parents and grandparents old
Follow after the children at night.

So when evening slips down over city and town
To dreamland the little ones go,
Where there's no one to scold them and no one to frown
And no one to cry to them: "No."
There all through the nightime with fairies they play
And picnic 'neath sugar-plum trees.
In that wonderful realm till the break of the day
The children may do as they please.

The World's Troubles Don't Affect the Mountaineer Who Never Sees a Paper.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME days ago an Englishman whose word is respected told the world that the present state of affairs is not a mere depression but a major disaster in the making.

Many millions of people read his words, and beyond any doubt some millions of them decided to pinch their pennies a little tighter.

That kind of thing is responsible for much of the world's present woe.

All persons of sourd sense realize that the opinions, prejudices, enthusiasm and fears of humanity are in large measure products of publicity.

In time of war the press is harnessed to generate the "patriotism" necessary to make people tolerate the burdens and restrictions imposed.

In time of peace, both government and private interests appeal to the press to form the public opinion necessary to make their schemes successful.

The power of printer's ink to influence the thoughts and opinions of ordinary people is almost unlimited.

An age that has little time for meditation is hypnotized by headlines.

It is a matter of record, frequently commented upon by police officials, that one suicide sufficiently spectacular or unusual to inspire headlines almost invariably is followed by others.

And there is sufficient evidence to establish at least a presumption that youthful criminals get their inspiration from printed stories of crime.

Yet despite the known power of publicity—despite the common knowledge that public opinion in war and peace is inspired and shaped by publicity—newspapers and magazines the world over continue to remind the literate public that times are bad.

Is it any wonder that people are depressed and afraid to spend their money when every printed page gives them new assurance that the world is in a bad fix?

There are thirty million people earning money in America. The savings banks contain a sum equal to the total earnings of America's workers for a period of eighteen months. The present volume of business, measured by the number of articles instead of their value, is equal to that of 1929.

In short, the only reason for hard times is the fact that people have hard times on their mind.

It is the nature of healthy people to be cheerful. Give them a chance to forget the depression and within a month they will be spending their ready cash and signing on the dotted line.

Cutting Red Tape.

Minneapolis Journal.

The President, who once sat in a log in the woods to smoke pipes with Ramsay MacDonald, discuss America's relations with the British empire and plans for international armament limitations, now has found it convenient to exchange letters directly with President von Hindenberg, to get an inside line on Germany's actual economic plight.

Such a handling of foreign affairs may shock diplomats of the old school. But it gets results. Old timers will recall that the late Philander C. Knox, when Secretary of State in the Taft cabinet, was sneered at a bit when he began what was called dollar diplomacy—the consideration of international relations against a background of their effect on international trade. Yet every civilized nation in the world, in these postwar years, has gone in for this same dollar diplomacy.

In time, perhaps, heads of governments will deal with each other as frankly and directly as business men do. When that day comes, it will not require an exchange of diplomatic notes over a period of many months to settle matters that might as well be gotten out of the way over night. Even red tape can wear out.

Suspension of debt paying, unless there be reduction in armaments at the same time, will merely postpone the days of disaster, the Idaho statesman declares. That is obvious. If the payments on war debts that are foregone for a year are applied on further military preparation, instead of being utilized in economic rehabilitation, the relief intended by creditors will be nullified.

Germany has been setting up a mighty cry for relief from crushing economic burdens. Her leaders have warned that an economic collapse threatened. Yet, only a few days ago the German government launched a new battle cruiser touted as being the most powerful of its size over built. What need has Germany for additional navy?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tribute of President Hoover For Taking Lead in Behalf of World Relief.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One aspect of President Hoover's dramatic assumption of world leadership seems to have been overlooked in the universal chorus of commendation—its effect upon the fashion of self-criticism which prevails among a certain type of Americans.

Some of us who have first-hand knowledge of America's influence upon even the remotest foreign lands have been made sick at heart by the prevalent mood of derogation of our own country by men and women who should know better. Not only have our parlor bolsheviks and near-bolsheviks maintained this attitude of disparagement of America, but also many professors, preachers, writers and reformers have been vociferiously proclaiming that this country, in its international relations, is the embodiment of all that is wrong, in conduct and in spirit.

Suddenly, in spectacular fashion, President Hoover has recalled us all to a realization of the provable truth that America is but conforming to her own history and traditions in seeking to serve the whole world in its emergent needs. What we are now doing is what we have always done. Ours is the one nation which, disinterestedly and sacrificially, has been the servant and leader of mankind.

Here is a topic for talk around family tables, in social gatherings, in sermons and Bible classes, in classrooms and in wayfaring conversations, and at Independence Day celebrations. Especially into our young people should pride in our country, and understanding of her character and mission, be inculcated. The America of President Hoover's proclamation is the America of history; and, please God, the America of tomorrow—the friend and helper of all the world.

In a supposedly leaderless day, President Hoover has dazzled the nations by unheralded leadership. Amidst financial fears he proves that great peoples will forego their own material advantage for the sake of their neighbors and the common good. On the eve of America's greatest patriotic festival, he reveals that we are loyal alike to the cause of national independence and to the cause of international interdependence. WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

"Box Seat," After Critical Weighing of Every Factor, Has a Strong Hunch That Nats Will Beat Macks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There must be something lacking in the baseball fan who hesitates to take a hopeful view of the future. To boast about pennant chances is a source of unadulterated satisfaction to all well-regulated fans; that is, if the home team happens to be any sort of pennant contender. Certainly there is no sport which furnishes a more pleasant mental relaxation than that of baseball hunches which are realized or fall flat from game to game and month to month as the season advances.

My hunch is that the Nationals can outplay the Athletics and will finally win the race for the pennant. Hunches are very uncertain, I admit; but at this writing this one seems mighty good. Because, while the Griffs and the Macks, having struck their stride, seem about evenly matched, I think our club have it in them to outdo themselves if necessary.

That is to say that the manner in which the batting lineup has improved in its rating as fixed by the experts last spring furnishes some reason to believe that the club has plenty of pinch-hitting spirit in reserve for emergencies later on. And what also gives the future a rosy glow is the fact that we have several first-string pitchers who have shown sufficient class and are youthful enough to stand the airtight strain as the days grow shorter.

Let me say, nothwithstanding the doubts of any who haven't the courage of their grandstand demonstrations, that I am not the least bit bashful in presenting this pennant hunch. In fact I don't think I would be quite the right kind of a fan if it wouldn't give me a good deal of satisfaction to see it in print.

Not Being a Member of the League of Nations, Uncle Sam Is in a Position of World Leadership.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The internationalists are having a third lesson in how important it is to the world that this Nation is not a member of the League of Nations. In a financial muddle that must be adjusted they asked Uncle Sam to provide a workable scheme and the Dawes plan did the business. No member of the league could have put out a proposition, no matter how worthy, because there would be sure to be some private advantage to the promoter. Again, the Young plan was put into effect, for the same reasons. Present conditions call for special services and President Hoover proposes to give Germany a year "to catch her breath," for the race has been pretty swift, since the treaty was signed. But the United States is outside the league, and though this Nation stands to lose $245,000,000 of the $425,000,000 that it will cost, who can imagine that Europe would be so nearly unanimous as it now is, had the U. S. signed at Versailles? Oh, no. They would have walked around "the woodpile" looking for the curly head, because they can't get it straight that there is such a thing as a proposition without "a string" to it. Thank God, we are not in the League of Nations, and so are in a position to help, and not have it suggested that there is sinister purpose behind it. It might also be mentioned that the Red Cross does its work in the same spirit. Maybe the world will learn in time, that Uncle Sam is not "a Shylock."

ARTHUR GIBSON MORSE.

HOOVER KEEPS EYE ON COAL SITUATION

Lamont and Doak Ordered to Study Conditions in Bituminous Field.

(Associated Press.)

Through two of his Cabinet members President Hoover is seeking a way of improving economic conditions in the bituminous coal mining industry.

The President made this announcement yesterday in a telegram to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, who had asked him to call a conference to consider the industry's problems.

"The administration is desirous of lending every possible assistance to any constructive program put forward by operators and miners," Mr. Hoover said.

He added he had asked Secretaries Lamont and Doak to advise him as to the present attitude of those directly concerned in the industry as well as all others interested in the bituminous coal situation.

The President called attention to the fact that "the many intricate economic problems and competitive conditions existing in a majority of the bituminous coal mining districts" are of general knowledge and have been the subject of investigation and study by both Federal and State agencies.

Seeks Better Living Conditions.

Lewis' request for action by the Government was made in an effort to reach an agreement whereby miners' living conditions could be improved through stabilization of the industry.

Years before the present economic depression the bituminous coal fields of the country began to suffer from overproduction with consequent price cuts among the many companies. Operaters hiring nonunion labor cut wages and many smaller companies, forced to pay the union scale, went out of business.

Wholesale mergers of operating companies with resultant limitation and regulation of production has been advanced as one of the most potent forces for stabilization.

Strikes in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia with several thousands of miners idle have added in recent weeks to the troubles of the industry. Both union and nonunion workers walked out in protest against wage cuts or in demand for higher wages and shorter working hours.

Hoover Assures Cooperation.

The text of President Hoover's telegram to Mr. Lewis follows:

"Your telegram conveying the request of the executive council of the United Mine Workers that a conference of operators and miners be convened by the Government was received in my absence from Washington.

"The many intricate economic problems and competitive conditions existing in a majority of the bituminous coal mining districts of our country are of general knowledge and it is realized that the difficulties of the industry have been the subject of exhaustive investigations and study by Federal and State agencies and commissions, undertaken with the object of aiding those connected with, and interested in, this basic industry.

"The administration is desirous of lending every possible assistance to any constructive program put forward by operators and miners. Accordingly, I have referred the communications received from your council and others to the Secretaries of Commerce and Labor, and have asked them to advise me as to the present attitude of those directly concerned in the industry as to the manner in which the Government might contribute helpfully in any movement designed to advance the well-being of operators and workers, as well as all others interested in the bituminous coal situation."

Balloon Lands in City; Gas Downs Bystanders

Lillie, June 30 (U.P.).—A balloon, piloted by members of the Northern Aeronautical Association, was forced down in the heart of this city, due to bad weather conditions. Neither the pilots, nor any of the spectators, were injured, but three bystanders who helped the balloonists out of the car were overcome by gas fumes. The balloon came down in a street near the market square and lay poised on the street car wires for some time. It finally sank slowly to the street, the bag being slightly damaged.

Sunday Recreation Ban Hit by Roper

Philadelphia Councilman Hits Back After Attack on Him From Pulpit.

Philadelphia, June 30 (U.P.).—The best way to promote communism is to take away recreational privileges from the ordinary man, in the opinion of Councilman William W. Roper, former Princeton football coach.

Roper's statement was made in answer to a charge read by the Rev. B. Smith Stull before the Methodist Episcopal Preachers' meeting attacking the councilman for his opposition to the Pennsylvania blue law.

The former Princeton coach said that he had violated the Sunday law by buying gasoline, riding a horse and attending a club dinner and insisted that it was better to allow men reasonable activities on Sunday than to force them to break the laws to enjoy their day of rest.

Sthamer, German Diplomat, Dies

As Envoy to London Was Active for Dawes Plan and Locarno Pact.

Hamburg, Germany, June 30 (A.P.). Friederich Sthamer, former Ambassador to Great Britain and a friend of King George, died early today of heart disease. He was 74.

Dr. Friederich Sthamer served as the first post-war charge d'affaires for Germany in London. He went there in 1920 and was so successful in reestablishing relations between the two nations that he was made ambassador a few months later and retained that post until 1930.

He had no diplomatic experience previous to going to London. He was a lawyer, educated in several German universities, had been a member of the Hamburg Senate and served as burgomaster of Hamburg.

He was active in the negotiation of the Dawes plan and the Locarno pact.

MACDONALD SPEECH ON ARMS IS LAUDED

London Press Praises Plea for Cooperation on Cut in Armaments.

London, June 30 (A.P.).—Prime Minister MacDonald's speech in the House of Commons yesterday calling on the nations of the world to cooperate at the 1932 disarmament conference was applauded in the press today.

Referring to the covenant of the League of Nations in an editorial headlined "Safety Point," the Laborite Herald said: "Twelve years have passed since it was signed. Is there a single power today—other than those under compulsion—that has genuinely complied with that requirement?"

The Post was of the opinion it would be optimistic to believe that the disarmament conference would yield any drastic results and said that little had been achieved from the "long, laborious conferences and discussions in which the nations have been immersed for years past."

In that time the world has been carried away from rather than toward the desired objective, the paper said, "for, as the premier proved with a convincing array of figures, the tide of armaments, so far from receding during all these conferences, has steadily swollen."

The Times declared that there are many in Great Britain who believed that the successive British governments already had been overzealous in the reduction of armaments and, "when economies had to be made, have too readily assumed that the strength and efficiency of the navy and the army ought to be the first to suffer. There is a limit to this short-sighted policy, and the limit, by common consent, has now been reached."

The figures on military expenditure in France, Italy and the United States since 1925, the Times said, "will certainly come as a shock to the British public, and they derive especial importance from the fact that the expenditure is the standard chosen by the preparatory disarmament commission with which to measure armed strength."

Civil Service Tests Announced by U. S.

Civil service examinations for the purpose of providing registers of eligibles for filling future vacancies in the positions of boilermaker helper, electrician helper, molder helper, pipefitter helper, electrician, electroplater, gas cutter or burner, steel melter, electric, and molder at the Washington Navy Yard and the Naval Research Laboratory, Bellevue, Anacostia, D. C., have been announced by the Civil Service Commission.

Persons interested should apply to the Labor Board at the Washington Navy Yard for application form 1800 and further information. The closing date for receipt of applications is July 20, 1931.

EDUCATORS SEEK PLACE IN CABINET

Los Angeles Meeting Asks Government to Cooperate in School Work.

Los Angeles, June 30 (A.P.).—Creation of a Federal department of education with a place in the Cabinet was recommended by the National Education Association today in one of the six general resolutions adopted.

The association's resolution stated the Federal Government should aid the States and localities to equalize educational opportunities through the dissemination of authentic information scientifically evaluated by experts.

Another resolution condemned "ill considered cuts in school budgets, reductions in teachers' salaries or other short-sighted policies, advocated because of the present economic depression. Education is the basis of our national wealth and of our economic and social stability," the resolution states.

The association recognized the necessity of providing educational opportunities for children in urban centers, and the "pressing needs of rural school curriculum revision to meet the needs of rural life today."

The Federal Government was urged to make a thorough study of rural education throughout the Nation. Many old resoltions were reaffirmed. One dealt with education by radio. The association believes legislation should be enacted which "will safeguard for the uses of education and government a reasonable share of the radio broadcasting channels of the United States."

Another resolution recommended the pact of Paris be taught in the schools, and favored the accession of the United States to the permanent court of international justice under the terms of the protocols now awaiting approval by the United States Senate.

The association reaffirmed its stand in favor of the eighteenth amendment.

'Demon' Milk Perils French Wine Trade

Paris, June 30 (A.P.).—French wine makers are genuinely alarmed over the decrease in wine drinking, both in France and abroad. While wine is losing favor, beer and milk are becoming more popular.

Billboard advertising by milk companies recently roused the ire of the wine merchants, who claim that heavy governmental taxes are driving drinkers to milk and other products.

Dr. Klein Discloses Discharge of Eder

Department of Commerce Expert Clashed With Other Officials.

(Associated Press.)

George J. Eder, Commerce Department Latin-American trade expert, has been dismissed as a result of conflicts with officials over statements on Latin-American trade, the most recent a comparison of British and American trade methods in Argentina.

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who disclosed yesterday Eder would leave the department, said the comparison was the last of a series of episodes in which Eder figured that led to his being given notice, effective late in July.

Eder's comparison of trade methods was contained in an exhaustive study of the export trade of this country and England, prepared privately as a treatise for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace for publication in "international conciliation."

POLICE PROMOTIONS ARE CELEBRATED AS "OLD FIRST" CLOSES

Sounding of Taps Officially Terminates History of Precinct Station.

HARRISON, RETIRED, TENDERED TRIBUTE

Burke Honored by Men on Eve of His Elevation; Helan Retires.

The "Old First" Precinct ended its days yesterday, as the downtown station, which must give way for new construction under the Government building program, was abandoned. While a bugler blew "Taps" the flag on the station was lowered, officially closing the precinct.

Ceremonies at the First Precinct ended a day of celebrations in various precincts as men were retired and promoted officers were honored by their commands.

Inspector William H. Harrison, who retires today after 39 years of active service, was given a tribute by fellow officers yesterday in the office of Maj. Henry G. Pratt.

Burke to Head Detectives.

In the First Precinct, Capt. Frank S. W. Burke, who becomes chief of detectives today with the rank of assistant superintendent, was honored by his subordinates, who presented a desk set to him.

Capt. O. T. Davis, of the Second Precinct, who becomes an inspector today, was given a desk set and watch by the precinct personnel.

Odell S. Smith, chairman of the public order committee of the Washington Board of Trade, lauded Capt. Burke's administration of the First Precinct. In response, Capt. Burke thanked the personnel of the precinct for cooperation and loyalty.

Others who spoke at the First Precinct exercises were Inspectors Albert J. Headley, E. W. Brown and Louis J. Stoll. Private William J. Kerns, station clerk at the precinct for more than 20 years, who was recently transferred to headquarters, was given a wrist watch by his former associates.

Harrison Is Paid Honor.

After the presentations, the precinct personnel stood at attention outside as the flag was lowered to the accompaniment of "taps" blown by Patrolman Julius Moeller, of the Third Precinct.

At the celebration in honor of retiring Inspector Harrison, Inspector William S. Shleby, on behalf of the administrative staff, presented Harrison with a watch and chain. Inspector Shelby praised Harrison's career in the Police Department.

Those present at the exercises were Maj. Pratt, Inspectors Brown, Stoll and Headley, Capts. Edward J. Kelly, L. I. Edwards, Frank S. W. Burke, William G. Stott, Lieut. Joseph Morgan and others of the administrative staff.

Helan Is Retired.

Frank M. Helan, for 25 years a sort of liaison officer between the Metropolitan Police Department and the office of the United States attorney for the District of Columbia, left his post yesterday to enter retirement. He ranked as a detective sergeant in the Police Department.

During his 25 years in the office of the United States attorney, Mr. Helan had seen nine United States attorneys enter office. They were United States Attorneys Beady, Birney, Davis, Gould, Baker, Wilson, Laskey, Gordon and Rover.

A bag and a bouquet of flowers were presented to Helan, whose work was praised by Acting United States Attorney John W. Fihelly. Mr. Helan joined the Police Department on November, 1868, after ten years spent in the military service.

He was sent to the position from which he retired in 1906, and he left because of the compulsory retirement measure adopted several months ago. He is 74 years old.

Changes Are Ordered In Police Trial Board

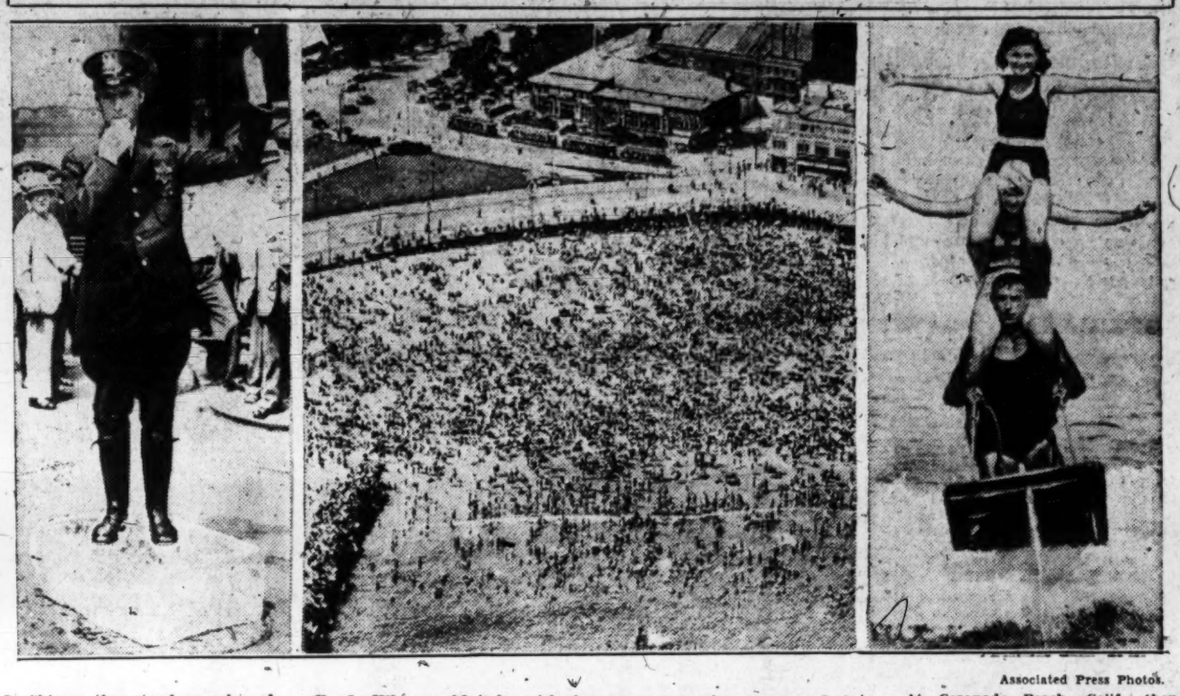
A reorganization of the Police Trial Board was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners to be effective tomorrow following the general shake-up in the Police Department.

Capt. O. T. Davis, of the Second Precinct, who assumes the rank of inspector, will be chairman of the new board. The other members are to be Capt. Maurice Collins, of the Seventh Precinct, and Capt. James F. Beckett, of the Third Precinct. Capts. Walter Emerson and J. A. Sullivan are the new alternates.

Inspector L. J. Stoll, present chairman, is being relieved of the duty because of the added work that confronts him as head of the first inspection district. Capt. F. S. W. Burke, an alternate member, also dropped from the board, is to be chief of detectives. Capt. W. G. Stott, a regular member, and Capt. W. E. Holmes, an alternate, were replaced.

The reorganized Trial Board will be relieved of hearing some of the smaller cases, however, under the new system. Each inspector will have authority to try offenders whose conviction would carry mandatory dismissal sentences.

TOO WARM? HERE ARE SOME WAYS OTHER CITIES KEEP COOL



Associated Press Photos.

In Chicago they stand on cakes of ice to keep cool. Or at least Traffic Policeman James Brennan does. He is shown atop a cake of ice on one of Chicago's busiest corners.

'Hot? Who wouldn't be with the mercury soaring to around the 100 mark? But New York's millions are finding a way to keep cool. They flock to the beaches. The above picture showing a section of the hundreds of thousands of bathers at Coney Island proves that. This is a typical Sunday crowd.

At Coronado Beach, Calif., they beat the heat wave by going aquaplaning. Steve Patrick is holding Mrs. D. W. Heath who in turn is supporting Mary Sullivan.

Chinese Organize Group For Study of Music

Peiping, June 30 (U.P.).—Cultural leaders of China have organized a society here for the study of Chinese music and musical instruments. Dr. Tsai Yuan-pei, president of the Academia Sinica, is a leader in the society.

The Fine Arts Society of Peiping has recently employed a teacher of Chinese music and musical instruments, and interest has become general among foreign residents and Chinese. Concerts have been given which have been widely attended by foreigners.

Many Blind Graduates Succeed in Careers

Pittsburgh, June 30 (U.P.).—Ninety-eight graduates of the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind have taken a new lease on life after completing a course at the institute, a survey showed.

The survey includes graduates from 1898 to the present class.

Of the 98 graduates, 58 are women. Twelve of the women are married and have families.

Teaching music and literature in schools and homes has provided places for 13.

Because of their ability to overcome handicaps, nineteen are in business for themselves. Miss Marjorie Stewart, one of the graduates, operates a radio training school. Two are chiropractors and fifteen are owners of confectionery stores or candy shops.

CATHEDRAL LIBRARY TABLET UNVEILED

Memorial to Mrs. Blair Is Undraped by Daughter; Dr. Peter Officiates.

A bronze memorial tablet was unveiled yesterday at the entrance to the memorial wing of Washington Cathedral Library, the gift by Mrs. Violet Blair Janin, placed there in honor of Mrs. Mary Jesup Blair, her mother, in whose memory the first unit of Washington Cathedral Library was given by Mrs. Janin.

The order of service for the dedication of the tablet to Mrs. Blair was read by the Rev. Dr. G Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington Cathedral. Mrs. Janin pulled aside the flag draped over the tablet, after which Dr. Peter pronounced the sentence of dedication.

On the tablet were inscribed these words:

To the Glory of God and in Memory of
MARY JESUP BLAIR.
December 7, 1826—June 6, 1914.
Many Daughters Have Done Virtuously
But Thou Excellest Them All.

Among those present at the service were Mrs. Janin, her nieces, the Misses Powell; Canon Joseph Fletcher, librarian of Washington Cathedral; J. Allison Scott, assistant treasurer of the cathedral; Edwin N. Lewis, editor of the Cathedral Age, and James Berkeley, head verger.

The first wing of the Cathedral Library, built as the result of the gift of Mrs. Janin, was opened in 1927. The reading room in this wing is patterned after a gentleman's oak paneled library of the Tudor period. In it hang portraits of the Most Rev. William Laud, Archbishop of Canterbury; the Right Rev. Lancelot Andrews, chairman of the commission which translated the King James version of the Bible; and the Most Rev. George Abbot, Archbishop of Canterbury, one of the translators of the King James version of the Bible. It makes available to clergy and special students 20,000 volumes now owned by Washington Cathedral.

PERSONAL RETURNS FILING PERIOD OPEN

Residents Have Until Last on Month to Declare Possessions.

Tax Assessor William P. Richards yesterday announced that personal tax returns must be filed between tomorrow and midnight on July 31 for the fiscal year 1932. The law requires that any resident of the District owning taxable tangible or intangible property must file the return.

Tangible personal property includes the stock-in-trade of merchandise, fixtures, implements, and equipment of all nature except automobiles, household furnishings, silverware, jewelry—whether acquired by purchase or gift—and boats, either owned by residents of the District or belonging to nonresidents but located in District waters when no tax is paid in any other jurisdiction.

Intangible property consists of money, credits, mortgages, notes, stocks and bonds and securities of any nature. Valuation of intangible property is supposed to be taken at the opening of business on July 1.

Last year about 38,000 personal tax returns were filed with the tax assessor, and a total tax of $6,425,989.78 was assessed. Penalty for failure to file the return brings, upon conviction in the District Supreme Court, a 20 per cent fine and the cost of the proceedings, as well as the original tax.

A new system of collecting dog taxes to be tried this year will not be ready for operation until about July 15. An applicant must get a bill from the tax assessor's office for presentation to the tax collector under the new plan. Some time later dog owners will be able to obtain tags and pay the taxes by mail.

These taxes are the most difficult of collection, and each year many of them go unpaid, despite arbitrary assessments. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, told the District Commissioners when they started to work on the 1933 estimates that several millions in personal taxes are on the books but uncollected.

She won't believe it's your own painting

Now you can paint your car yourself and get results that a skilled painter would be proud of.

True? You're darn tootin' it's true. Millions of car owners have already proved it. You'll know WHY when you understand how different Steelcote is. Not a paint. Not a lacquer. It's the only enamel that contains real rubber. It flows itself on smooth.

Shows no brush marks, lap marks or streaks. One quart is usually enough and no varnishing is needed. And it's the most durable finish of all.

Dries smooth, brilliant.

Looks and lasts like baked enamel. Because it's made from an elastic rubber base, it won't crack, peel or chip.

Use over old lacquer, paint, or any car finish. Why drive a shabby car when $2 or $3 worth of Steelcote and a few hours of your time can make your car look new? See a Steelcote dealer today and get folder showing 60 beautiful color combinations.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Varied Tour Abroad Begun By Archbolds

Geneva First Destination of Noted Capital Leader.

VARIED, to say the least, is the summer itinerary of Mrs. Anne Archbold, daughter of the late John D. Archbold, of Standard Oil fame, and her children, John, Armar and Moira. Mrs. Archbold closed her spacious residence on Reservoir road about two weeks ago and sailed for Europe, having set Geneva, Switzerland, as her destination.

She will spend some time there in the course of an extended tour of Europe. Armar Archbold sailed a week earlier than his mother and sister, and "on his own" is traveling in England, having taken his car to Europe. John Archbold, the eldest of the two boys, is in New York, although he has made several visits to Washington since his mother sailed for Europe. He is occupying Armar's apartment in Greenwich Village, having become established there while he is working on the invention of a new type of motor for cars and airplanes. If his work is finished within a few weeks, he will sail for Europe to join his brother. Otherwise he will go to Bar Harbor in August to make a series of visits.

If Mrs. Archbold's present plans materialize, the coming winter will find her bound for Java, Borneo and the Celebes. She hopes to charter a boat, and with her children sail for an extended cruise in the South Seas.

Interested in exploring the remote corners of the world, Mrs. Archbold, over a period of years, has traveled far and wide. Comparatively speaking, she has spent but a short time at her Reservoir road estate, since it was completed about seven years ago, when she came to Washington from England to reside. The house, Spanish in design, is filled with treasures which she has collected in the course of her travels. Some years ago she went on a wild game expedition in Africa and the trophies of the hunt adorn the inclosed porch at the south of her residence here.

Secretary Hyde To Go to West Coast.

The Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Arthur M. Hyde, and his daughter, Miss Carolina Hyde, who are now at their home in Trenton, Mo., will leave tomorrow for the West Coast where Mrs. Hyde will arrive July 20, on the U. S. S. Grant from the Orient. The Secretary and his daughter will go West by way of the Yellowstone National Park.

The first Ambassador of the Spanish Republic, Senor Salvador de Madariago, presented his credentials to President Hoover yesterday afternoon at the White House. The newly appointed ambassador was presented to the President by the Counselor of the Embassy, Count de Montefuerte.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke, will meet Mrs. Jahncke and their daughter, Miss Adele Townsend Jahncke in New York today. They will arrive on the S. S. Leviathan after an extended sojourn abroad, where Miss Jahncke was presented at the Court of St. James.

Mr. Jahncke went to Boston yesterday to be present at the commissioning of the United States frigate, Constitution, at the Boston Navy Yard and will go to New York today.

The Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. W. Irving Glover, returned to Washington Monday evening by air from Denver, Colo.

The surgeon general of the Army, Maj. Gen. Robert Patterson, will be joined the latter part of July by Mrs. Patterson and their daughter, Miss Eleanor Lyman Patterson, who are en route to this country from Gen. Patterson's former post in Hawaii. They sailed Saturday from Honolulu on the Chateau-Thierry.

Gen. Patterson, who succeeded Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland as surgeon general, took over his duties June 1 and is stopping at the Army and Navy Club until the arrival of his family before selecting a house in Washington. Miss Patterson's engagement to Lieut. David Wells Roberts, U. S. N., was announced the middle of May and the wedding will probably take place in Washington next winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair will leave Washington today for Newport where they will pass the remainder of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Blair have gone to East Hampton, Long Island, to pass the summer.

Departs Today

MME. DE LA BARRA, wife of the First Secretary of the Bolivian Legation, who will sail on Saturday to pass the summer in South America.

Mrs. Miller Is Married to Dean Pound

Quiet Ceremony Takes Place in St. John's Church.

The marriage of Mrs. Lucy Berry Miller, of the Hotel Lafayette, and Dean Roscoe Pound, of the Harvard Law School, took place yesterday noon at St. John's Episcopal Church, Canon E. S. Dunlap officiating.

The bride was the widow of Col. James E. Miller, distinguished surgeon and organizer of World War veterans' hospitals. Dean Pound's membership in the Law Enforcement Commission expired yesterday, but his residence here during sessions of the commission led the acquaintance and marriage with Mrs. Miller. They both had lived at the Lafayette.

Mrs. Pound is of a family widely known in Indiana educational circles. Her sister, Prof. Lillian Gay Berry, is a well known educator, and her brother, Judge Burton Berry, is a member of the Indiana bar.

Dean Pound has been head of the Harvard Law School since 1916 and holds honorary degrees from nearly a dozen universities. He is the author of several books on law and a member of a dozen professional organizations.

Dean and Mrs. Pound will probably travel in Europe on their honeymoon and will make their home in Cambridge, Mass.

Julia Porter Becomes Bride Of Mr. Hise

Marriage Takes Place in New York Avenue Church.

Among the last brides of June is Miss Julia Ranna Porter, daughter of Interstate Commerce Commissioner and Mrs. Claude Rodman Porter, whose marriage to Mr. George Richard Hise, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hise, of Des Moines, Iowa, took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo before an altar decorated with spring flowers in tall standards, and candelabra of white tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she wore a princess model of ivory satin, with bell sleeves embroidered in pearls. The train fell from a band of pearls at the hip-line, and the tulle veil was held by a narrow band of pearls. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Northa-Louise Porter, sister of the bride, who wore a costume of white embroidered mousseline de soie over rose taffeta, with a sash of the same color. Her hat was a wide-brimmed straw with rose ribbons, and she carried and old-fashioned bouquet.

The bridesmaids were the bride's other two sisters, Miss Dorothy Porter and Miss Mary Charlotte Porter. They wore costumes like that of the maid of honor over green and yellow slips.

The best man was Mr. Donald Hise, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. George B. Hise, brother of the bridegroom; Mr. Rollins Hunter, Mr. Dudley Weible, of Des Moines; Mr. Howard Eckerman, of Davenport, Iowa; Mr. Cresson O. Davis, of Philadelphia, and Mr. Samuel Duckworth, of New York.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents at 2101 Connecticut avenue, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hise left for a motor trip through Canada, the bride wearing an ensemble of green crepe with a hat to match and beige accessories.

They will be at home after September 1, in Des Moines.

Among the out-of-town guests were the two grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Samuel Boutin, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Mrs. George D. Porter, of Des Moines; Mr. Laurence Boutin, Mrs. Emma K. Boutin, of Germantown, Pa.; Miss Dorothy Coleman, Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. A. L. Eckerman, of Davenport, Iowa; Mr and Mrs. A. A. Steinbeck, of Youngstown, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hise, of Des Moines.

Miss Patricia Henry, daughter of the Chief of Cavalry and Mrs. Guy V. Henry, will leave Washington today for Camp Ken Jocktee in Vermont, where she will spend the summer. Mrs. Henry and Miss Mary Ingraham Henry will start Sunday for a motor trip to the Pacific Coast. They will return to their home here in September.

Martha Mead Becomes Bride Of Boston Man

Marriage to William L. Hallowell Solemnized in Bay State.

In the quaint Episcopal Church, Saint-Andrews-by-the-Sea at Hyannisport, Mass., yesterday noon Miss Martha Montague Mead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jennings Mead, of 1026 Sixteenth street, Washington, became the bride of Mr. William Ladd Hallowell, of Boston, son of Mrs. John H. Hallowell. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Ze Barney Phillips, of Epiphany Church, Washington.

Small cedar trees and cibotium ferns were arranged at the chancel, forming a dark foreground for the tall vases of delphinium and annunciata lilies and lighted tapers that decked the altar. Preceding the service the organist gave a program of music and played during the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of ivory satin fashioned on princess lines with long, close fitting sleeves, the neckline draped in soft folds of the satin. Over the long train fell the wedding veil of tulle, which was caught to the head with a cap of rose point with tiny clusters of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of gardenias and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor, Miss Eleanor Hallowell, sister of the bridegroom, wore a graceful gown of pale yellow mousseline de soie with a large hat to match and carried an armful of garden roses.

The best man was Mr. John W. Hallowell, brother of the bridegroom, of Boston. Two brothers of the bride, Mr. James J. Mead, jr., of New York, and Mr. Montague Mead, of Washington, were among the ushers, the others being Mr. Roger Hallowell, jr., Mr. Northrop H. Churchill, Mr. Robert Hallowell and Mr. Norman Vaugman, all of Boston, and Mr. Louis Statt, of New York.

The wedding breakfast was held in the garden of the estate. Mrs. John W. Hallowell was gowned in a chiffon print of yellow and brown, and Mrs. Mead wore a chiffon in soft blue and white. Each wore hats to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Hallowell will sail today for a honeymoon abroad.

Mr. Hallowell is the son of the late Mr. John W. Hallowell, Assistant Secretary of the Interior in the second Wilson administration, who before that was assistant to Mr. Hoover in the Federal food administration.

Senator and Mrs. George H. Moses are the guests for a fortnight of Mr. and Mrs. William Andros Barron, at Crawford House, Crawford Notch, N. H.

Mrs. Christine Buchholz and her niece, Mrs. George A. Stoner, have sailed on the S. S. Reliance on the North Cape Cruise, which will take them to Iceland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Russia. At the completion of the cruise they will go to Germany for a three months' stay.

Prince Svasti To Be Guest of Mr. Kaufman

Envoy to Siam Will Give Large July 4 Party in Towanda.

Planning a brilliant Fourth of July reception which will be given in honor of Prince Svasti, father of the Queen of Siam, and Princess Svasti, the United States Minister to Siam, Mr. David E. Kaufman returned to his home in Towanda, Pa., last evening after a brief visit in Washington. Haven Lodge, Mr. Kaufman's 400-acre show place in Pennsylvania, will be turned over to the impressive celebration for the royal visitors. With fireworks and other appropriate features, the reception will start early in the day and last through the evening. The guests will number about 150. Mr. Kaufman having invited friends from many cities in the East to attend.

Mr. Kaufman is famous for giving parties on a large scale. When he was serving as Minister to Bolivia, in La Paz, during the Coolidge administration he chartered the opera house for orphans. His popularity was widespread in Bolivia, and he was not disturbed when the shake-up among diplomats holding South American posts occurred in the early part of the present administration. He was appointed Minister to Siam a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Sabin have returned from Europe, where they spent two months.

Arts and architecture will be the subjects featured at the Arts Club tomorrow evening. Mr. Charles A. R. Dunn and Mr. Lynch Luquer will be in charge of the entertainment, which will illustrate how "artists and architects can put curves in straight lines."

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Dismar have just returned to their home here from Atlantic City where they went to celebrate their silver wedding anniversary. They passed two weeks at the New Jersey resort.

Ruth Nichols Arrives In Boston by Airplane

Boston, June 30 (A.P.).—Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, landed at the East Boston Airport a few minutes before 5 o'clock (E. D. T.) this afternoon.

Clarence Chamberlin piloted the plane which was taking Miss Nichols back from St. John, N. B., to New York to recuperate from injuries received in a crack-up at St. John.

Miss Nichols was anxious to get back to New York to watch repairs being made to her plane to get it in shape again for the transatlantic flight attempt. Chamberlin's plane stopped here only long enough to refuel with gas and oil.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Very simply cut is this tremendously smart dress. And there are lots of things about it that the heavier women will like.

The cross-over lines need no introduction. The one-sided, softly falling jabot rever deserves mention, for it detracts so beautifully from breadth. There is still another point—the clever arrangement of the skirt fullness concentrated at the front.

A printed crepe silk as sketched is smart for all-day occasions.

Style No. 273 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inch bust. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch material with ⅜ yard of 10-inch lace and ⅝ yard of 35-inch lining.

Plain crepe tub silk in pastel and white make up interestingly in this model.

Georgette, chiffon prints, batiste prints and linen are also suitable.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

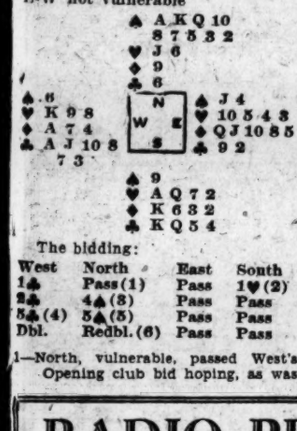
WHAT PRICE PSYCHOLOGY?

WITHOUT a proper appreciation of psychology, technic in Contract, however perfect, loses half its value. Bidding in Contract is based upon values held, but there is another element no one can afford to minimize if he desires success at the bridge table. In the precision and depth of inferences required, Contract stands on a par with Chess. It is infinitely richer, however, in that it leaves such a broad field for personal equation. The principle of successful bidding is to tell your partner only enough to encourage him to keep the bidding alive; to conceal, as much as may be, your strength and weakness from the enemy.

Many Bridge players fail at this point. They woodenly follow excellent general principles and open a legible bidding book to an alert opponent; to the partner book may be Sanskrit. Even though partner understands everything that is said, there are players who persist in revealing in the bidding every weak spot in their armor; every place along the frontier unprotected by an impregnable fortress. Such tactics facilitate successful attack by an alert and relentless enemy.

Sound strategy requires the element of surprise. For this reason, in preparing the Culbertson Standard System of bidding, I purposely left so much room for the free play of personality behind the cards. In other words, I gave to the player opportunity to conceive and develop major strategy. I had the pleasure recently of seeing an extremely accurate application of the principles of shrewd strategy and the use of sound psychology at the Contract table.

West—Dealer
N-S vulnerable
E-W not vulnerable



The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♣	Pass (1)	Pass	1♥ (2)
2♣	4♠ (3)	Pass	Pass
5♣ (4)	5♠ (5)	Pass	Pass
Dbl.	Redbl. (6)	Pass	Pass

1—North, vulnerable, passed West's Opening club bid hoping, as was justified by the results, to make a surprise bid later. There was in his course the risk of loss but it was counterbalanced by the opportunity of even greater gain in case his strategy succeeded. The success of the strategy was, of course, predicated upon a Takeout by East or an Overcall by South.

2—For a moment North must have despaired. East had passed and all North's hopes were now pinned to the slender possibility that South, vulnerable, might be strong enough to make an Overcall of an uncontested one-bid. However, major strategy involves the taking of risks. South's bid of one heart must have been sweet music in North's ears.

3—The moment for concealment having passed, North boldly bid for game. His hand contains 9 sure tricks. His partner's hand, if it at all justified an Overcall, must produce one or more.

4—West fears that through some freak of the gods of distribution a bid of four spades can be made. While he can not hope to make five clubs, he overbids because, not vulnerable, his loss should not be heavy.

5—North is unwillingly forced to bid five spades. The success of this bid is uncertain and depends possibly on whether South's tricks are first or second-round tricks. However, the loss can not be great and North's hand is virtually trickless in defense.

6—Having cleverly concealed the make-up of his hand, North redoubles, confident there is a good chance of making the contract and that in no case can it be defeated more than 1 trick. The Redouble, if made, nets North 400 additional points. If it goes down 1 trick, it can cost only 200 points. The odds justify the Redouble.

In the play East opened the diamond Queen, which was covered by South's King in order to force the lead into the West hand and West's return of the diamond was ruffed. Now the trumps were led, a club established to discard the losing heart and the contract of 5 redoubled made. By a combination of deep psychology, master strategy and excellent play, North had trapped his opponents.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Intricately incrusted pale maize silk organdie forms this informal evening frock with its odd decolletage and tiny, detachable jacket. (A Dah-ray design.)

New York, June 30.

YOUR Dah-ray is always on the quest for useful bits of information for you! And when I saw a brightly beaded girdle on a white satin gown at a very swanky reception, the last time I was in Paris, I went and asked a famous couturiere to give me the low-down on beads. She assured me they were the coming trimming for all kinds of attire. That was a few months ago and all the recent collections confirm her prophecy. Every one of them almost without exception show one or more models with some kind of beading as trimming.

Agnes-Drecoll (Drecoll-Beer) goes in for beaded trimming to a great extent. One model in navy blue wool crepe—an all-day long kind of frock had a large scarf collar woven of not too small red and white wooden beads and bracelet effects on both wrists of the same red and white beads. A number of afternoon dresses had just a tiny touch of beading such as yellow beaded balls forming the belt buckle on a black crepe model. Another dress in black had collar and cuffs of the lingerie type made entirely of tiny yellow beads. And a very lovely black dress had huge white sleeves with a lacing effect up their sides complete with eyelets and little bow all picked out in tiny colored beads. And of course beaded harness decolletages (the type of decolletage with cut-out effects in back) appear on quite a few evening gowns.

Worth uses beading, too. In one black model for afternoon the white sleeves have a design outlined in fairly large pearls—the kind that necklaces are made of. And the top of one pyjama suit is all embroidered in beads.

Jenny has a white crepe blouse—one of her famous bolero type of blouses, in which the black and white dots are embroidered in beads—the material looking just like a dotted print from a little distance. And this embroidered dot idea appears in several other houses, too.

The new thing about this beading idea is that it must be done with discretion and must exactly suit the type of thing it is on. And the difficulty is that unless discretion is used the effect is all too liable to be garish.

Do you know that pale maize color that's like pallid, sunflecked gold? Do you know how becoming it is to many types of complexions, and how utterly, breath-takingly lovely it is if it's made up in some out-of-the-ordinary fashion? It's the color of the silk organdie I chose for the frock I designed and sketched for you today—a little informal summer evening frock! Don't you agree with me that the frock is unusual with its odd decolletage, its short-sleeved wee detachable jacket with the standing collar, its three-tiered peplum, and the incrustations that form a zigzag hemline of uneven length? And unusually lovely, too?

Even if you can't copy this style for your summer evenings, don't you want to remember the pale maize color, that will surround you with a nimbus of gold like a fairy-tale princess?

* * * *

Just because an everyday material is used, the result is far from ordinary if it is used by Schiaparelli! For instance, the stunning spiral bracelet and flat, collar-like necklace sketched today are made of plain white celluloid—but they have that "million-dollar" difference!

* * * *

We all need an evening dress, even though we use it only once in a while—we all love the luxury of owning a Sunday night frock for special occasions, yet the thing we need more than either of these is an afternoon gown, formal enough for the hundreds of occasions that crop up, and lovely enough to make our best friends envious! And when you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet explaining how to make such an afternoon frock, you'll find out that it's just part of the marvelous interchangeable frock I've designed especially for you—the frock that can be used for formal evenings, for Sunday nights or for afternoons by just a few simple changes!

Do look for the Dah-ray weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Post every Sunday.

YOUR NAME
What Does It Mean?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Judd" is found in the earliest English documents. In a few cases it means "the son of Jude." The personal name "Jude" is of Hebrew origin, and may be translated "praise" or "praised." In the great majority of cases, however, "Judd" is a shortened form of "Jordan." The personal name "Jordan" was first adopted at the time of the Crusades when Crusaders returned with water from the River Jordan with which to baptize their sons. "Jordan" is derived from the Hebrew "Yarden," which means "the descender." The River Jordan was so named because of the rapidity with which it descends to the Dead Sea. In France the family name "Jourdain," from this same source, is very common. Its usual Italian form is "Giordano." In Germany it occurs with many variations. Some of the commonest are "Jordan," "Jordans," "Jordens" and "Joerdens." However, the German family names "Jud" and "Judt" are not derived from "Jordan," as one might suppose from the above-mentioned English development. "Jud" and "Judt" are shortened forms of "Judas." "Judas," like "Jude," is of Hebrew origin, and means "praise." The Hundred Rolls includes the names of Henry Judde and Aaron Judde.

The family name "Geddes" is a Scottish form of the personal name "Gideon." "Gideon" is ultimately of Hebrew origin and means "the destroyer." However, occasionally "Geddes" has become confused with "Gaddes." "Gaddes" is of English origin, and means "the son of Gadd." "Gadd" (also spelled "Gad") is found as a personal name in the earliest English records. In most cases it is of Hebrew origin, and may be translated "the troop." A certain Thomas Gedde is mentioned in an English document of the year 1379.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

EARLY JULY IN YOUR GARDEN.

THE first week in July is the time to cut back your rambler roses.

Of course, if your plants were a little backward this season, wait until they have expanded all their buds before disturbing them. When they have finished flowering, cut back the old, hard canes and remove any dead or damaged branches you may find. Then prune your hybrid perpetuals and feed and mulch with peat moss the varieties on which you are depending for autumn blooms. If you prefer, you may use a dust mulch.

The rose calendar tells us that the first of July is a good time to dust our roses again with sulphur arsenate, meaning that we should get out our Massey dust. This, you know, is a mixture made of nine parts of dusting sulphur and one part of lead arsenate.

This is the time to begin pinching off the lateral stems on your dahlias to direct the energy of the plant into the stems at the top on which the flowers will appear.

No matter how careful a gardener you may be, your garden will not be entirely immune to blight or rust. Watch your phlox, shasta daisies and snapdragons, for this is the time when fungus diseases appear. At the first suggestion of mildew or blight begin to spray the plants. Bordeaux mixture is the most reliable spray, though some experienced growers depend entirely on powdered sulphur, using it as a dust. You will find a blower gun most useful for applying any dust or dry spray. The material must reach both sides of the leaves if it is really to control the disease.

Should you want a few cinerarias, Chinese primroses or calceolarias for house decoration next winter, this is the time to sow the seed. All three of these plants are easily managed, so if you like them do not be afraid to attempt raising them from seed.

Early July is a good time to repot house ferns. Uusually, when transplanting them, it is wise to divide each plant into three parts. By doing the work in July you will give the plants at least three months to recuperate before being brought into the house.

Do you think it is a good practice to give newly planted shrubs an application of fertilizer?

I think it is well to give shrubs some fertilizer their second season. The first year they will get sufficient nourishment from the fertilizer which was added to the soil at the time the shrubs were planted.

Now 19% lower in price

KELLOGG'S Rice Krispies has been one of the most amazing successes of the cereal industry. In less than four years, it has grown to be the most popular rice cereal — and one of the largest-selling cereals in the world!

Now comes a 19% reduction in price to enable even more people to enjoy it more often than ever. At this new low price, Kellogg's Rice Krispies are one of the most economical, as well as delicious and distinctive of all cereals. Its cost is only about one cent a bowl.

Children love Kellogg's Rice Krispies. The crisp, nourishing rice bubbles snap, crackle and pop when milk is poured over them. Little folks who are hard to interest in food, dip into Rice Krispies eagerly — fascinated by the crisp crackling.

All your family will enjoy Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Not only as a ready-to-eat cereal — but to sprinkle over ice cream or salads instead of nuts — to use in soups as croutons and many other delightful ways.

Serve Kellogg's Rice Krispies often these hot days. They help you keep cool and fit. At the new low price, they also bring healthful economy to your table. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CROWD IS EXPECTED AT WOODLAND BEACH

Post's New Summer Resort Certain to Be Mecca Over Week-End.

Persons desiring to visit Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development site on South River, in Mafyland, will have two opportunities to do so over the coming week-end, for the sales force will transfer its activities to the beach both Saturday and Sunday.

As there will be a general suspension of business activity in the city over the Fourth of July, it is expected that Woodland Beach will be a rendezvous for hundreds of Capital residents seeking relief from the recent hot weather.

The beach offers many things that are desirable during the hot summer months and those who have not already made purchases at the beach for summer cottages, to be erected this years or next, are planning to visit the place this week and choose their locations.

There are many choice spots still available at the beach, but many of these will disappear in the rush of the coming week-end. The best plan would be to call at The Post today and make a reserveration, selecting your lot from the maps which are available and then on Saturday or Sunday, when you visit the beach, if you desire to change your selection, it may be done.

The price of lots at Woodland Beach is so reasonable that no one can offer the excuse of "cost" for not enrolling on the list of those who plan to spend many happy summers beside the waters of the two coves of the South River, or in the shade of the wooded areas of the beach.

Every lot is listed at the same price —$93 and of this amount only $9 in cash, plus the price of a subscription to The Washington Post, need be paid when you make your selection. The remainder may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50.

On Saturday and Sunday all W. B. & A. electric cars will be met at Camp Parole by buses which will transport visitors to and from the beach. To reach the scene by motor take the Defense highway toward Annapolis as far as Camp Parole, turning right at that point onto Maryland State highway No. 2 across the South River and then left onto Mayo road, which leads to the beach.

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF July 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight. The danger hours are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

The astrological aspects of July 1 indicate a day full of anxiety and paved with obstacles. One should be extremely careful and thrifty in all money matters, and refrain from leaping into any new enterprise. It is a day full of disappointments; do not let it discourage you!

Children born on this July 1 will have a very all-round character. They will have a great deal of natural ability, but will show no marked ability in any particular line of work until later years. They should be encouraged in all things musical and artistic as they can attain their greatest success in this line.

Born on July 1, you are imaginative and impulsive, and are always eager to experience new thrills and see new sights. You are talented, and can apply yourself to almost any work that calls for creative ability and a strong power of concentration. However, you have a restless nature, which you should try to control, as you are apt to quit a lucrative position and take on some other form of work just for the change. Try not to me so unsettled; concentrate your attention on one thing at a time!

The artistic sense is very keenly developed in those born on this day, and they will find great happiness in the pursuit of music. This applies particularly to the women, as the men are a trifle too practical and are more inclined to the business world. You have strong likes and dislikes, and are a trifle too impressionable. Your greatest fault is that you are too quick to judge others and find it difficult to yield an inch in your viewpoint once your mind is made up. You should be more lenient.

You will be successful rather early in life, and will travel extensively in later years. You will always shine in the social world, and you have the ability to enjoy yourself wherever you go. You are affectionate and lovable.

Successful people born July 1:

Alexander the Great.

Harry L. Koopman, poet.

James E. Russell, dean of Teachers' College, Columbia University.

Policeman Gets Raise In Auto-Killing Arrest

Private Thomas Hayes, of the Eleventh Precinct, was granted $5 a month increase in pay yesterday by the District Commissioners for his part in apprehending Charles E. Darby, who allegedly struck and killed an 8-year-old boy on Naylor road near Thirtieth street southeast recently, and failed to stop.

The policeman was aided by Private William Wright, who is already receiving the $5 extra compensation for meritorious service. Although they had not seen the accident, they traced the owner of the car by a dent in a fender.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ALTHOUGH the rumble of the guns has not penetrated to Washington, week-end reports from the West Coast indicate that a nice quiet war is being waged by Warner Brothers and Paramount over the contract of Ruth Chatterton, the brilliant star of both stage and cinema, who of late months has been billed as "the first lady of the screen."

Such a situation—if it really exists—must be looked upon as a sort of recrudescence of a practice that was common back in the formative days of the industry. Only rarely is such an impasse reached nowadays. Back in 1916, or thereabouts, Mary Pickford was the pawn in a diplomatic battle carried on among Famous Players, Benjamin H. Hampton and the old Mutual Co., but of later years these contests have for the greater part been one-punch affairs.

A few months ago, it will be recalled, Warner Brothers announced that they had signed Miss Chatterton, along with William Powell and Kay Francis. Every one expected that when her contract with Paramount expired on October 1 she would make the transfer, but when the Warner product for 1931-32 was scheduled and annoupced, no pictures for Miss Chatterton were included. Paramount, meanwhile, scheduled four Chatterton pictures and confidently proclaimed at one of its sales meetings that the "first lady" would remain at Paramount.

The matter is not being discussed, I am reliably informed, at either studio. However, it is said to be known that the Warners recently submitted a story to Miss Chatterton for consideration as the first of her vehicles under the Warner contract.

In analyzing the situation, some observers believe that this was merely a gesture to gain time, while "conversations" are being carried on between studio executives of the competitive groups. There is also hint of a "deal" whereby, by relinquishing claim to Miss Chatterton's services, Warner Brothers may wedge their way into certain exhibitor territory in which Paramount now holds the whip hand.

Whatever the inside story, and however it turns out, a vital question that suggests itself is, who is going to carry the burden of the fancy salary, promised by Warner Brothers, if Miss Chatterton remains with Paramount.

There seems to be a discrepancy of something like half a million dollars—$500,000, if you prefer oval figures—between the terms of the Warner and present Paramount contracts.

Here, it seems to me, is a very fine opening for some good journeyman bagholder!

Consider your saxophone, advices B. A. Rolfe, director of the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, who formerly was a vaudeville artist and between bookings on the big time a producer of motion pictures, in recommending that all children be taught to play musical instruments.

In making this blanket recommendation, Mr. Rolfe is but echoing the statistical conclusions drawn by Otto B. B. Heaton, of Columbus, Ohio, president of the National Association of Music Merchants, at their annual convention in Chicago.

Mr. Heaton is quoted as saying: "We have discovered that less than 3 per cent of the criminals in prisons can play musical instruments. On the other hand our statistics show that 90 per cent of the honor graduates from high schools and colleges are musicians.

"The solution, then, of our national crime problem is clear. By teaching all school children to play musical instruments the number of criminals will be reduced 97 per cent. The police can take care of the remaining three."

A swell theory, indeed, except that, with Mr. Rolfe advocating the saxophone as the favored instrument, it fails to take into account that great body of citizens who will become murderers when all those kids begin practicing!

The able guidance afforded the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, under the presidency of Will H. Hays, is most recently and most emphatically exemplified by a letter from Mr. Hays on "The Public Relations of the Motion Picture Industry," addressed to Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president, Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Various charges made by the Federal Council, not so much by plain statement as by implication and innuendo, are so riddled by Mr. Hays that they won't hold water any more than a wide-mesh fish net.

You never can tell which way a cat will jump. Up to the closing of their season it was the supposition that of the National Theater Players Miss Nancy Sheridan would be signed by the Shuberts and one of the male leads by William A. Brady, who was an interested spectator at one of the performances of "Strange Interlude." It now is communicated to this desk that the Shuberts are not in the market and that it was Miss Sheridan who caught Mr. Brady's eye.

Show business is like that!

Thoughts after viewing a performance of Waring's Pennsylvanians:

The slickest act Fred has ever put on in the Capital, in all his 25 or 30 weeks here...."Scotty" Bates, the youngster who aspired to be a movie comedian when Fred picked him up out in Hollywood, has developed into a stage comic of considerable stature ....That pianist who sits audience right, full face, looks like Tom Waring, a little, but not quite so heavy ....Tom is a staff artist at Station WTAM and doing well, so I hear.... Seems funny not to see Fred Buck in there with the rest of the old-timers....When Fred Waring and Evalyn Nair dance together, if you don't care for Fred you can watch the Nair do well....And they probably call that little Mexican firecracker Tonita because she does most of her dancing on her heels!

Sign in the window of a Georgia avenue market: "Fresh fish and live poultry dressed in the rear."

Well, that's some concession, in weather like this!

FREIGHT-RATE RAISE HEARING DATES SET

Revised Tariffs Effective on December 3 Authorized for Quick Relief.

(Associated Press.)

Action to hasten a solution of the railroad freight rate problem was taken yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Revised rates expected to increase the revenues of lines in Eastern and Western trunk line territories from $50,000,000 to $70,000,000 annually were ordered into effect December 3.

Two series of hearings on the appeal for a 15 per cent general rate increase throughout the country were scheduled to begin in Washington July 15 and August 31. Later hearings will be held in other cities. Opponents of the increase were asked to file their objections by July 20.

The Eastern and Western trunk line class rate changes were designed to raise the level of earnings more nearly to the 5.75 per cent net yield provided by law. It was estimated they would increase Western carriers' gross income by $10,000,000 and that of Eastern railroads by $40,000,000 to $60,000,000 annually.

The railroads, in their petition for the 15 per cent blanket increase, said they hoped to increase gross earnings approximately $400,000,000 annually. This, they claimed, would not nearly bring their net earnings to the legal maximum, but would keep their securities eligible for investment by savings banks, insurance companies and trusts by maintaining their level of earnings at 1½ times their fixed obligations.

The railroads also said they hoped by the increase to avoid negotiations for a wage cut for their union employes.

Although the class rate orders issued yesterday were expected to increase the general level of earnings they provided substantial decreases in some classes, particularly in rates on farm products.

The investigation into the 15 per cent case is to be handled by one or more members of the commission sitting with a committee of State commissioners instead of by the usual method of turning inquiries over to examiners. The commissioners who will handle the case have not been named.

The State commissioners who also must pass on the petition as it affects rates between points within their States, will meet on July 8 to name a committee to sit with the commission.

New Texas Wells Boost Crude Oil Production

(Associated Press.)

The Commerce Department announced yesterday that crude oil production increased 52,000 barrels a day during May, but that the demand was such that at the end of the month stocks had dropped 81,000 barrels below the April total.

The increase, which came despite proration agreements in many fields and restriction agreements by importers, was credited largely to the East Texas Field. That field increased its daily average output from 251,000 barrels to 308,000. Most of the increase was due to completion of 274 new wells. Production of motor fuel was 1,259,000 barrels daily against 1,220,000 barrels in April with an indicated domestic demand of 1,152,000 barrels.

Siam's King Views City of New York

Former Gov. Smith Is Host to Party on Visit to Empire Building.

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—King Draidhipok, of Siam, and members of his party got a bird's-eye view of Manhattan today from the eighty-sixth floor of the Empire State Building.

They were guests of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, president of the corporation which owns the building, and Ogden Reid, publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune.

With the king were Prince Amoradat Kridakara, Siamese minister to the United States; his son, Amara Kridakara, and Prince Chirasakti, cousin of the king.

Dark green glasses shielded the eyes of the king, who is recovering from an operation which removed a cataract from one of them. After viewing the city the royal group returned to their temorary home at Ohpir Hall, Purchase, N. Y.

Jane learns something about modern cooking

Before her mother purchased the new gas range with Insulation and Oven Heat Control, Jane didn't care a hoot about cooking. Even her mother used to "roast" in the kitchen, the heat from the oven was so unbearable.

Now she WANTS to learn. Insulation has solved a big problem by confining the heat where it belongs—in the oven. The old and complicated method of regulating heat by hand, adjusting this and that, was too much for Jane's little mind to grasp. Now all she has to do is set the little Control Dial to the temperature desired in the oven and her cooking ventures turn out almost as well as mother's.

There's no doubt in her mind that the new ranges are wonderful. Neither is there in the opinion of her mother. Both know that the first rule of cooking is to have a range that can be depended upon.

You can depend on any of the new-style ranges on display at your nearest gas company show room. Not only can you expect the utmost in utility, but style and beauty never before introduced into the kitchen. There are pastel shades that will fit in with any color scheme.

A small down payment and the balance on liberal terms (there is no extra charge for financing) will put a modern gas range with Insulation and Oven Heat Control in YOUR home.

$867,906,122 DEBIT AS U. S. ENDS YEAR

Many Changes Go Into Effect as New Fiscal Period Begins Today.

(Associated Press.)

The Government's business year ended last night and changes come with the new one.

The Treasury is glad to be rid of the old, for dismal it was. The books won't be closed for several days. Already, however, expenditures for the fiscal year have passed $4,170,000,000. Receipts to last Saturday were under $3,303,000,000.

The announced deficit stood yesterday at $867,906,122. Last year at the same time there was a $212,429,488 surplus.

No whistles hailed the advent of another twelvemonth, but officialdom welcomed the fresh fiscal period just the same. In some departments it means a starting of new projects and methods, in others the closing out of old tasks.

The Veterans' Bureau, for example, becomes the Veterans Administration with an enlarged scope under the direction of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines. The aged Pensions Office and the National Soldiers Home become merged with it.

Interior Department Changes.

At the Interior Department, a realignment of the Indian Office functions takes effect. Property matters and human affairs henceforth will be handled separately. New qualifications for posts in the field service, demanding more technical training and paying higher salaries, go into force.

The Law Enforcement Commission passes out of existence, ten of its fourteen reports remain to be made public, but the commission itself has dissolved. Nevertheless, Chairman Wickersham intends to keep at work into July on rounding out details of the 25 months of investigation.

President Hoover has estimated it will take $4,119,000,000 to run the Government in the year now starting. How to balance the budget in the face of that and declining tax receipts is a problem which the administration must answer before Congress meets in December.

The outlook is that the needed funds will be obtained by continued financing operations, with addition of millions to the public debt. The response to offerings to date has been tremendous, two $50,000,000 series of treasury bills being hugely oversubscribed only last week.

Tax Increases Unlikely.

Despite some talk of increased taxes to meet both the present deficit and the one in prospect next year, there is no general expectation in Washington of such action in the next Congress. The business depression and oncoming presidential election are factors making tax revision unlikely.

Meanwhile, all Government departments have instructions to cut expenditures where possible. The President ordered surveys to determine what reductions might safely be effected, and it was said at the White House he expected from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 to be saved next year as a result.

"Hippy Lee" Murdered In Dispute Over Money

John Edwards, 32 years old, colored, known to police as "Hippy Lee," was murdered early yesterday in a house on Twelfth place near U street northwest by another colored man, who escaped.

Mrs. Edwards told police she heard her husband quarreling with another man over money. Edwards was pronounced dead by Dr. Cleveland Jackson, of Freedmen's Hospital. Bullets entered his temple, abdomen and side.

Bogus Nobleman Is Sent to Prison

Hungarian Who Defrauded Various Persons, Gets Two-Year Term.

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—George Robert Gabor, an immigrant who at various times traded his real name for "Baron Von Krupp" and "Taft Thew, jr.," and imposed on two ambassadors and half a dozen governors, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment by Federal Judge John C. Knox today.

Several years ago, Gabor said, after he had courted a society girl in Wilmington, Del., and passed a worthless check, he was deported to Hungary. He came back on a fraudulent passport, but sentence was suspended on his promise to "leave the country and stay out."

Once again he came back and only recently finished a term at McNeil Island Penitentiary, California, for fraud. Upon his discharge he was brought back to New York on a charge of violating his parole.

8 A. M. Sleep Limit In Judiciary Park

During the current months the sleepers in Judiciary Park have been aroused by an alarm system newly installed by the park police. Sergt. H. T. Miskell reported yesterday that the 60 or more men who repose in Judiciary Square every night are awakened every morning at 8 o'clock before Government workers and court officials arrive.

Capt. R. C. Montgomery, U. S. A., superintendent of the United States park police, stated that it is the policy of his office not to disturb any sleepers in the park regardless of the reasons for their presence there. However, all are subject to the 8 o'clock alarm.

Indictment Alleges Murder.

An indictment charging Oscar Johnson with murder in the first degree was returned by the grand jury yesterday. He is alleged to have fatally stabbed Isaac Simmons, Negro, on June 23, after a quarrel. The stabbing took place on M street, near Twenty-fourth street northwest.

New Bus-Control Order Expected in Few Days

The order designed to control interstate buses will be issued probably the latter part of this week or the middle of next, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, said yesterday after a conference with William A. Van Duzer, new director of vehicles and traffic.

The new traffic director was given a copy of the preliminary order for study and he will again confer with Gen. Patrick this week. If the order is approved by Mr. Van Duzer and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, it will be issued shortly thereafter.

King and Perry Assets And Debts Are Listed

Listing assets of $42,954.47 as compared with debts of $54,368.27, King & Perry, real estate firm with offices in the Insurance Building, 907 Fifteenth street northwest, yesterday filed a petition in the District Supreme Court in voluntary bankruptcy.

Edward G. Perry, a member of the firm, committed suicide at his home on Lowell street, near Thirty-sixth street northwest, recently. His act was attributed at that time to ill health and financial reverses.

Progress Reported On 4-Trunk Plan

Rail Executives Adjourn Negotiations Until July 7.

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Executives of Eastern railroads met behind closed doors today to discuss formation of a four-trunk line, but adjourned without any announcement other than that progress had been made.

Although rumors were heard about the offices of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, where the meeting was held, the official announcement merely said:

"Presidents of the Eastern systems continued their meeting today. Further progress was made and the meeting adjourned until July 7."

The meeting was attended by representatives of the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate.

Cuba's Budget Awaits Signature of Machado

Havana, Cuba, June 30 (A.P.).—The 1931-1932 budget, which was passed in the Senate last night, today awaited the signature of President Machado on the last day of the current fiscal year.

Revenues for next year are estimated at $60,385,000. Proposed expenditures are $3,506 less than this, which represents a reduction of approximately $20,000,000 from last year. Of expenditures, about $14,185,000 will go to meet fixed expenses, such as the payment of interest and amortization of foreign debts. Governmental functions will receive approximately $46,196,000.

Mexican Envoy Plans To Attend Monroe Fete

(Associated Press.)

Pablo Herrera de Huerta, Mexican embassy counselor, will attend the 100th anniversary observances of the death of President James Monroe at the University of Virginia July 4, at the designation of Ambassador Tellez.

A number of the Latin American diplomats will go to Charlottesville for the program, at which Acting Secretary William R. Castle, jr., of the State Department will deliver the main address.

Sing Sing Prisoner Thought Murdered

Youth Serving Double Term Found Stabbed in Locker Room.

Ossining, N. Y., June 30 (A.P.).—Frank Doyle, 21, of Brooklyn, a prisoner at Sing Sing, was found stabbed to death early today in the recreation room locker of the new prison building. Authorities believe he was murdered.

Doyle was one of the 120 inmates serving in the "domestic" company of the prison in charge of Keeper Charles Brown.

Keeper Arthur Mead, making the rounds of the recreation quarters, discovered the prisoner lying on the floor in a basement locker room shortly after the breakfast hour. He was still conscious but refused to make a statement. Removed to the prison hospital, he died two hours later.

Doyle was brought to Sing Sing on July 5, 1929, to serve two sentences. One was from 10 to 20 years for grand larceny and robbery; the other, from 5 to 10 years for assault.

PACKARD EIGHTS

ENTIRELY new in everything save fundamental lines and straight-eight motor principle

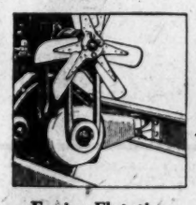
Six Packard Improvements that give a new meaning to Luxurious Transportation

Never before has Packard offered new cars with so many or such important improvements. Outstanding among them all are those described below. They introduce entirely new standards of quiet operation, driving ease and luxurious riding comfort.

Ride Control
Packard hydraulic shock absorbers are controlled from the dash — can be instantly adjusted by a touch of the fingers to meet varying conditions of road, speed and temperature, to compensate for the number and the weight of passengers.

Four-Speed Synchro-Mesh Transmission
To the Packard-built, four-speed transmission synchronizers have been added. In the new Packard cars gears can always be changed easily, quickly and noiselessly regardless of temperature or driving speed.



Engine Flotation
The improved and refined Packard Straight-Eight engine is now "floated" on rubber. Special rubber pads insulate engine from frame. The result is increased smoothness—another contribution toward luxurious transportation.

Complete Insulation
The new Packard bodies are thoroughly insulated against squeaks and rattles, against outside sound and temperature. Body walls and even the floors are heavily insulated against heat and cold much like the walls of refrigerators.

Front End Stabilizers
On the long wheelbase models Packard has incorporated a new and exclusive stabilizing device. Cylinders with compensating weights floating between coil springs are built into each end of the front bumper. They dampen vibration and steady the front end at all speeds.

New Interior Luxury
The new Packard bodies are more sturdily constructed than ever before, and the roomy interiors are more richly appointed. The deep spring cushions provide new comfort for passengers, while the modern interior accessories now offer a new note in personal conveniences.

This new Packard Eight Five-Passenger Sedan is one of thirteen beautiful body styles, priced at the factory from $2485 to $3445. Twelve distinguished body types are available in the Packard De Luxe series, with factory prices ranging from $3690 to $4550.

From bumper to bumper, outside and inside, mechanically and artistically, the Continental Series Packard cars are entirely new—completely redesigned. While the characteristic beauty of Packard lines and the eight-in-line principle of motor design are retained, even these fundamental features show tremendous refinements. The new Packards are a truly great advance in luxurious transportation.

Come in and examine the new Packards in detail. Take the wheel of your favorite model and drive anywhere you wish. Then ride as a passenger. Only then will you appreciate that Packard engineers have done more than improve the beauty and performance of Packard cars, more than perfect new conveniences for the driver. You will find that true luxury and utmost riding comfort for passengers as well as driver were major considerations in designing these new and modern cars.

Bodies are lower and roomier, with lines refined and modernized. Wheelbases are longer and the tread is wider. The motor is far more powerful—quieter, smoother.

All models are equipped with the exclusive new Packard Ride Control, the new Packard-built, four-speed synchro-mesh transmission and many other new features—some of which are pictured at the left.

If you buy any other car than a new Packard this summer it will be at the sacrifice of supreme riding comfort. No other cars have all the modern features which make the new Packards not only the easiest riding cars in the entire world but also the easiest to operate. See these cars today. Why not own the only truly up-to-date car now available?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

PERSPIRATION AS A COOLING MEASURE.

If a person is working in hot weather he gets a great amount of heat, and about the only way of getting rid of it is by sweating. He can not lose much of the excess if the air of the atmospheric temperature is 98 or within 15 degrees thereof. He can not lose it to the ground he stands on, or the solid objects he touches, or to his shoes, coat or trousers if these objects are about as warm as he is.

The amount he can lose to the air or to objects he touches because of wind movement or air currents is considerable if the air is cool. But when the heat of the air passes 95, from that time on winds, currents and fan action does more harm than good. A cool wind is pleasant, but a hot wind!

Perspiration is the salvation of the working man when the air becomes hot. As perspiration evaporates it picks up heat from the skin and in that way cools the body. The sweat glands are working all the time. They even do some work in cold weather. As the water pours from the mouth of the ducts on to the skin it evaporates.

If the outpouring is moderate in amount and the air is dry and moderately warm, evaporation is rapid enough to lick up all the liquid that flows out and as it flows. In these circumstances we say that perspiration is insensible. It does not accumulate in drops nor can wetting of the skin be detected by ordinary methods. When there is an excess and the skin feels wet, or when drops of perspiration accumulate, we say perspiration is appreciable. As a matter of fact, the cooling effect of insensible perspiration nearly equals that of perspiration which is perceptible.

Perspiration which stands in heads on the brow or which wets the hands is a total loss in so far as it is not evaporated. That which drops on the ground or which is ploked up by the pocket handkepchief does not help to cool. In truth, that which makes the garments sopping wet is liable to interfere with the cooling process to some extent. For instance, a sopping wet undershirt that has its pores full of water and that sticks to the body may prevent cooling or keeping air currents from reaching the skin. The stoker recognizes this and works without any shirt.

In the recently held International Golden Gloves contests the American boys who wore no shirts had the advantage of the French boys who wore a shirt like that of a bathing suit.

What gets the perspiring man into trouble is humid air. When the humidity passes 90 he is in trouble. On the other hand, men can work hard in the hot, dry air of Arizona, New Mexico and the Rocky Mountain region without feeling the heat much.

DAILY BIBLE READING.

J. H. writes: I noticed a letter in your column recently from R. M., who is troubled with fears and worries.

A good remedy for such fears and nervousness is the reading of the Bible for an hour daily. It quiets the nerves and helps wonderfully.

HAVE YOU ANY SYMPTOMS?

V. M. writes: A friend of mine has tuberculosis and I am forced to be with her a great deal. I have made it a practice to sleep with her once a week for the last year, and now I am wondering if there is a possibility that I have the disease. She is a very clean and careful person, but I suppose I have been exposed to her breath.

AFTER LEARNING FROM ALICE WRIGHT OF THE MYSTERIOUS FIGURE SHE HAD SEEN ON ENTERING THE YARD, INSPECTOR KEENE QUESTIONED HER CONCERNING BEATRICE AND DR. CLYMER
TELL ME PLEASE WHAT YOU KNOW OF THEIR ENGAGEMENT?
WHY, INSPECTOR, I DON'T BELIEVE THEY WERE ENGAGED!
UP TO A SHORT TIME AGO I THOUGHT SHE WAS GOING TO MARRY MR. STANFIELD, BUT SUDDENLY SHE SEEMED TO BECOME INFATUATED WITH DR. CLYMER AND TO-NIGHT BEATRICE HAS SCARCELY SPOKEN A CIVIL WORD TO CLAUDE STANFIELD!
HE WAS FRIGHTFULLY JEALOUS? STANFIELD I MEAN.
YES, TERRIBLY SO! I WAS AFRAID HE WAS GOING TO CREATE A SCENE AT THE SUPPER TABLE TO-NIGHT!
WHEN CLYMER KISSED MISS WORTH'S HAND, I SUPPOSE?
YES, INSPECTOR, AND IF LOOKS COULD KILL, DR. CLYMER WOULD HAVE DIED THEN AND THERE! BUT THERE IS SOMETHING ELSE I THINK YOU SHOULD KNOW"
FROM THE INFORMATION SUPPLIED HIM BY MISS WRIGHT, THE INSPECTOR NOW MADE NUMEROUS NOTES
Miss Wright saw Dr. Clymer talking to Miss Steele. Later Miss Steele seemed greatly upset and worried
Just before he was killed Clymer proposed birthday toast to Miss Steele which seemed to imply a veiled threat of some sort
Next then lights went out

NATS BLANKED BY BROWNS, 7-0, WHILE MACKS WIN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE opinion of this column, which is rated at three cents at any corner newsstand, was upheld the other night in the wrestling match at Yankee Stadium when Jim Londos defeated Ray Steele and retained his world wrestling title of New York and Pennsylvania.

With rare keen vision, this column perceived that Londos would win the match because there would be no percentage for Monsieur Jacques Curley in changing champions in midstream, as it were.

It will be time enough to crown another champion when Londos is on the decline. He has built up Curley's biggest gates, is gradually becoming a wrestling immortal and will do best of all as the king pin of the circuit until a more colorful member of the troupe comes along.

ANOTHER PREDICTION IS VENTURED.

Thus taking heart, this column will venture a prediction on the Schmeling-Stribling fight next Friday.

Schmeling's chief recommendation is his nine-round knockout of Johnny Risko. But we discover in the record books that in 1929, when the thing took place, Risko was beaten by such lesser lights as Emmett Rocco, George Cook, Tuffy Griffiths and K. O. Christner.

Those who lean toward Schmeling can take no satisfaction in his four rounds of fighting with Jack Sharkey before he went down to claim the foul and the title. There was grave doubt as to whether the German would survive the third round.

It is with great trepidation that I pick Stribling to win. He is the inventor of several ways to lose a fight, fouling, clinching, wrestling, crawling in his shell and pedalling his bike. If Schmeling doesn't go down in a round or two, it is my belief that Stribling will be content to box his way to the decision. Safety first has been the keynote of his career. But he ought to win.

HUNT DISCOVERED IN OIL FIELDS.

Dennis Magirl, featherweight fighter of another generation, is here with Babe Hunt, his heavyweight, who will fight in the feature of the Laurel Arena card tonight.

Magirl unearthed the angular Hunt three years ago while both were drilling in the Oklahoma oil fields. The record books bear out his statement that Hunt defeated Johnny Risko, Earnie Schaaf and Jimmy Braddock within a period of 30 days last year.

Asked why Hunt had failed to gain a place on a Madison Square Garden card in view of his impressive record, Magirl explained that more money was to be made free lancing. The Garden demanded Hunt's services for a series of bouts at a progressive wage, said Magirl. He didn't want Bout to Go on Air; Dempsey Spurns Offer to Fight.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

CLEVELAND, June 30 (A.P.).—Ball Stribling broke loose from his training camp in a borrowed airplane today to inject a thrill into the heavyweight championship prize-fight picture that comes to a climax in the new Municipal Stadium here Friday night.

The Southern challenger for Max Schmeling's crown slipped away from camp with a New York newspaperman and took off from Akron at 2:05 p. m. (E. S. T.) in a plane borrowed from a friend. He flew back over his own camp at Oeauga Lake, then zoomed over the German's training camp at Conneaut Lake, Pa., while Schmeling was boxing with his sparring partners. The plane did not fly low and there was no excitement in the champion's camp. It was not until the workout, next to the last for Schmeling, was over that the champion knew he had been visited by the challenger during the day.

Ordered Not to Fly By Garden.

Although Stribling had been ordered not to fly by the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Ohio, promoting the fifteen-round title match, Dick Dunn, promoter, took the matter philosophically.

"That's not so good," he said. "I guess Stribling's stealing some of Tunney's stuff. But I suppose it will be all right if he comes down without getting hurt."

Stribling is a transport pilot, an officer in the Reserve Air Corps and a crack flyer. He has flown many hundreds of miles and owns several planes, although he was not allowed to bring any of these North with him from Macon. Enviously, he had been watching his friends fly from a small field near the camp for several weeks, and "Pa" Stribling, his father-manager, decided that a short turn in the air would do Bill good and relieve the nervous tension of the final days of training. He was in the air almost three hours.

Broadcast Is Permitted.

There were two other interesting developments today. It was announced officially that the title match would be broadcast Friday night through the two networks of the National Broadcasting Co., with Graham McNamee and Floyd Gibbons

GIANTS LOSE TO CARDS IN SLUGFEST

NEW YORK, June 30 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals won their second straight game from the Giants today and increased their lead to three and one-half games as they pounded out an 11-to-10 victory in a 32-hit slugfest.

The Giants made 18 hits to St. Louis' 14. Frank Frisch was the big gun of the Cardinals' attack, driving in four runs and scoring twice. He hit a homer and two singles. Adams and Blades also poled home runs for St. Louis and Vergez and Allen for the Giants.

Allen's four-bagger provided the feature of the game, coming from a pinch hitter with the bases full and tying the score in the fifth inning. The Cards scored three more runs in the seventh to win.

Macks Assume Lead in Third, Stave Off Late Rallies.

CLEVELAND, June 30 (A.P.).—The Athletics assaulted two Cleveland pitchers for 17 hits today and won the game from the Tribe, 11 to 7.

Earnshaw was fouhd for twelve hits, nine of them in the last two innings. The Tribe's rally gave them two runs in the eighth and three in the ninth, including Earl Averill's homer with one man on base.

Haas and Simmons led the A's attack.

Earnshaw yielded a run in the second inning that gave the Indians a brief lead. In the third, the Macks pounded Clint Brown for three runs, but he survived this assault only to be hammered off the hill in the fifth under a four-run barrage. Roxie Lawson, who succeeded Brown, was a target in the seventh and eighth innings.

A's Release Shores, Pitcher, to Portland

Philadelphia, June 30 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today that Bill Shores, right-hand pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, has been released outright to the Portland Club of the Pacific Coast League.

Shores came to the Athletics in 1926 by purchase from the Wichita Falls Club.

MacFayden in Form As Red Sox Win, 7-1

Chicago, June 30 (A.P.).—Danny MacFayden limited the White Sox to six hits today to give the Boston Red Sox a 7 to 1 victory in the opening game of the series. The Red Sox pounded Pat Caraway, Red Faber and Garland Braxton for sixteen hits.

Caraway departed in the second inning when Miller singled, Pickering tripled and Berry singled, the first of four hits for the catcher. These runs proved all MacFayden needed, but the Bostonians added another in the fourth and four in the seventh. Sweeney made three hits, and Rhyne had a perfect day at the plate with three hits and two walks. Oliver had a busy day in center field, making nine putouts, and twice retiring the side single-handed.

Washington 3 1-2 Games Behind After Blaeholder Turns in 2-Hit Shutout

GOOSE-EGGS

Nats Held Hitless for Seven Innings; Get Only 2 Men On.

By FRANK H. YOUNG (Post Staff Correspondent).

SPORTSMANS PARK, St. Louis, June 30.—Winning ball games with only two hits simply is not being done these days, and that is one reason why the Nationals were beaten here this afternoon in the opening game of the series with the Browns. The other reason is that, while George Blaeholder was holding the Johnsons to no runs, his mates, led by Goose Goslin, were scoring seven runs. The loss, coupled with a Philadelphia victory over the Indians skidded the Nationals three and a half games behind the leaders.

Except that every hitter has a chance in this band-box park, the Nationals had no scoring opportunity, and their bats were no more use to them than would have been so many slivers. All told, only three Nationals saw base-life, Manush and Hargrave on singles and Cronin twice on errors.

Hitless Game for Seven Innings.

Between the first and last innings, Blaeholder hurled hitless ball while he did not issue a single pass. With two gone in the first, Manush singled off the right field wall but was caught trying to stretch the hit into a double, while Hargrave opened the ninth with Washington's only other safety. He, incidentally, was the only National to pass first, advancing to third on Myer's infield tap after the catch of Harry Rice's long fly.

Players cast off by one club get the greatest possible kick out of handing their former mates wallops, and Goose Goslin certainly had his innings today, as he beat the Nationals single-handed as far as the St. Louis attack was concerned. He cracked out his eleventh homer of the season with two mates on the runways in the first and drove home a fourth run in the sixth on a single. In addition, he hit safely on two other occasions, getting credit for four hits in five times at bat.

Levey Sends Ball Into Stands.

Just for luck, Jim Levey, former Quantico Marine, matched Goslin's homer in the eighth, but none was on when he crashed out his four-baser. It was a drive into the left-field stands; Goslin's sailed over the stands in right.

Carl Fischer, seeking his tenth victory of the season, was away badly and the Nationals were beaten before he could get a man out. Schulte, opening the first for the Browns, walked, while Melillo singled, and Goslin cleared the sacks with his round-tripper. A double by Ferrell and Bettencourt's single gave the aliens a fourth rap in this frame.

With the horse already stolen, Fischer locked the stable door, and although in hot water once or twice managed to pitch shutout ball until he gave way to a pinch hitter.

Burke Yields Two Runs in Sixth.

Burke took up the mound work in the sixth and two more runs were molded from his slants in this round. Levey singled and stole second and Schulte later walked. Melillo's fly was deep enough to advance Levey and he then registered on the front end of a double theft. Goslin singled Schulte across the counting block.

Levey opened the eighth by poling out his homer on Burke's second offering and the Browns then called it a day, this victory being their twelfth out of their last fourteen starts, a spurt which brought them from last place to a firm hold on fifth and not so very far out of the first flight.

In the Wake Of the Game

Special to The Washington Post.

SPORTSMEN'S PARK, St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—It will be up to Pitcher Fred Marberry to beat the Browns tomorrow and give the Nationals the victory needed to even the series count. Sam Gray, the former Mackman, who beat the Johnsons here last trip, is expected to oppose Marberry on the hill.

The players joined with the residents in welcoming the shower which delayed today's game nearly half an hour in starting. St. Louis has been in the throes of a heat wave which has kept the thermometer close to the 100 mark even at night, and this afternoon's baby storm proved quite a relief to all.

The cooler weather was particularly welcomed by the Nationals, who were pretty fagged, due to having hit Chicago when some heat records were being made. They were unable to get a good night's rest there, while the Pullmans bringing them here last night were like bakeovens.

President Will Harridge, of the American League, and Umpire-in-Chief Tommy Connolly accompanied the Nationals from Chicago here last night. They plan to tour the league inspecting the work of the umpires and working out an uniform system of ground rules.

Connolly intimated this morning that there is a possibility of the $10 fine, tacked on Ossie Bluege in Chicago by Umpire Owens, being revoked. He has promised to review the umpire's report and to take into consideration Bluege's previous good record in reopening the case.

"Red" Kress was back in the St. Louis line-up after having been benched and fined $100 by Manager Bill Killefer for getting too "temperamental." It seems he ignored a bunt single in a recent game, and, when asked why he failed to follow instructions, stated that he didn't see why he had to bunt while Goslin and others were allowed to hit for homers.

Manager Johnson surprised all by giving Harry Rice a trial in right in place of Sam Rice, and Harry came through with a pretty catch in the very first inning, racing all the way to deep center for Levey's looper to end the round.

Kuhel went back almost to the stands to make a nice overhead grab of Blaeholder's pop-foul in the second.

Sam Rice batted for Spencer open-

VANDERPOOL SCORES 12TH STRAIGHT VICTORY AT AQUEDUCT

Unbeaten Colt Has Speed in Reserve

Cuttle's Boots Scores at Latonia, Paying $20.28 Mutuel.

AQUEDUCT RACE TRACK, New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Vanderpool, the undefeated 2-year-old of 1930, made his 1931 debut here today and showed all of his old-time speed and even went further and gave a fine demonstration of gameness. Vanderpool scored his twelfth straight victory when he annexed the purse in the first race, a condition affair for 3-year-olds. He packed 126 pounds, conceded weight to all of his opponents, stood them on their heads and at the end had plenty of speed in reserve.

It was a most popular victory for the colt. When it was plain that he would win, the big crowd gave the colt a rousing hand and repeated it when Walls brought him back to the scales.

Vanderpool went amiss while training for the big 3-year-old specials this spring. He had had everything a horse could possibly have, pulled through and came back to the races in splendid condition.

Big Bettors Wary Of Vanderpool.

The big bettors fought shy of the colt because they were not sure of his condition and his ability to carry the heavy weight. Follow Thru jumped away to the lead, reeled off the furlong in fast time, but he never was able to get very far away from the colt. Walls, who had the mount, kept Vanderpool well up and when Follow Thru showed signs of tiring sent the colt to the lead.

Vanderpool was full of run. He stepped to the front like a Man o' War despite his 126 pounds. Helianthus made a bold bid in the final furlong to catch him, but Walls shook the whip at the colt. Vanderpool held on gamely to win by three-quarters of a length. Helianthus beat Follow Thru eight lengths for the place. The time was 1:12 3-5 and the winner paid 16 to 5.

Cuttle's Boots Jolts Talent at Latonia.

Latonia, Ky., June 30 (A. P.).—A surprise witnessed the running of the Taylor Hills Purse, feature attraction here today, when W. W. Vaughn's Cuttle's Boots, the despised outsider, carried off the decision. J. C. Ellis' Leros was second and W. G. Spark's Running Water third.

Only five contested the issue with C. V. Whitney's Crazy Coot and J. W. Parrish's Stock Market most in demand with the big off-day crowd. The talent would have no part of Cuttle's Boots, a frequent disappointment at Bainbridge and as yet to earn brackets.

The Vaughn chestnut leaped into the lead at the break and settling all his own pace made every post a winning one. Neither Crazy Coot nor Stock Market showed his usual dash and both were keen disappointments.

WHITES BEAT CAVALRY AT POLO, 7-3

Devers Continues as Star in Rout of Cavalrymen.

WAR WHITES had little difficulty in downing Third Cavalry in one of the Argentine Cup tourney games yesterday on the Potomac Park oval. Maj. Devers once more took the high-goal scoring honors with three markers. The final score was 7 to 3, Cavalry carrying a 2-goal advantage by way of a handicap.

Devers was the outstanding mallet-man in the finals of the War Department Polo Association finals last Sunday when the War Whites downed the Third Cavalry squad, 7 to 5, in the title game of the invitation tourney, and Maj. Devers accounted for 6 of the 7 markers chalked up by the winners. He continued his brilliant game yesterday.

Whites Loom as Best Team.

Many of the 10,000 fans who witnessed Sunday's battle between the Whites and Cavalry were in doubt as to which was the best squad, but there was no doubt after yesterday's tilt. The War Department four showed supremacy in every department of play and there is but little conjecture as to the final outcome of the War White-War Blue contest for the cup, as the critics have about made up their minds that the Whites are the class of the tourney.

42 ROUNDS OF BOXING TO OPEN LAUREL ARENA TONIGHT

Heavies in Feature of Inaugural at New Arena.

Weiner-Sullivan in Semifinal; eD Beve Meets Diamond.

By JACK ESPEY.

BOXING followers of Washington and Baltimore will witness tonight the dedication of a new temple of fisticuffing when the Mid City Boxing Club, Inc., a Washington-owned and operated concern, throws open the gates of its arena, 1 mile north of Laurel on the Baltimore-Washington boulevard. At 8:30 o'clock promptly the first of 40 rounds of boxing, forming the inaugural card, will start.

For the feature bout, scheduled for ten rounds or less, Matchmaker Angy Gerrin, voluble little Frenchman and the directing force of the organization, has engaged Babe Hunt, nationally famous heavyweight from Ponca City, Okla., and Pietro Corri, battle-scarred New Yorker. Prefight dope stamps Hunt a pronounced favorite to win.

The supporting program lists five bouts, showing fighters from Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. The astute Gerrin has arranged his opening program with a mind to home-town appeal.

Weiner Meets Sullivan.

In the semifinal of ten rounds Herman Weiner, Baltimore heavyweight, will swap punches with Mike Sullivan, highly touted Philadelphia kayo artist. The main preliminary of eight rounds will bring together Arthur "Frenchy" DeBeve, former lightweight champion of France, now residing in the Capital, and Mickey Diamond, of Philadelphia.

Two colored sluggers will clash in a six-rounder—El (Billy Edwards) Kadir, of this city, against either Young Gorilla Jones, of New York, or Young Harry Wills, of Baltimore—while the pair of four-rounders opening the card will find Harry Haas, Washington, opposed by Bud Taylor, Baltimore, and Billy Eschinger, Washington, faced by Jimmy Reed, Baltimore.

The supervisory hand of the Maryland Athletic Commission will be in evidence when Charley Short, of Baltimore, serving as referee of the bouts. Jimmy Lake, Washington's Joe Humphries, will announce.

Hunt's Record Impressive.

Records show that Hunt is one of the leading heavyweights in the country out of the elite first ten, his three-year career having witnessed him in victories over Johnny Risko, Ernie Schaaf, Knute Hansen, Jimmy Braddock and K. O. Christner. The record of Corri is not nearly so impressive, but in the New Yorker's favor are a couple of close fights with Hunt and Paul Swiderski.

Corri tonight, says his manager, M. H. Herbert, will seek to avenge a beating suffered at Hunt's hands last year in Birmingham, Ala. On that occasion Hunt floored the New York scrapper no less than five times, but failed to keep him down. Corri is said to be a boxer more determined, on occasions, than proficient.

Little, if any talk has been heard of wagers on the outcome of tonight's feature bout, but if this reporter were asked to risk anything, it would be planked squarely on Hunt's chances. Hunt should win easily on points if he does not score a knockout.

Hunt Has Edge in Height, Reach.

Hunt will enter the ring weighing about 194 pounds. Corri will weigh about 196. The former has a distinct advantage in height and reach.

A quick knockout may be forthcoming in the Weiner-Sullivan semifinal, as both lads are willing wallopers, careless of consequences. Weiner has not been going well of late and would increase his earning power with a defeat of the touted Sullivan. The latter has a better press agent than a record.

Primo Told to Cancel Fight Listed With Corri

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera today was ordered by the New York State Athletic Commission to engage in no more fights in this State until he had conferred with the commission.

A proposed fight at Rochester with Pietro Corri July 6 was ordered cancelled. Although the commission declined to comment on its action, it was learned unofficially that it did not consider Corri a fit opponent for the giant Venetian.

M. H. Herbert, manager of Pietro Corri, who will meet Babe Hunt tonight at Laurel, last night could advance no reason for the cancellation of Corri's bout with Carnera. He expressed the belief that the fight would be staged as scheduled.

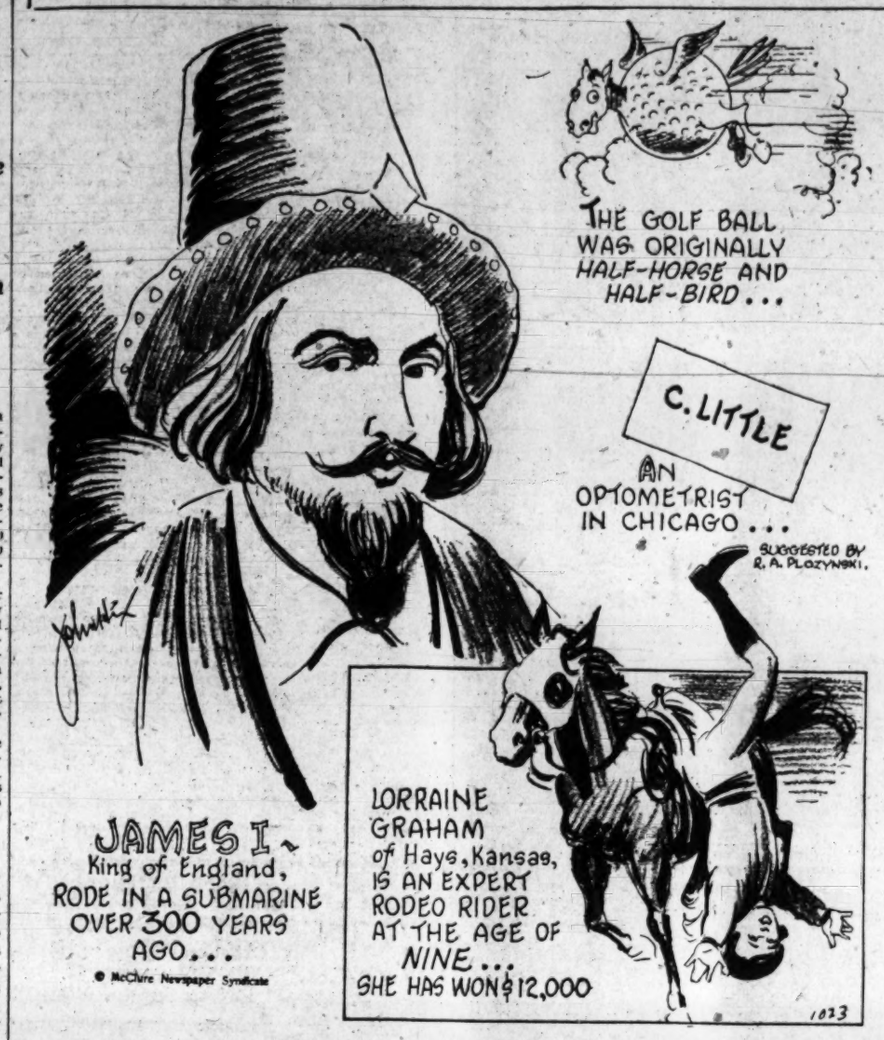
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



THE idea for a submerged boat was conceived as early as 1620, by Cornelius van Drebel, a Dutchman in the service of King James I of England. He was the first man to plan, build and successfully navigate an undersea boat. Van Drebel formulated his plans for a submarine after noticing how baskets of fish, being hauled in, would float or submerge according to the tautness of the towing rope. He reasoned that a boat would react in a similar manner.

King James I financed his operations, and Van Drebel built three submarines in four years of experimenting. His submergible boats resembled large rowboats, over which was attached waterproof greased leather. King James took a ride in one of these quaint submarines together with twelve rowers and several other passengers. The boat remained beneath the Thames River for several hours, traveling at a depth of 10 to 15 feet.

100 TO SWIM IN JULY 4 MEET

Alexandrians Ready for Events in Municipal Pool.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 30.—Over 100 entries are expected in the aquatic meet to be held at the Municipal Swimming Pool here on July 4, it was announced today by J. Prex Wilson, athletic director.

The events will be held in the afternoon. Swimmers interested in taking part in the competition are requested to sign up at the pool.

The Ballston Athletic Club will trek to Charlottesville, Va., on July 4 for two games with the S. & R. Silk Mills Team. The first fray will be played at 10 o'clock in the morning and the second at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

On Sunday the Ballston lads will clash with the Fort Humphreys nine on the locals' field. The Ballston Club has won its last nine starts. Their season record shows fourteen wins in fifteen games.

Manager Bill Hammond of the Colonial Athletic Club will mix with the Mount Vernon A. C. in a double-header July 4 at Guckert's. Sunday the Clovers will meet the Rover A. C., of Washington.

The National Juniors, entries in the Municipal Insect League, have won 34 games out of 35. Jack Lynch is manager of the team. Frank Brewer is the star pitcher.

Charlie Corbett, manager of the St. Mary's Celtics, is after a game with a foreign club for July 4. Corbett can be reached at Alexandria 564.

Leon Riley and Shoute Taylor, two Alexandria baseball players, are performing with the Commerce Department nine in Washington. Art Ludlow is playing with the D. C. Repair nine.

Treasury Netmen Win Departmental Title

Treasury scored a surprisingly decisive 4-1 victory over Navy yesterday, virtually to clinch the championship of the Departmental Tennis League. The match was played at Monument.

In the feature engagement of the day, Colin Stam and Bill Seidel, Treasury No. 2 combination, defeated Serat and McVey by the score of 6—1, 4—6, 17—15. The match was finished in semidarkness.

Charest and Purinton (T.) defeated Gill and Train, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2; Stam and Seidel (T.) defeated Serat and McVey, 6—1, 4—6, 17—15; Clark Packer and Mehl (N.) defeated Clark and Pol, 1—6, 7—5, 6—1; Coe and Gardiner (T.) defeated Brown and Russett, 6—2, 6—4; Dawson and Tracy (T.) defeated Bates and Wilson, 6—3, 6—3.

to tie his fighter up in a blanket contract.

FATE OF FIGHT IN CORRI'S HANDS.

The success of the program at Laurel tonight appears to be in the hands of Hunt's opponent, Pietro Corri.

Corri lost a decision to Hunt last year in Birmingham and it was reported to have been a sensational fight with Corri going down five times during the milling but always returning to the battle.

There are a few black spots on Corri's record, however. It seems that the Italian has a habit of taking a quick count. He went out in one round before Walter Cobb at Hagerstown last year and it has just come to light that he was stopped in a round by Maxie Schmeling during the latter's build-up campaign.

If Corri remains vertical tonight the fight may be worth watching.

BROWNS SHATTER A'S RECORD.

When the Athletics dropped a double-header to the Browns last week it marked the first time since August, 1929, that the champions have lost both ends of a double bill.

Come to think of it, there has been ample reason for Macks' success in staving off double defeats. He always has available one of his pitching stars to toss at the enemy in at least one of the games. It was Earnshaw's inability to come through against the Browns that marred Mack's twin bill record.

The three-game series between the Nats and the Athletics here starting Sunday is due to bring all three of Mack's stars into action. The Nats will not get a shot at Rommell, Mahaffey and MacDonald except in relief roles.

STRIBLING, IN PLANE, WATCHES FOE TRAIN

at the microphones. The main bout will start some time between 9 and 10 p. m., Eastern standard time.

The Garden also broke the news that the faithful who thinks $5.49 too much for the cheapest priced seats in the stadium that will hold 94,000, can now pay as little as $3 to see the championship embroglio. Ten thousand $3 seats in the bleachers will be placed on sale Friday afternoon. Top price for the seats is $25.

Dempsey Spurns Bout With Winner.

It seemed as though Jack Dempsey's record of having his name brought up in some connection with every present-day heavyweight fight would be broken until a Cleveland newspaper today offered the former champion a match with the winner. Dempsey promptly announced that he had turned down an offer of $750,000 and the ballyhoo wheels for this match, and for Dempsey's bout between Max Baer and Paulino Uzcudon in Reno July 4, promptly ground a bit faster.

Stribling had the final workout of the training campaign scheduled for tonight. He will exercise lightly but will do no more boxing between tomorrow and Friday night. Schmeling will spar with his partners for the last time tomorrow. Both are in perfect condition.

Two crack teams, the Red Sox A. C. and the Dixie Pigs will tangle Saturday in a double-header [illegible] the first game to start at 1:30 o'clock. Culbertson and Adair will go [illegible] flinging for the Dixie Pigs while Kaufman and Jewett will attend to the Sox hurling.

VIN RICHARDS NO. 1 SEEDED PLAYER

Tops List of 46 Pros in U. S. Title Tourney Opening Monday.

NEW YORK, June 30 (A.P.).—Vincent Richards, who won the title last year, has been seeded No. 1 for the professional tennis championships of the United States, play in which begins Monday at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills.

Richards, as defending champion, was given the place of honor over William T. Tilden 2d, who will play in the tournament for the first time, despite the fact that Tilden has consistently defeated him in their recent professional tour.

Karel Kozeluh, the little Czecho pro who was runner-up to Richards, is seeded ahead of Albert Burke, English - bred professional from France, among the foreign entries.

Following after Richards and Tilden in the American seeded list are Francis T. Hunter, Big Bill's Davis Cup partner of other days; Howard W. Kinsey, of San Francisco; J. Emmett Pare, of Chicago, and Robert Seller, of Los Angeles.

Forty-six professionals are entered

BATTALINO RISKS TITLE.

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Christopher (Bat) Battalino, slugging featherweight title holder of Hartford, Conn., will put his crown at stake for the third time in six months when he meets Irish Bobby Brady, of Jersey City, in the Jersey City ball park tomorrow night in a ten-round bout.

MISS JACOBS WINNER AT LONDON

the favorite's position to win the title Mrs. Helen Wills Moody has held for four years.

Miss Jacobs defeated Miss Nuthall, 6—2, 6—3, at the start of an afternoon of play which saw the elimination of all three British women in the quarter-finals and the progression of Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood, jr., to the semifinals of men's doubles.

In her victory Helen stamped herself as a worthy successor to Mrs. Helen Wills Moody in upholding American prestige at this high court of tennis.

English Crowd Surprised.

The masterful way in which the California girl defeated Miss Nuthall surprised the English crowd, which had thought this was Betty's year to win the Wimbledon crown.

Miss Jacobs gave the best exhibition of tennis she ever had shown at Wimbledon. Toward the end of the match, when Miss Nuthall was beginning to get on her game, the American girl rose to the occasion and smashed and volleyed like a champion.

The three semifinalist places already decided in women's singles are held by Miss Jacobs, Rene Mathieu, of France, and H. Keahwinkel, Germany's third ranking woman player. The German girl will meet Miss Jacobs in the upper half of the draw and Mme. Mathieu will play the winner of the last quarter-final match between Aussem, of Germany, and Mlle Payot, of Switzerland.

Fraulein Krahwinkel defeated Dorothy Round, 7—5, 6—3, and Mme. Mathieu disposed of Peggy Scriven, little 18-year-old Yorkshire girl, 1—6, 6—2, 7—5.

Miss Scriven Bears Britian's Hopes.

Little Miss Scriven, who is left-handed, appears to be England's hope for tomorrow. She plays with a fire and abandon uncommon among the English women.

Taking second place to the Jacobs-Nuthall duel on center court was the bitter five set struggle between Shields and Wood and J. C. Gregory and Ian G. Collins, the British pair. The Americans finally won 3—6, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4, 6—3, largely on superior stamina and Wood's fine all-around play.

Shields was wild again today as he was yesterday against H. W. (Bunny) Austin, and Wood had to carry the load through the major portion of the match. Once Shields got his service to working in the fourth set, the Americans made short work of their tiring opponents.

Lott and Van Ryn Oust Austrians.

George Lott, jr., and John Van Ryn, the other American doubles pair, advanced to the quarter-final round with a four-set victory over Baron von Kehrling and H. W. Artens, of Austria, 6—3, 6—2, 6—8, 6—1. In the quarter-finals with them went the British pair of George Hughes and Fred Perry and the South African doubles team of Kirby and Nat Farquharson. Hughes and Perry defeated G. Lyttleton Rogers and Hiro Satoh, while Kirby and Farquharson won from J. S. Oliff and H. G. N. Lee, of Great Britain. Lott and Van Ryn meet Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., and Pierre Landry, of France, in the quarter-finals tomorrow.

The Wood-Perry duel in the semifinals of men's singles will have the honor place on the center court tomorrow with Shields and Jean Borotra following them for their semifinal contest. Shield's erratic play the last two days has made the Frenchman the favorite, with most observers calling the Perry-Wood match a toss-up.

Mrs. L. A. Harper and Mrs. John Van Ryn, both eliminated from singles play Monday, advanced to the last eight of women's doubles today with a 3—6, 6—1, 6—3 victory over Mrs. Stokes and Miss Lyle, of Great Britain.

Braves Beat Pirates, 5 to 1, to Even Series

Boston, June 30 (A.P.). — The Braves evened their series with the Pittsburgh Pirates by taking the second game, 5 to 1, today behind the five-hit pitching of Fred Frankhouse, who registered his fourth straight win.

Randy Moore hit a home run in the first inning with two men on to provide the winning margin. Earl Sheely, former Pirate, helped swell the total in the eighth with a single which drove in two more.

Paul Waner returned to the Pirates' line-up and his single drove in his team's only run.

ing the sixth and then Hargrave hit for Fischer, but both died on infield taps.

A foul drive off Bluege's bat slightly injured Coach Al Schacht in the eighth. It raised a knot as big as a hen's egg on Al's right wrist.

Levey was credited with two thefts in the sixth. He stole second after singling and later pilfered home on the front end of a double-steal in collaboration with Schuite. He would have been nipped at the plate had Cronin's return throw been good.

Kress was the only Brownie not credited with a hit, but it took a good catch by Cronin of a red-hot liner in the eighth to keep him out in the cold.

Undertakers' Convention At Schmeling Camp Makes Better Men of Reporters

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., June 30.—You may fancy your correspondent's sensations upon alighting from a high-powered barouche at this gay haunt of pleasure this afternoon to find a hearse standing by the front door of the hotel, and all over the front lawn of the place, and also on the side lawns, a profusion of coffins and artificial flowers in such funereal designs as the broken wheel, the celestial harp and the gates ajar surmounted by a stuffed white seagull or pigeon.

Following the colored bellboy, who seemed a little greenish and was showing a lot of white in his eyes, your correspondent entered a conventional lobby of a conventional, wooden, tinder-box summer hotel beside a little lake, to find a convention of undertakers just moving in for a session of three days. The front parlor, or setting room, was given over to a fascinating array of morticians' wares, such as cosmetics. Paris physiognomies and preserving fluids, and all the other public rooms, such as the bridge room, the ball room and the souvenir-postcard-writing, or having-a-wonderful-time-wish-you-were-here room, were hosts to displays of caskets, urns, shrouds of such alluring beauty as to make's one's thoughts turn pleasantly and a little impatiently to dissolution.

Max Out a-Golfing, Reporter Stays in.

Your correspondent had come all this way to see Max Schmeling train for his prize fight with Willie Stribling in Cleveland next Friday evening, but Max was out playing what he calls his golf and, having just come from Columbus, Ohio., where the big professionals played golf in the Ryder Cup tournament last week, your correspondent did not pursue him. When your correspondent wishes to cover some golf he does not go to a prizefighter's camp to do so, for the same reason that he does not go to a golf tournament to cover fights.

Moreover, nothing that Herr Schmeling or any other prize fighter, including the intellectuals of the trade, has ever done has stirred your correspondent to such pleasant reflections on the ephemereality of it all, and the luxurious appointments of eternity.

All afternoon, the undertakers, whose coming the keeper of the inn had been heralding for more than a week with the assurance that they were the livest, most up-to-the-minute bunch of gay devils that ever held a convention on this lake, were going about doing mental exercises at the expense of the other guests. Now here was a young man of rather swarthy complexion and two of the undertakers, seeing him reading his mail, fell to arguing as to which tint would be best for him.

"I say," said one, "he'd take that No. 2 olive enamel. It's a little deeper than his natural complexion, but you have to allow for fading and ——"

The young man put his mail in his pocket, shuddered and walked down toward the dock.

The appointments of death may have made a grisly vacation background for some of the guests, but your correspondent, a little weary anyway, after the heat of Columbus and a little depressed by the aspect of life at the pleasure resort after one look at his room and the bill of fare, was disturbed by a strange delightful fear that something might happen any minute. Down in the cellar where the bronze casket and the satin throws were on display, the mind entertained the thought that life was never like this.

Your correspondent found particular charm in a roomy bronze case, somehow done in an iridescent green and upholstered in pillowed satin of the most tempting softness and when he asked the undertaker in charge if these pleasant little homes came in standard sizes like hats and shoes the man said: "I'd figure you for about a No. 6, although progressive people nowadays are having them made to measure. How have you been feeling?"

He declined to rent the green one by the night and your correspondent is planning to stay up as late as possible so as to spend the least possible time in his away-backed bed whose rusty springs hee-haw like a mule at every stir and whose mattress leaves stone bruises on the physique.

Herr Schmeling has not been lured to the parlors of the hotel as yet, but there is no escaping the intimation which pervades the entire settlement largely devoted to an amusement park, instinctively reminding people that ptomaines sometimes dwell in hot dogs and that roller coasters have been known to fly off into space with fatal consequences.

Learns $2,500 Will Buy All-American Casket.

The fashions in ceraments of both genders set out in tempting array on coat hangers augment the lure of the other properties, although personally your correspondent did not care for the style of shoulders in the coats, which were square and padded, preferring the sloping kind. That these garments are vacant in the back, mere shams of garments like the shirt fronts which waiters wear, seems a little bit anide, but, after all, appearance is the main thing and serviceability is unimportant.

The man downstairs said he didn't believe that Dion O'Banion's coffin nor the box in which the late Dan Iamascio, of New York, were laid to rest could have cost $20,000, as legend contends, adding that for $2,500 he would agree to furnish your correspondent a box as rich as ever a man was borne away in.

"With your complexion, freckles and all," said he, "I wouldn't advise the green bronze. Natural bronze, beautiful but simple, is what you need."

The war correspondents attending the training of Herr Schmeling were strangely subdued this evening. Those bottles set forth in such proud array under lively show cards reading, "Everlast appliances give satisfaction," contain a fluid of much the same color as the local Scotch. The convention of undertakers is making better boys of most of us, but your correspondent can hardly wait.

Army's Leech Cup Team Named; Youth Is Keynote

Muehleisen Bolsters Squad for Matches With Navy Here July 18; Army Defeated, 8-1, Last Year.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE strongest Army Leech Cup team ever gathered together was named yesterday by Maj. J. Huntington Hills, captain of the squad, to meet the Navy July 18 at Chevy Chase in the annual six singles and three doubles for possession of the nationally known trophy offered by Abner Y. Leech, jr., veteran tennis enthusiast of this city.

Maj. Hills nominated the following players to make up the team, the first six of whom are virtually certain to see service: Flying Cadet Dolf Muehleisen, Lieut. S. K. Robinson, Army singles champion; Lieut. David D. Hedekin, runner-up; Maj. J. H. Hills, Maj. Leland S. Hobbs, Lieut. John Helms, Lieut. Harold Brooks, Maj P. W. Newgarden, Lieut. P. K. Morrill, Capt R. C. Drake and Lieut. J. N. Stone.

Maj. Von Vliet Not Listed.

The list fails to include Maj. Robert C. Van Vliet, former Army champion and long the best player in the service, for the first time since the inception of the cup. Maj. Van Vliet, in poor health, was unable to play in either the Army singles or doubles, and is a leader in the school of thought within Army tennis circles which holds that the younger players should be given a chance in Leech Cup tennis.

This is one of the youngest Army teams ever named. Lieuts. Morrill, Stone, Helms, Lewis and Brooks are comparatively fresh from West Point. Lieut. Robinson is 25 and Muehleisen is 24. Lieut. Hedekin is scarcely older.

Barring some unprecedented form on the part of the Navy team, Army looms as an almost even chance to take the match this year. Last year Army was able to win but one of nine matches. Lieut. Robinson triumphing over Ensign Jimmy Farran in a long, three-set match. This year should tell another story. Muehleisen's acquisition strengthens the team all down the line, in that it shoves even the Army champion into second place, and works proportionately down the ranks.

Muhlheisen Faces Test in Watt.

Muehleisen will be in for one of his toughest matches when he stacks up against Lieut. R. M. Watt, the Navy's best player. Watt last year pressed Johnny Doeg to four sets in the national singles and led, 4—2, in one of the sets he lost.

While nothing official has been heard from the camp of the Navy it is unlikely that any radical changes in line-up will be made in that division this year.

CHISOX BUY OUTFIELDER.

Chicago, June 30 (A.P.).—The White Sox have purchased Willis Norman, an outfielder, from the Muskogee club, of the Western Association. Norman will report at the end of the Western Association season.

Robins' Streak Broken As Reds Triumph, 4-3

Brooklyn, June 30 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds ended Brooklyn's winning streak after five straight victories today by taking the second game of their series, 4 to 3. The Reds pounded Hollis Thurston for fourteen hits, yet three of their runs were unearned. Four Brooklyn double plays helped out Thurston.

Benny Frey held the Robins to five hits in seven innings, but they drove him from the mound in the eighth, bunching three of their eight hits. With one run in and the bases filled in this inning, Bressler sent a line drive to Douthit and Gilbert, trying to score the tying run from third, was nipped at the plate by Douthit's fine throw.

ARMY TENNIS SEES NO. 2 PAIR BOW

Robinson-Stone Beat Hedekin-Lewis in 4-Set Match.

DISPLAYING enough steadiness in the pinches to make up for occasional bursts of wildness, the post entry team of Lieuts. S. K. Robinson and J. N. Stone yesterday advanced to the final round of the doubles championship of the United States Army, defeating Lieuts. D. D. Hedekin and Millard Lewis, second seeded team, 6—2, 6—2, 5—7, 6—4, at Columbia Country Club.

Earlier in the day Robinson and Stone disposed of Maj. P. W. Newgarden and Lieut. P. K. Morrill, 7—5, 6—2.

The top seeded pair of Majors J. H. Hills and L. S. Hobbs entertained but passing difficulty in beating Capt. R. C. Crane and Lieut. J. S. Moran, 6—0, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2, showing general all-around superiority in the doubles game.

Exhibitions Today With Local Stars.

The final round will not be played until tomorrow at 2 o'clock. Today at 3:30 o'clock there will be exhibition singles and a doubles match. In the first singles Tom Mangan, former District champion, will engage Lieut. Robinson, recent winner of the Army singles. In the other singles event Dolf Muehleisen, young flying ender, who is ranked eighth among Pacific Coast players, will play Bob Considine, District title holder.

A doubles match, between the teams Robinson and Muehleisen and Mangan and Considine will follow.

Aided by Hedekin's double faulting, and the high driving of his partner, the team of Robinson and Stone had no trouble whatever in the first two sets. Stone, while erratic, proffered some more than average tennis during the first two sets, especially in the overhead smash department. Robinson backed him up exceedingly well and was ever present to lend steadiness and at times winning shots to the proceedings.

Winners Are Wild In Third Set.

The eventual winners grew wild in the third set, and this, coupled with slightly more consistent play on the part of Hedekin and Lewis, gave the latter team their lone set.

The fourth set found Robinson and Stone more as they were in the first two. The eventual losers forced the play to the limit, though, and only a brilliant backhand drive down the line by Robinson gave his side a 5—4 lead, which they promptly capitalized.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Second round—Lieuts. Robinson and Stone defeated Maj. Newgarden and Lieut. Morrill, 7—5, 6—2.

Semifinal round—Majs. Hills and Hobbs defeated Capt. Crane and Lieut. Moran, 6—0, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2; Lieuts. Robinson and Stone defeated Lieuts. Hedekin and Lewis, 6—2, 6—2, 5—7, 6—4.

TOMORROW'S SCHEDULE.

Final round (2 o'clock)—Majs. J. H. Hills and L. S. Hobbs vs. Lieuts. S. K. Robinson and J. N. Stone.

W. Va. Governor Picks Boxing Commissioners

Martinsburg, W. Va., June 30.—West Virginia's first boxing commission has been constituted by Gov. William G. Conley's appointment of its three members as follows: George T. Phillips, Wheeling (to serve until July 1, 1934); Fred M. Cochran, Parkersburg (to serve until July 1, 1933); and Frank J. Maxwell, Clarksburg (to serve until July 1, 1932). After 1934 all terms will be for three years. The first two named are Republicans

LATE SELLING DROPS STOCK PRICE LEVELS

Final Loss as Market Closes Averages 2 Points; Day's Turnover Is Light.

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Stocks came to the crossroads of 1931 in a rather indecisive mood today. Pending a final settlement of the debt negotiations at Paris, the market had little to work on one way or the other; it was heavy at the opening, and again at the close, with a professional rally between the two extremes. Late selling brought net losses averaging a couple of points, but the volume dropped to 1,900,000 shares, the smallest five-hour turnover since before the recovery.

A lower trend in bonds was most noticeable among foreign issues, especially Germans, which doubtless were disturbed by the protracted conversations between French and American officials and diplomats. June wheat jumped 8 cents a bushel, but other months closed unchanged to ¾ lower on reports of insufficient rain in the Northwest. Corn finished about steady. Cotton, following stocks, was off 60 to 90 cents a bale.

In the first interval of selling U. S. Steel gave the market its cue by dipping to 99¾. It easily recrossed par on the subsequent rally which erased general losses of 1 to 3, and then managed to sell a shade above the Monday close of 102¼, but the final transfer was at 100¾, off 1½ net. Bethlehem was also seggy, down 2, while American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, Union Carbide, Kennecott, Anaconda, Standard of New Jersey, Texas Corporation, General Electric, Fox, Paramount, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward lost 1 to 1½.

Rails Are Easier.

Rails were somewhat easier, for the Interstate Commerce Commission's announcement that the freight rate increase hearings would start July 15 put an end to gossip concerning the allowance of a partial rise immediately. The revision in class rates, announced today, will provide additional revenue aggregating between $50,000,000 and $70,000,000 a year, but can not become effective for some time. Meanwhile, virtually complete returns on May income show that the percentage of decline from a year ago was, after all, closely comparable with the drop in April.

Sponginess in the coppers reflected a slackening in the demand and a shading in the price to 8¾-9 against the flat quotation of 9 cents announced yesterday. Motor car production in May, according to the Department of Commerce, was off about 26 per cent from May, 1930, and 6 per cent from the previous month. The latter recession is more than the recent seasonal average.

Interest rates were unaffected by the month-end. Call money was generously supplied outside at 1 per cent, while the stock exchange rate held at 1½, from which there had been no deviation throughout June. The usual heavy demand for holiday funds is expected later in the week.

Steel Faces Holiday.

The steel industry is facing the usual Fourth of July shutdowns with operations on the downgrade, as is normal at this time of year. American Metal Market estimates current operations at 34 per cent of capacity, a loss of 3 points in a week. Car loadings for the week ended June 20 showed a gain of 6,663, a larger increase than was expected in some circles.

Seen in retrospect, the first half year, although crowded with falling earnings and dividends and other painful evidence of extreme depression, probably was no worse, from the domestic viewpoint, than had been expected. Certainly the country was less disappointed by the showing than by the severe slump from the spring peak a year ago.

Declines in many branches of industry followed the customary seasonal grooves; and although hopes for much of a recovery before autumn have been laid aside, the expectations of a fall rise are believed to have more justification than was the case at this time a year ago.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 30 (A.P.).—Despite big stocks of wheat here, the amount available for delivery on June contracts today proved scant, and June quotations skyrocketed 8 cents a bushel. The flare-up came as a spectacular climax to settlement of 1930 old crop wheat transactions, but involved only 805,000 bushels, a total smaller than usual at the month-end in Chicago. The fact, however, that old wheat was not being thrown on the bargain counter helped to make new crop deliveries rally from earlier setbacks.

Wheat closed irregular, at ½ cent decline to 8 cents advance, corn unchanged to ¾ cent off; oats unchanged to ¾ cent up, and provisions unchanged to 27 cents down.

Belated bidding for June wheat to supply traders who were short brought about rapid jumps in prices as the day drew to an end. Highest quotations on June wheat in Chicago, 77 cents, were reached in the last minute, contrasting with 49½ cents at which it was simultaneously offered in Kansas City. Just in the nick of time, one Chicago house received 52 cars of No. 1 hard and No. 1 dark northern wheat from Kansas City to deliver on June contracts here. The arrival of the train load enabled the Chicago owners to settle previous speculative sales and to escape 8 cents a bushel penalty.

Except for the late bulge in June wheat, bears had the advantage. Stock market weakness, with action of France in halting moratorium plans, furnished incentive to wheat sellers, and so too did soaking rains in Canada. Another bearish factor was apparent likelihood that notwithstanding President Hoover's mediation the Federal Farm Board might adhere to the policy of refraining from any pledge to keep old crop wheat holdings off the market for a definite period. Fresh receipts of new domestic wheat aggregated but 2,662 cars, compared with yesterday's total of 4,691.

Corn and oats averaged lower with wheat. Buying of oats, though, was persistent on account of crop damage reports.

BOND PRICES LOWER; FOREIGNS LEAD DROP

Industrial Issues Are Divided Between Gains and Losses; Rails Decline.

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—The bond market declined irregularly today as trading showed a moderate increase. Foreign obligations recorded many of the larger losses. South American issues, such as those of Chile, Argentina and Brazil dropped from fraction to 5 points each. An official announcement was made overnight by Argentina to the effect that all government debt obligations will be met without a moratorium. President Herrera of Colombia made a similar announcement on Saturday.

Plans for financial assistance to Chile are still under consideration. Various European obligations, particularly those of Germany, reflected the uncertainty existing over the proposed moratorium on intergovernmental debts. Australian Commonwealth 4½s and 5s and New South Wales 5s receded also.

Railroad obligations irregularly lower, after rising and falling uncertainly most of the day. The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered revised class freight rates to take effect not later than December 3 on Eastern and Western lines. The result of this action is estimated as a net increase of $50,000,000 to $70,000,000 in revenue. The commission also set July 15 and August 31 as dates for hearings on the proposed 15 per cent general increase in freight rates.

This news did not become public until after the close. The decline in the rails extended to all classes of bonds. Atchison general 4s, St. Paul 5s of 2000, Rock Island series A 4½s, several Missouri Pacific issues and Union Pacific 4s of 1968 were among the active carrier obligations to close lower. Such gains as occurred were usually small and among the less active bonds.

Public utility and industrial bonds moved within a narrow range and their changes were divided about evenly between gains and declines.

Obligations of the United States Government turned firm late in the trading session, but the turnover in most of them was moderate. An offering of $11,000,000 serial notes of the Midland United Co. is expected soon.

DEPOSITS INTEREST REDUCED IN CAPITAL

Clearing House Fixes Rate at 1 Per Cent; Cut Made in Other Cities.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Member and associate member banks of the Washington, D. C., Clearing House Association were notified yesterday by that organization that on June 26, it had adopted a new rule, effective today, with respect to the payment of interest on demand deposits. The rule fixes interest on deposits of banks, bankers and trust companies at the rate of 1 per cent per year, and reduces interest on demand deposit accounts of individuals, firms and corporations ½ of 1 per cent. As the prevailing rate has been generally 1½ per cent, the new rule means but 1 per cent will be paid on these accounts after today.

In announcing the foregoing decision, Chairman H. H. McKee, of the clearing house association, emphasized that the prevailing rate of 3 per cent on savings deposits was not disturbed.

Action Is Explained.

Clearing House officials explained that while the foregoing action was occasioned by the present lack of demand for commercial loans, in which commercial deposits can be employed, no action was taken to retard the savings of the people. The decision follows those of other clearing houses. New York City having reduced interest on commercial deposits to ½ of 1 per cent May 19. Boston cut interest on these to ½ of 1 per cent, Baltimore, to 1 per cent; Philadelphia, to 1 per cent, and Richmond, to 1½ per cent on commercial deposits and 1¾ per cent on those of banks.

The rule reduces the interest rate on deposits of banks, bankers and trust companies ½ per cent, the rate having been previously reduced last February from an average one of approximately 2 per cent to 1½ per cent. In April the interest rate on demand deposits was lowered ½ per cent from an average rate of 2 per cent.

While in the latter part of May the association ordered that after June 1 no new savings deposits should be taken at any greater rate of interest than 3 per cent, this rate has not been disturbed by the latest or any preceding changes of the year. Thirteen of the 39 banks of the city are members of the association and 22 associate members.

Refinancing Announced.

Refinancing of two local properties to the extent of more than $1,000,000 was announced yesterday by local loan correspondents of two large insurance companies. The Park Lane Apartment building at Pennsylvania avenue and Twenty-first street northwest has been refinanced by the New York Life Insurance Co. through its correspondent, Randall H. Hagner & Co. The loan of $725,000 at 5½ per cent for three years replaces that of the Fidelity Trust Co. of Philadelphia. This property is owned by the Joseph H. Himes Co.

The Frontenac, new apartment at 4350 Connecticut avenue, has been refinanced to the extent of $425,000 by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., through Boss & Phelps. mortgage loan correspondent. The loan at 6 per cent will be amortized over a period of ten years. The building is owned by the Frontenac Apartment Corporation.

The May statement of operations of the Georgetown Gas Light Co. filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission reveals a net corporate income of $11,631.56 as contrasted with $20,664.49 for the month last year. That for the first five months of 1931 is $67,293.21, as compared with $105,195.94 for the first five months of 1930.

Fleming 24 Years in Bank.

President Robert V. Fleming, Riggs National Bank, celebrates his twenty-fourth anniversary of service with that institution today. On July 1, 1907, he entered its employ as a messenger boy.

Additions and betterments to the telephone system in Washington authorized by the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. at its regular monthly meeting yesterday will involve expenditures of $506,405. This brings the total amount authorized for similar work in the District so far this year to $2,551,590, according to a statement made by John A. Remon, general manager.

The projects authorized include underground conduit and cable extensions in the Cleveland and Georgia central office areas to provide additional facilities in the vicinity of Upton street east of Connecticut avenue northwest, and Wisconsin avenue and Thirty-fourth street to Hall place and along Kennedy street east of Georgia avenue to the District-Maryland line. The installation of improved storage batteries in the West central offce are also authorized.

Included in this appropriation is the routine construction estimate for the third quarter of the year. Under this project extensions will be made to the underground conduit and cable system, installation of central office equipment and telephones and private branch exchange switchboards on the subscribers' premises in every section of Washington.

Bank clearings here in June totaled $115,114,393.13 in comparison with $116,280,346.27 in June, 1930. Clearings for the six months total $649,734,097.74, against $679,250,208.88 for the corresponding period last year.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—The Baldwin Locomotive Works has received an order from Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. to build mechanical parts for 54 heavy electric passenger locomotives for the Pennsylvania Railroad. The parts will be fabricated and assembled by Baldwin at its Eddystone plant and moved to the Westinghouse plant at Lester, Pa. The value of the order is placed at somewhat in excess of $3,000,000. Construction will start late in the fall.

Arthur G. McKee & Co., engineers and contractors of Cleveland, have obtained a contract for the construction of a cracking unit for the Kendall Refining Co., Bradford, Pa. The unit, which will cost $350,000, will increase the cracking capacity of the company's refinery by 1,250 barrels daily.

William A. Hanway, vice president of International Paper & Power Securities, Inc., announced the formation of a wholesale department, under the direction of C. E. Bradley, formerly vice president of Albert E. Pierce & Co.

No announcements were made after the regular weekly meeting of the finance committee of the U. S. Steel Corporation today nor after the regular monthly meeting of the directors. Announcement of the earnings and dividend action are scheduled to be made after the next monthly meeting of directors July 28.

Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines Corporation, reported to directors at their regular meeting that profits of the corporation for the first five months this year were 4 per cent ahead of those for the corresponding period of 1930. Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, payable October 10 to stockholders of record September 22.

The New York Stock Exchange firm of Stokes, Hoyt & Co. announced the admission to partnership of Sanford Griffith, formerly associated with Otis & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau, Washington, Tuesday, June 30—8 p. m. Forecast—For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia: generally fair and continued warm Wednesday and Thursday; moderate south or southwest winds.

Pressure is low over the Saint Lawrence Valley, Panhandle Pointe, Que., and Nova Scotia. Another disturbance is central over northwestern Minnesota. Moorhead, 29.58 inches, and still another over western Nebraska, North Platte, 29.66 inches. Pressure is relatively high over the South Atlantic States, Hatteras, N. C., 30.00 inches. Another area of high pressure is central off the north Pacific Coast, North Head, Wash., 30.14 inches. Within the last 24 hours local showers and thunderstorms have occurred at scattered places in the Gulf States and North Dakota. The temperature has risen in the lower Ohio Valley, the upper lake region, and the north Pacific States, and has fallen in the northern plains States and the northern Rocky Mountain region. Abnormally high temperatures prevail from the plains States eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

Except for scattered showers in portions of the South Atlantic States Wednesday and Thursday, and in the lower lake region Thursday afternoon or night, the indications are for generally fair weather in the Washington forecast district during the next two days. The temperature will continue high Wednesday and Thursday. There will be a reaction to somewhat lower temperature, however, in the lower lake region and the Ohio Valley Thursday afternoon or night.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

FLOWER, VEGETABLE SHOWS OPEN TODAY

First of Series Scheduled by County Club Groups for Fairfax.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The first of a series of flower and vegetable shows in the various communities will open today in Fairfax as part of the projects of the Home Demonstration and 4-H Clubs of the county under direction of Miss Sarah E. Thomas, home demonstration agent.

L. C. Beamer, vegetable garden specialist of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, will address club members on fall and winter gardens and winter storage of vegetables. All county clubs are arranging for pilgrimages to the county exhibition garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Hirst, at Annandale, near the junction of the Little River turnpike and the Columbia pike.

At each exhibition blue, red and yellow ribbons will be awarded as prizes in each of the following classes: Best arrangement of flowers in a container suitable for a dining room table; best arrangement of flowers in a container for a living room table or a hall; best specimen of any cut flowers; best specimen of any potted plant. In the vegetable show the following classes have been arranged: Onions, beets, potatoes and radishes; best pint of peas, best half gallon of any leafy vegetable, best half gallon of spinach; best head of cabbage; best head of lettuce; best leaf of lettuce and best quart of string beans.

Other shows will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at Annandale, at 1 p. m. at Burke Community Hall, at 3 p. m. at Franconia and at 8 p. m. at Clifton. Friday at 10 a. m. at Navy, 1 p. m. at Floris, 3 p. m. at Forestville and at 8 p. m. at Andrew Chapel. At each place demonstration gardens grown by the local clubs will be visited.

The annual carnival for the benefit of the Vienna Volunteer Fire Department will open this evening on the lot adjacent to the Town Hall in Vienna. The carnival will continue through the week with an all-day celebration Saturday. The firemen have planned special attractions for each day. This evening a prize will be given to the married woman throwing a rolling pin the greatest distance. Thursday evening $2.50 will be given to the girl under 12 years old who makes the dress and exhibits the best dressed doll. Friday a prize waltz will be held and Saturday $2.50 in gold will be given the man and his wife attending with the largest family.

Saturday afternoon a special exhibition of airplane stunts will be the attraction. Dancing will be held every evening.

Roy Alexander, of Merrifield, was fined $50 and costs in Mayor L. P. Daniel's court in Falls Church on a charge of colliding and leaving the scene of the accident and operating a car on dead tags.

According to Mayor Daniel, Sunday afternoon Alexander reported to him that his car had been stolen and wrecked on the Lee highway near Falls Church and that the car's battery and radiator cap had been stolen. On investigation Daniel found the tags on the car belonged to Samuel Macy, of Falls Church. Alexander confessed later that his first story had been a fabrication and that he was driving the car at the time of the wreck. Macy denied that he had loaned the tags to Alexander and charged him with larceny of the tags but this charge was dismissed because of conflicting testimony.

The Great Falls Grange will meet this evening in the Grange Hall at Forestville. At the request of L. B. Morris, chairman of the annual Forestville Day, July 18, the lecturer's hour this evening will be devoted to a discussion of plans for the celebration. The lecturer, Mrs. Marvin Sanders, has appointed a committee composed of Mrs. William Tavenner, Mrs. Orlando Whitley and Mrs. Claude Robey, to prepare refreshments for tonight.

The Fairview 4-H Club will meet this morning at the home of Mrs. J. B. Jones at Fairfax Station. Miss Sara E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will give a demonstration on the making of yeast breads.

A supper will be given this evening in Pohick Hall by the Lee District Improvement Association to raise funds to aid in road improvement projects in Lee magisterial district. The association recently decided to purchase a small tract of land near Pohick Station to be used in widening the present right of way of the road from the Washington-Richmond highway to Pohick Station, from Frank Gillingham. The value of the land is said to be $100.

The School and Community League of Oakton will meet this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hawxhurst at Oakton.

The 4-H Club of Fairfax will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. A. Hallman in Fairfax. A demonstration on the canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables will be given. The club has divided into three groups for the summer with headquarters at Fairfax, Merrifield and Pender.

Falls Church Chapter, Daughters of the King, will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Samuel H. Styles, Great Falls street, Falls Church.

New officers of the Fairfax Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, will be installed at a meeting this evening in Robey Hall in Fairfax.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Langley will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Lillian King in McLean.

The Nazarane Guild of Falls Church will meet this morning at the home of Mrs. W. S. Orr.

The Women's Guild of the St. Paul's Episcopal Chapel at Baileys Cross Roads will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Claude W. Oliver on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike.

The Women's Mission Union of the Baptist Church at McLean will meet this noon in the church house. Mrs. Frank Walter, vice president of the union, will have charge of the program. Reports will be given by Mrs. R. C. Cline, Mrs. Wallace Hanshaw and Mrs. Frank Walter on the Potomac Association meeting held in Marshall last month.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Lincolnia will meet this afternoon in the church house.

BIBLE CLASS AT CLIFTON STATION

Pupils and teachers of the daily vacation Bible School conducted each morning in the Clifton High School building at Clifton Station, Va. John Strome, of Princeton University, student pastor of the Clifton Presbyterian Church, rear center, is in charge of the faculty drawn from the Baptist and Presbyterian churches of Clifton.

MOVE MADE TO STAY W. B. A. EXEMPTION

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 30.—The movement designed to stay the operation of an act passed at the late session of the Maryland Legislature whereby the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad was exempted from taxation for a two-year period culminated today with the filing in the executive offices here of petitions for a referendum on the law.

The Taxpayers League of Anne Arundel County, of which Walter H. Hart, of Annapolis, is president, sponsored the referendum and Mr. Hart stated that the petitions contained 10,408 signers. The number required under law is 10,000.

Today marked the expiration of the time limit to take advantage of the referendum. It is stated that 5,429 of those who subscribed to the petition are residents of Anne Arundel and Prince Georges Counties, two of the sections most affected by the tax exemption act, and other counties, while 4,979 signers were obtained in Baltimore. Since more than one unit is affected by the act, State-wide provisions of the referendum law had to be met. The petitions were filed late this afternoon with Maurray Hooper, chief clerk in the executive offices. They will be checked to determine their validity, and, in turn presented to Secretary of State David C. Weinbrenner 3d, for formal action.

Meanwhile, it is reported that officials of the railroad are preparing to make close scrutiny of the papers to determine the legality of the signatures. If the referendum is granted it will mean that the issue can not be put up to a vote of the people until the general election in 1932. In the interim, therefore, the railroad would be compelled to pay taxes to the areas through which it operates, as formerly. These are Baltimore County, Anne Arundel and Prince Georges Counties.

Municipal authorities of Annapolis and the county commissioners of Anne Arundel bitterly opposed the exemption law from the outset, but the railroad mustered sufficient friends to put it through during the closing days of the Assembly.

Aside from Baltimore City, Anne Arundel County is hardest hit of any of the other units by loss of revenue, $25,000 per annum. The county commissioners have made up the levy and taking cognizance of the proposed railroad exemption an increase of several cents in the general rate was necessary. It is said, however, that this increase can be eliminated, if the referendum is granted

Banker Asks End Of $2 Bill 'Curse'

Discontinuance of This Item Is Urged on Government by Seattle Man.

Seattle, June 30 (U.P.).—The best way for Uncle Sam to eliminate the "curse" of the $2 bill is to discontinue making the bill, believes C. R. Shaw, manager of the Seattle branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Two dollar bills are looked upon as nuisances by bankers and the people alike. Nobody seems to want them, and although people of the West are not so superstitious about them as those in the East, they prefer other bills, and the $2 currency could be withdrawn without inconvenience to anybody, Shaw thinks.

"Remarkably few $2 bills are circulated here," he said. "Last month we distributed 16,500, as compared with 229,000 $1 bills, and only a small percentage of the ones and twos we circulate ever return. The only explanation I have is that Seattle residents prefer silver dollars to small currency, and the $1 and $2 bills, therefore, must get into the possession of tourists who take them away."

Joseph I. France Reveals Platform

Former Maryland Senator, Presidency Aspirant, Recalls Warning.

Special to The Washington Post.

Havre de Grace, Md., June 30.—Discussing some of the issues upon which he will make a bid for the Republican nomination for the Presidency, former United States Senator Joseph Irwin France, of Port Deposit, Md., addressed the Havre de Grace Kiwanis Club tonight and said:

"Immediately after the armistice I predicted that Germany would be unable to pay the reparations fixed against her and that the attempt of nations to pay debts to other nations would involve disorder to commerce, dislocate international finance and invite world economic disaster. I proposed a plan for the cancellation of the debts without a serious sacrifice by the United States. I urged upon the Senate the need for an international economic conference and a plan for a permanent orderly concert of the nations for financial rehabilitation and the promotion of justice, lasting peace and permanent welfare. I further urged upon President Harding after he was elected, and upon prominent members of his Cabinet, immediate and masterful action with reference to the problem of the international debts in order that the crisis, in which we now are, might be averted.

The former Maryland senator asserted that demoralized prices for wheat and commodities are due to the destruction of purchasing power by unemployment and the enormous growth of national deficits with their resultant economic distress.

ORANGE HORSE SHOW ISSUES PRIZE LIST

Exhibition to Begin July 22; 35 Classes Will Take Part in Events.

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., June 29.—The prize list of the thirty-second annual exhibition of the Orange Horse Show and Racing Association, to be held at the horse show grounds, just out of Orange, on July 22 and 23, made its appearance today. In all, 35 classes will be shown this year—for hunter improvement breeding, ponies, saddle horses, hunters and jumpers, ladies' hunters and hunt teams. Entries close July 10. Each day's performance will close with two races across-country over a flagged course.

As usual, hunting classes will predominate. The trophy in the event for 4-year-old hunters, or under, will be presented by Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville. Mrs. Somerville will also present a trophy in the class for hunt teams.

The Montpelier Trophy will be awarded in the saddle classes for the best park saddle horse that has never won a blue ribbon prior to 1931.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dunnington, of Orange, offer the Montebello cup to the winner in the event for horses owned by residents of Orange County that have never won a blue ribbon in a recognized horse show prior to 1931.

The winner of the Old Guard class will receive a cup, presented by E. B. Sydnor, of Richmond. This event is open only to riders who have either been members, prior to 1906, of an organized hunt, or, if invited, to have ridden to hounds prior to that year.

The plate in the class for jumps, open to all, will be presented by the National Bank of Orange. The class for ladies' hunters, suitable for and to be ridden by a lady, will be presented by Mrs. R. M. Brady, of Rapidan.

Cash awards will be made in each of the six pony classes.

Coldest Lake Thaws Weeks Ahead of Time

Banff, Alberta, June 30 (A.P.).—One of the world's coldest lakes, normally frozen solid for 46 weeks of every year, is suddenly free of ice six weeks earlier than usual.

It is the first time in the memory of white men here that Lake McArthur, 1½ miles in thhe Canadian Rockies, has not been frozen until mid-July at the earliest.

The phenomenon is attributed to persistent high winds and abnormally high winter temperatures which have prevailed since January. Ordinarily a nearby glacier keeps the lake cluttered with huge chunks of ice even in August.

VIRGINIANS TO STUDY TREATMENT OF SOIL

Three-Day Conference at V. P. I. Will Consider Proper Fertilizers.

Blacksburg, Va., June 30 (A.P.).—Virginia soils and the proper fertilizers to be used upon them will be considered at a three-day conference by fertilizer dealers and salesmen, farmers and others interested at Virginia Polytechnic Institute July 8 to 10 under direction of the agronomy department.

Lectures on composition of soils and fertilizers will form an important part of the program as arranged by G. W. Patteson, agronomist of the Agricultural Experiment Station. At the morning session July 8 Prof. T. B. Hutcheson, head of the agronomy department, will speak about the origin, formation, character, and fertilizer requirements of Virginia soils. How a soil survey is made will be discussed by Prof. Patteson, who is making soil surveys of various counties in Virginia. Dr. S. A. Wingard, plant pathologist at V. P. I., and Dr. W. B. Ellett, agricultural chemist, are on the morning program.

That afternoon W. E. Hearn, of the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils of the United States Department of Agriculture, will lead a field trip to study soils. That evening Charles J. Brand, executive secretary and treasurer of the National Fertilizer Association, Washington, will speak about "Farm Prosperity—the Road to General Prosperity," and John R. Hutcheson, director of the V. P. I. agricultural extension division, will speak about "Extension Policies on Commercial Cooperation."

T. S. Buig, agronomist, of the Superphosphate Institute of Washington; C. J. Callister, potash educational bureau, New York, and Dr. Oswald Schreiner, Bureau of Chemistry and Soils of the United States Department of Agriculture, will consider technical aspects of fertilizer at Thursday's session. Dr. N. A. Pettinger, Prof. Hutcheson, Prof. Patteson, Prof. Teske, all of V. P. I., also are on the program. A visit to the experiment station plant and orchard has been arranged for the afternoon.

Dr. Schreiner, Prof. John W. Sjogren, W. H. Byrne, and Prof. Hutcheson will continue technical discussions Friday morning. Prof. Patteson will give the college fertilizer recommendations for various crops and soils. That afternoon farm machinery will be exhibited, and tours to nearby places of interest may be taken.

Growth of Luther League Revealed

125 Delegates Attend Convention Held at Winchester.

Winchester, Va., June 30.—Steady growth in membership and financial strength was reported at business sessions today of the tenth annual convention of the Luther League of the Lutheran Synod of Virginia. Approximately 125 accredited delegates are attending meetings in Grace Lutheran Church, with scores of visitors from churches within a 50-mile radius.

Miss Vivian Cronk, president, Salem, is presiding. The Rev. Paul L. Royer, league chaplain, Bluefield, W. Va., spoke this afternoon on "The Word's Best Seller." Miss Pearle Lyerly, deaconess New York, discussed, "Youth Faces the Future," and Miss Florence Fray, Madison, Va., presided at a junior intermediate rally.

Fraternal messages were received at the afternoon session from leagues of other synods. An oratoral contest was held between representatives of several contests, winners to be announced later. Miss Heath Stickley, Stephens City, Va., presided. The Rev. L. W. Strickler, Norfolk, and the Rev. Luther A. Thomas, Winchester, were principal speakers at the annual banquet tonight, with Charles Kover, Winchester League president, toastmaster.

New Berry Is Grown For Michigan Trade

Jackson, Mich., June 30 (U.P.).—A new berry, a cross between the raspberry, the blackberry and dewberry is being popularized by the State department of agriculture. It is called the "Youngberry" and is said to be a better product for commercial growth than any of its forbears.

ALEXANDRIA STREET OPENING SCHEDULED

Seventeen City Blocks of Mount Vernon Boulevard to Be Ready Friday.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The whole of Washington street, which has been closed to traffic during the construction of the Mount Vernon Boulevard, of which that street is a part, will be opened to traffic at noon Friday, making available this stretch of approximately seventeen city blocks, according to an announcement made by Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, after a conference with the contractors and engineers for the Government, who have charge of this construction work. This will afford motorists the use of a 40-foot roadway the entire length of the street.

The barriers on the street will be removed at noon, and the expected heavy Independence Day traffic will be able to use the road without making any detours as are at present necessary.

There are two 15-foot strips on the sides of the new roadway yet to be completed, and this work will be started at once. A number of owners of gasoline filling stations along the route have arranged with the contractors to use a quick-setting cement in front of their places of business, they to pay the difference in cost, in order to reduce the 14-day wait for the ordinary cement to set after being laid. A roadway, in which this cement is used can, it is understood, be opened to traffic 24 hours after being laid.

All traffic except motor trucks will be permitted on the new roadway, although this will not prevent trucks making deliveries on Washington street.

After the completion of the 15-foot side strips of concrete, parking on Washington street will be allowed, a limit of one hour being placed, and until these strips are completed there will be no parking permitted.

The work of placing the asphalt surfacing on this street will be started July 15, and this work will be done one block at a time, the only inconvenience to persons living on the particular block undergoing treatment being the fact that it will be closed for 24 to 36 hours. The asphalt dressing will be approximately 2 inches in thickness.

The barricades on Washington street from King to Franklin street were removed yesterday, and the use of both sides of this section permitted. Only the west side from King street to Montgomery street is at present open

Wilmer H. Scott, trading as the Palace Cleaners and Dyers, has entered suit in the Corporation Court to recover damages in the sum of $10,000 from George P. Marshall, trading as Palace Laundry Dying and Cleaning.

In his bill he recites that for the last ten years he has used the name of Palace Cleaners and Dyers and his establishment is well known in northern Virginia. The defendant during the last month or two, he alleges, has opened a place of business at 705 King street, trading under the name of Palace Laundry Dyers and Cleaners. He further claims his business has been greatly damaged in the infringement by the defendant on the trade name adopted and used by the complainant; that the general public has been confused because of the similarity and likeness of both names and the public led to believe because of such similarity and likeness of trade names that both establishments are owned in whole or part by the complainant, which has caused the complainant embarrasment in explaining to customers that he has nothing to do nor any connection with the establishment of the defendant or the trade name used and adopted.

The complainant also seeks to enjoin and restrain deefndant from the further use of name now used, claiming that otherwise his business eventually will be ruined.

The first Negro American Legion Post to be organized in this city, the William Thomas Post, No. 129, has received its charter from National American Legion headquarters and elected the following officers: L. O. Broadneck, commander; Sherman Majors, first vice commander; James McCallant, second vice commander; Richard Hollinger, adjutant; George Wilson, finance officer; William Dixon, chaplain, and William Tibbs, sergeant at arms.

The post is organized with a charter membership of 20, and is named for the only Negro from this city who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War.

Julian F. Chauncey was the speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club held yesterday at the George Mason Hotel, and gave an interesting talk on "Facts on Meat," giving figures on the meat industry in America.

Fred C. Goodnow, recently elected president of the Rotary Club, presided for the first time, and introduced Marshall Snyder, the boy who made an unsuccessful attempt on June 20 to rescue William C. Gillium, 9 years old, who fell into Hunting Creek. Club singing was led by Everette Swan, with Mrs. Anna Meeks at the piano.

Robert P. Whitestone, general chairman for the annual outing of Alexandria Lodge, No. 1076, Loyal Order of Moose to North Beach, Md., July 3, 4 and 5, stated yesterday he expects the event to attract a large crowd. Dr R. B. Bailey is chairman of athletic events and will be assisted by Julian Whitestone.

A truck of the Alexandria Water Co. filled with hay caught fire from the dump at the north end of Washington street, about 11 o'clock yesterday morning and was destroyed. Engine company No. 4 responded to the alarm.

In the month of June, Clerk of the Corporation Court Elliott F. Hoffman collected $2 268.25 in prohibition fines.

110 Doctorless Towns Disclosed in Vermont

Burlington, Vt., June 30 (U.P.).—There are 110 doctorless towns in Vermont, a recent survey by State officials disclosed. Thirty-four per cent of Vermont's 458 physicians are located in cities and an additional 33 per cent in towns of more than 2,500 population.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WAR IS WAR.

ONE thing is made certain by the debt suspension proposal and talk of ultimate cancellation: It will be pretty hard for any country to get a backer for its next war.

• • • •

When another world war breaks out it will probably have to be financed on a pay-as-you-enter plan. In the last conflict, it now seems fairly clear that we stood, at Armageddon and battled for the I. O. U.'s.

• • • •

Anybody could get into that affair, and nearly everybody did, but Uncle Sam alone showed any inclination to reach for the check. And after twelve years he realizes it was a great strategic error.

• • • •

America was sold the war on the theory that she was fighting for liberty, civilization, democracy, noble ideals and international honor, but all she got out of it was near-beer, liberty cabbage, Al Capone, the 15-cent bag of peanuts and an orange-drink stand on every corner.

• • • •

Great Britain got the dole, Mahatma Gandhi, Aircraftsman Shaw, "Journey's End," Philip Suffling Scott and bigger and better fogs. France got the Nixon-Nirdlinger killing, the Lindbergh flight, thinner soups and a situation which had made it obligatory to hold cabinet meetings in revolving doors.

• • • •

ITALY got Mussolini, Primo Carnera, ice skating on the Venetian canals in October, a visit from Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., and an apology from Smedley Butler.

• • • •

Canada got the bulk of the American liquor business, Russia got criminal trials by radio, Roumania got Carol back and Holland got Wilhelm the Great. Will all nations wishing to express satisfaction at the results kindly signify in the usual manner?

• • • •

The only person who seems to have come out of the World War without any debt complications and with his finances all in good shape is the former Kaiser.

• • • •

He is relatively in a soft spot. And if he hasn't been happy since the war he must be happy today, when he sees the United States paying the bills.

We went into the war to make the world safe for democracy, but what we did was to make it unsafe for collectors.

• • • •

THE attitude toward war debts now seems to be very much the attitude of certain financial wizards toward securities in the summer of 1929: "Put 'em away and forget 'em."

• • • •

It was a great war on paper, and little did we think as we listened to those 1917 denunciations of all things German that we would some day be leading a charity drive for Germany as one of the "one hundred neediest cases." But war is war, especially when the bills and profit and loss statements come in.

• • • •

Germany is to be allowed one year's suspension of debt payments, and she will probably decide to take them in twelve different Aprils.

• • • •

Still, it may be all for the best. It is probably better to help your customers out of the hole than to get in with them.

• • • •

"War is hell!" said Gen. Sherman. And it is the outstanding regret of every nation mixed up in the last one that no better profanity can be dug up for the occasion.

EASTWARD HO!

The Winnie Mae, the Winnie Mae—
She finds an ocean flight mere play;
The world is just her oyster patty—
Three cheers for Post, and three for Gatty.

IMA DODO can't understand why the iceman was so abusive when he called to collect for the ice today and she told him "Haven't you heard that not paying any debts for a year is the only way to save the world?"

Radio announcers have gone on a strike in Buenos Aires, which may be a great boon for South American travel.

MONDAY.

Our week-end guests have left us!
Hooray! Hooray! Hooray!
Our week-end guests have vanished—
They all went home today.

The house is nice and quiet;
It was an awful strain,
With one Last Awful Moment—
THEY AMOST MISSED THE TRAIN!

Viking Sword Unearthed Bears Engraved "Amen"

Koenigsberg, June 30 (A.P.).—A Viking sword bearing the inscription "Amen" on the blade was unearthed in Lochstadt, near here.

The inscription indicates the presence of Christian missionaries in East Prussia as early as Viking times.

Legislative Pay Raise Is Termed Ineffectual

Austin, Tex., June 29 (U.P.).—Legislators do not work any better at $10 a day than $5, many Texans have decided after allowing an increase of legislative pay and a session of 120 days. No more was accomplished than in former 90-day sessions with $5 a day pay. The joke is on the voters, for they can not change the pay back to the old standard.

BAPTIST CONVENTION IS ATTENDED BY 500

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 30.—More than 500 delegates, mainly from Baltimore, Washington and points in Virginia and West Virginia, attended the conferences of the annual summer assembly of the Maryland State Baptist assembly at Braddock Heights today.

The principal speakers were Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, president of the Southern Baptist convention and president of Furman University, Greenville, S. C.; Dr. H. Hersey Davis, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., and Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist Church, Atlanta, Ga.

Leaders of the church directed conferences for pastors of Maryland and the District of Columbia training school for Sunday school workers, study course for Baptist young people's workers and the State Woman's Missionary Union.

Dr. McGlothlin Is Speaker.

Dr. McGlothlin spoke on Russia and described how the revolution has effected that country politically, educationally, socially and religiously. He explained the five-year plan projected by the present communistic government and showed the possible effects upon the economic life of the United States if the five-year plan is successful and the products of Russia are brought into competition with American products under the present standards of living in this country.

He warned Americans that the situation in Russia will have to be reckoned with and indicated the prospect of the greatest economic war the world has ever known.

The outlook for social conditions is brighter and shows some sign of improvement with a tendency toward reestablishment of the home after the reign of forces which tended to destroy home life, it was said. The fact that woman in Russia has been placed on exact equality with man and must be a bread winner the same as they was described, it being said that in cases of divorce, which are most numerous, the woman is allowed no alimony, although financial settlement is made on children.

Tells of Five-Year Plan.

The five-year plan is progressing satisfactorily among centralized groups, but the farming and more cultured classes do not support it so whole-heartedly as the industrialists, it was observed. A decadence of culture, for which Russia was formerly noted, is seen on all sides and an education is for practical purposes.

The religious outlook was described as black, the only "religion" in Russia today being atheism, or lack of religion. The tomb of Lenin is the greatest shrine in Russia, but no one can fortell the future and "the human heart may yet reassert itself," the speaker said.

Dr. McGlothlin lived in Germany for five years.

Mrs. J. M. Lawson, Waco, Tex., will be the speaker Friday night, and on Saturday night Dr. E. W. Sikes, president of Clemson College, Clemson, S. C., will make an address on "Our Presidents." The sessions of the pastors' conference, training school for Baptist young people union workers, women's missionary union convention and the Maryland-District of Columbia Bible class conference, units of the assembly, which convened simultaneously yesterday, will conclude Sunday. The second annual conference of the intermediate, young people's and adult Bible classes and home and extension departments, the final unit of the assembly will convene July 4 for two days, which will conclude the assembly.

Arizona Buys Many Products of Mexico

Nogales, Ariz., June 30 (U.P.).—Arizona is a better market for Mexican products than Mexico is for Arizona products, judging from import and export figures for a recent 30-day period which showed that exports valued at $570,582 cleared through this major Arizona port of entry, while imports from Mexico were valued at $1,368,463.

Swedish Crematories Are Gaining in Favor

Stockholm, June 30 (U.P.).—Cremation is gaining favor in Sweden, where there are at present seven crematories: Two in Stockholm and one each in Gothenberg, Orebro, Helsingborg, Lulea and Venersborg. Falun may soon have a crematory of its own, as may Malmo, Sweden's third largest city, and Kiruna, located in the iron ore district of Swedish Lapland
